FRENCH DREAM OF UNITED ISLAM TO STOP ITALY

18 Million Would Be Welded in Empire.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 25.—[By Mail.]—In the struggle for domination of the Mediterranean between the obviously rising Italian military power and the seemingly waning French power, the attitude of France's colonial subjects is an important and unpredictable factor.

If the more than 18 million Moslems of Tunisia, Algeria, and Morocco staged anything like a mass insurrection France's military power in Africa would be reduced to zero and the Italians would merely have to walk in and occupy Tunisia—as a starter.

Not only that, but France likewise would be crippled as a military power on the European continent. An Italian victory, even without massive German assistance, would be almost a certainty.

Recall World War Aid.

On the other hand, if those 18 million Moslems, of whom there are 2,300,000 in Tunisia, not only remain loyal to France but can be trusted to fight against any foreign invader without supervision and to supply the continental French army with African effectives up to the limit of their fighting capacity, then the military picture is a very different one.

In the world war Africa supplied France with some 2,000,000 combatants. Today it could supply many more. In case of war with Italy, however, most of them probably would be kept in Africa and used there.

Some French enthusiasts — visionaries or geniuses, it's hard to say which—go much further than merely trying to keep the Moslems loyal. They dream of a single North African state under French guidance and protection, a sort of Moslem dominion, animated with the same patriotic energy which enabled Turkey under Attaturk to grow into a modern state.

Picture a Powerful Empire.

Such an empire, these Frenchmen argue, would be invulnerable to foreign propaganda, would develop an industrial basis at present lacking, would support a much larger population than at present, and militarily would be so strong that Italy would have to give up all dreams of conquest.

Such an empire would supply the young and vigorous elements which are lacking in continental France in the same way that the British dominions keep England's empire from crumbling to pieces.

It seems clear that the future evolution of French North Africa must be along one of these lines, but even after several weeks' stay in Tunisia it is hard to form an opinion as to which of them is most likely.

Little Racial Tension.

One thing is quite evident. There is amazingly little racial tension between rulers and subjects. Tunisians of every grade of society, some dressed in European clothes with only the red native chechia—Tunisian version of the fez—to distinguish them, some wearing the hooded desert burnouse, others sporting a hybrid costume featured by a bath towel wrapped around the head and garters worn below the trouser cuff for show, can be seen strolling about the streets of Tunis or lolling in the cafés as if they owned the country.

They have little or no racial inferiority complex, because the French never have given them one. A French waiter will kick a poorly dressed native out of a European café and be obsequious to a richly dressed one. The contrast with an Italian or a British colony is very striking.

What is still more significant is that the night clubs in Tunis are stocked with French dancing girls, who are extremely popular with the wealthier young bloods of the native aristocracy. The French do not look upon this as race pollution. It is just reciprocity, because their young officers rather like the native dancing girls.

French Also Can Be Tough.

At the same time the records show that French police and officers have no qualms about using bludgeons—or even machine guns—in suppressing anything resembling sedition. Apparently this mixture of toughness and broadmindedness is exactly what

BETTY GRABLE, STRICKEN ON SET, LOSES APPENDIX

The actress was stricken on the set of Jack Benny's "Man About Town," in which she is appearing in Hollywood.

ACCUSES GLASS OF FALSEHOODS; WHACKS AT NYE

Aroused by Veto of Court Appointee.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this afternoon fired another barrage in the name-calling war he declared last week against United States senators and newspapers.

Senator Glass.

At a press conference no less sensational than that of last week in which he branded as a deliberate lie senatorial reports that he had fixed the Rhine as America's first line of defense, he thrice accused Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] of falsehoods and inferentially accused Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] of being a traitor to his country.

The attack on Senator Glass came in a 2,000 word letter to Floyd Roberts, whose recess appointment as a federal judge in Virginia was rejected yesterday by a crushing vote.

Challenges Veto Right.

In the letter the President argued that no one — senator, governor, or any one else—has the right of veto over a presidential nomination. He stamped one statement made by Glass as "not square with the facts," and said two others were untrue.

The inferential attack on Senator Nye came during a denial of reports that this government had made a highly secret device developed for anti-aircraft defense available to the British government. Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that there had been confusion between making a "universal director" and a "universal detector" available to the British.

The former is a calculator obtained originally from the British. The new detector, if this country has one, he said, is a sacred military secret and should not have been hinted at by any one who has the nation's interests at heart.

Mr. Roosevelt made no mention of Senator Nye, but in reading a newspaper account of the reported release of the director he slashed at the person responsible for the story and at papers for printing it. The reporters were aware to a man that Senator Nye had prompted the story by an announcement that he would investigate reports that the secret had been made available to Britain.

Assails Virginia Senators.

In his letter to Roberts, Mr. Roosevelt described the jurist as an unfortunate and innocent victim of an attempt on the part of Senator Glass and his colleague, Senator Harry F. Byrd, to dictate to the White House.

Before the senate judiciary committee Glass and Byrd had declared the Roberts appointment was personally obnoxious and objectionable to them. They charged that the nomination was a plot to take federal patronage from them and turn it over to Gov. James H. Price of Virginia.

Senator Glass told the senate committee that he had asked the President for an expression on newspaper reports that patronage had been turned over to the governor and Roberts was to receive the nomination.

Attack on Veracity.

The first attack on Glass' veracity came in a paragraph in the letter to Roberts, which referred to the senator's testimony.

"You will recognize from what I have written you that as far back as last March, in reply to Senator Glass' letters, I told him categorically that I never answered any questions relating to the credibility of newspaper articles, and I asked him to forget the newspaper article altogether," the President wrote.

"Therefore the statement of Senator Glass to the committee does not square with the facts."

The second and third challenges of the senator also were directed at his speech before the committee.

"At the end of his speech Senator Glass says, 'Mr. Cummings never had the slightest idea of giving consideration to the recommendations of the two Virginia senators because the governor of Virginia had been promised the right of veto on nominations that they make.' Neither of these statements is true," the letter said.

Spanish Loyalists Refuse to End War

NICE TRICK IF HE CAN DO IT

Labor Warned Radicals Can't Run Michigan

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Mayor Daniel A. Knaggs of Monroe, Mich., who freed his home town from the grip of C. I. O. storm troopers after they had defied the state government, today was appointed a commissioner of the department of labor and industry by Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Five members of the commission are paid $5,000 a year and the chairman gets $6,000. Knaggs was not designated chairman.

When Mayor Knaggs was informed of the appointment he said he was pleased and would do his best in the job. He complimented Gov. Fitzgerald and indicated their labor policies would coincide. "The governor is doing wonderful work, especially on his labor relations policy," Knaggs said. "I am in favor of lawful picketing, but employers also have rights that must be upheld. The problem today is a matter of respecting the rights on both sides."

Warning to Radicals.

The new Republican governor's decisive act was interpreted as notice to radical labor forces that he will not tolerate their attempted dictation of his administration.

National attention was focused on Knaggs in June, 1937, by his firm methods in saving Monroe for her home folk during a strike in the Newton Steel plant there. The C. I. O. had threatened to take the town if the steel company didn't submit to its demands.

Plea for Aid Ignored.

Knaggs acted after a majority of the Monroe steel workers had voted to return to their jobs, but were prevented by a belligerent force of out-of-town pickets. His plea for troops ignored by Frank Murphy, then pro-labor governor, Knaggs deputized 650 men as special police.

At the head of his home army of professional men, business men, and farmers armed with rabbit guns, target pieces and clubs, the mayor drove the C. I. O. forces out of town. The steel mill employés went back to work.

BEES PUT BEE ON OLD MAN WINTER; EARLY SPRING IS FORECAST

When the sun was warmest yesterday and the snowbanks dripped pools of water on the sidewalks, Mrs. William Andress, of 685 East Chicago street, Elgin, heard, incredulously, a hum of bees. The buzzing, she discovered, came from a crevasse in a large catalpa tree in her front yard where wild bees have their hive every summer. The bees buzzed and swarmed distractedly around the tree for the rest of the day, returning to the hive with nightfall. She said she regards their brief appearance as a harbinger of spring. They've never been seen before April in her memory.

25 CENT HAIRCUT CHAMP ARRIVES AT A NEW IDEA

Stillwater, Okla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—W. L. Tennyson, the barber who thinks a quarter is enough for a haircut, is back in jail again. Tennyson believes the state barber price-fixing law is unconstitutional. As a result he has been in jail five times and paid two fines.

Today Tennyson and another barber, W. H. Roton, were arraigned for the second time in four days for charging a quarter for haircuts, while the price set by the barber association here under the state law is forty cents.

"I'm beginning to think this isn't a free country," Tennyson said after his hearing.

Tennyson once carried his fight to the Supreme court, which upheld the law.

Collector of Wishbones Dies at 72; Had Over 3,000

Monticello, Ind., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Alva Hanawalt, who collected wishbones of fowls, is dead at the age of 72 years. Until the last, hospital attendants said today, he hoped for arrival of an ostrich's wishbone that had been promised by a friend in the west. His collection contained more than 3,000 wishbones.

Bingo Loses the Last Thing He Has in a Freak Blaze

Bingo, a toy bulldog owned by Charles Jones of 1017 Center street, Elgin, was asleep yesterday on an old sweater. He scratched. The scratch ignited a match in the sweater pocket and set fire to the house. Bingo howled. Firemen saved the house, but Bingo's tail was a total loss.

Time May Tell $4,000 Secret, but Don Won't

The young man who knew all about the missing $4,000 diamond wrist watch wouldn't talk, so——

A crew of plumbers pounded and probed and wrenched at pipes yesterday in the Chester D. Tripp home at 1404 Forest avenue in Evanston. They methodically followed the turns and bends of the water system down into the basement.

There they called for bigger wrenches and pounded louder than ever. But they found not a trace nor a tick of the tiny timepiece. They'll be back at work this morning.

A Fellow Who Won't Talk.

The young man who wouldn't talk about the watch is Donald Nelson, 3 years old, the Tripps' grandson. Donald lives in California and he's here on a visit. He was playing in Mrs. Tripp's boudoir when she came home Monday afternoon.

She put her hat on the dressing table, then took off several rings and the watch and put them beside it. The watch, set with marquise diamonds on each side, was on a platinum band set with smaller diamonds and sapphires.

Donald watched his grandma with great interest. When she left the room he stayed behind.

Donald Becomes a Suspect.

On Monday evening Mrs. Tripp came into the boudoir to get a handkerchief. Her hat was gone from the table. She found it in the far corner of the room. A sapphire ring likewise had disappeared. She found that on the floor of a guest bathroom.

The wrist watch was gone, too. After finding the ring Mrs. Tripp had strong suspicions of where Donald had thrown the watch. The place she had in mind also was in the guest bathroom.

But she first considered other possibilities. He couldn't have swallowed it because of the band. There was no sign of a visit from burglars. The servants were tried and trusted. Mrs. Tripp was worried because the watch was so valuable and was uninsured.

'Where Tick-Tock? He Asks.

Donald was questioned. Yes, he knew what a tick-tock was. Where was grandma's tick-tock? He wouldn't talk. Was it down there? Well——

Donald still wouldn't talk, but there was a new light in his eyes. He suddenly wanted to go elsewhere and play. "Where tick-tock?" he repeated as he toddled away.

Seventy-eight men and women who came from foreign lands won American citizenship yesterday. They were welcomed to their new estate by Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal court in a ringing address on Americanism.

They came from many lands. Fifty-five were from Poland, ten from Sweden, eight from Greece, two from Mexico, and one each from Persia, Hungary, and Holland. Most of them are middle aged. There were forty-five men and thirty-three women.

Learn America Is "You and I."

Standing beside the American flag, Judge Igoe said:

"All of you are now citizens. I congratulate you. You are a part of the government symbolized by this flag. We think this is the greatest country on which the sun did ever shine.

"A moment like this could not occur in any other nation in the world. The people who builded this country guaranteed you freedom and liberty. This country is not merely buildings, or great wealth, or great lakes and rivers. Those are parts of America, but America means you and I.

"You can make this a bigger, more glorious nation by living up to the ideals and principles of Americanism. All of you have the same opportunity—rich and poor alike—but only if you uphold the laws.

Need Not Forget Own Lands.

"You need not forget your native land, your native songs and literature. Keep those things alive. America wants only your allegiance and faith and loyalty, and you will be repaid a thousandfold in the blessings showered upon you here."

There have been complaints that aliens are inducted into citizenship with little dignity, that the ceremony has sometimes consisted of a mumbled oath from a bored clerk and a word or two from the judge. But this wasn't so yesterday.

The aliens were cordially presented by Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of immigration and naturalization for the Chicago area. The oath was read by the court clerk, Edward H. White Jr.

Oldest of those admitted to citizenship was Leybus Waldman of 1244 North Leavitt street. He is 70, a long bearded Polish Jew.

Sounds Keynote of Gratitude.

"It's great to be an American," he said. "That judge knew what he was talking about. Yes, it's good."

Another of the new citizens is Efren Landeros, a blind native of Mexico, 33 years old. He lives at 4507 South Marshfield avenue with his wife and two children, whom he supports at his trade of piano tuner. The other Mexican who became a citizen is Mrs. Pearl Jiminez, 29 years old, of 4543 Cottage Grove avenue. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

WILL FIGHT ON IN MADRID AND VALENCIA ZONE

Able to Resist for Months, Miaja Says.

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Spanish government officials announced tonight that the hard-pressed Juan Negrin cabinet had decided to continue the fight in defense of the one-fourth of Spanish soil still in its hands.

Foreign Minister Alvarez del Vayo.

The announcement indicated that rebel Generalissimo Franco had repeated his demand for unconditional surrender to end the two and a half years old civil war — an insistence which brought a breakdown in peace negotiations.

The government's decision to fight on was made known shortly after Julio Alvarez del Vayo, loyalist foreign minister conferred at Perpignan with members of the Spanish cortes [parliament] and then crossed the border to Agullana, Spain, for a conference with Premier Negrin.

Can Fight for Months.

"Our government has decided to pursue the fight to the end," Alvarez del Vayo reported. "The means at our disposal in the central zone can permit us to prolong the fight for some months."

Gen. Franco was said to have remained firm in refusing the government's last condition for peace—safe conduct from Spain for leaders of Leftist parties, labor unions, and military forces who are now in the central government zone. Among them are men accused by the rebels of "high crimes." It was reported that France and Great Britain were urging Negrin to withdraw his demand for their safety.

The rebels already had turned down Negrin's three point proposal calling for assurances that a plebiscite would be held for choice of a new Spanish government, that Spain would be freed of foreign influence and that all Spaniards would be permitted to join in the work of reconstruction.

Miaja Leader in Madrid.

Reports came from Central Spain that Gen. Jose Miaja, commander of the Madrid-Valencia zone, was determined on a fight to the finish and was convinced the government, with 500,000 troops, was in "splendid position" to continue the struggle despite the loss of Catalonia.

Diplomats here believe that Gen. Miaja was virtually dictator in the Madrid-Valencia zone. He has been conferring with civil and military leaders in his zone, apparently seeking their views on the turn of events in the northeast.

[At Valencia the 60 year old Miaja, known as the "Savior of Madrid," said in an interview: "As long as there is a plot of ground left in my zone we shall fight on and I hope as we hold out that the democracies will become convinced that it is on our republican soil that the future of millions of people outside Spain will ultimately be decided."]

France and Britain Act.

British and French envoys have been in constant touch with Spanish government and rebel authorities. There were several conferences among Alvarez del Vayo and the British and French envoys to the Spanish government, Ralph Stevenson and Jules Henry, over peace proposals.

London and Paris, it was reported, were considering recognition of Gen. Franco's Burgos administration as the sole official government in Spain as a means of ending the war. But Franco would have to agree to the withdrawal of foreign troops from Spain preceding such recognition.

Britain already has an agent in Burgos and Paris reports said Gen. Franco has given a promise of friendly relations between the "new Spain" and France. Senator Leon Berard, who went to Burgos last week on a semi-official mission, returned to Paris today and reported he had "highly satisfactory" talks with rebel leaders.

Want Minorca Protected.

Because of the French and British campaign to eliminate German and Italian influence from Spain, Premier Negrin was reported to have been persuaded to withdraw that condition as one of the points of a possible loyalist surrender.

London and Paris were particularly insistent that they would not recognize Franco's government if Italian or German forces occupied the Balearic Island of Minorca, which commands France's "life line" to African colonies. The Italians already control the neighboring Island of Mallorca, which has been used as an air base for bombing operations against Spanish loyalist territory.

Premier Negrin remained in Agullana, only three miles from the French border town of Le Perthus, in observance of France's warning that it would not permit the Spanish government to operate on French soil. It was understood he would stay there until the last refugees and soldiers escape to France in front of Franco's advancing armies.

[Puigcerda, a border point sixty miles inland, was reported abandoned by loyalist troops last night. Yesterday fighting still was going on south of Figueras, which the rebels falsely claimed was taken on Sunday.]

Watches Fate of Refugees.

Premier Negrin also was concerned with the disposition of about 300,000 refugees and soldiers who fled in advance of Gen. Franco's Catalonian drive. Most of them are in France. It was expected that on leaving Agullana he would fly to Valencia or Madrid, which were capitals before Barcelona fell to Gen. Franco on Jan. 26.

Carabineros [customs guards] of the Spanish government cleared the refugee jammed road at Le Perthus this afternoon and halted the exodus of government soldiers for a time to evacuate units of the international brigade, including 747 anti-Fascist Italians, Czechs, Latin Americans, and 37 Americans.

The clothes of many were torn, but their military order formed a striking contrast to the constant stream of former Spanish government soldiers who shuffled across the frontier in a mixed and undisciplined exodus.

Veterans Begin to Leave.

LE PERTHUS, France, Feb. 8 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The Enrique Lister brigade, one of the mainstays of the Spanish government army in Catalonia began moving across the frontier into France here shortly after midnight. Passage of the 15th artillery corps of the famous brigade marked the beginning of the exodus of veteran fighting men. Artillery officers said motorized units of the force would come in later today.

Most of the militiamen who arrived yesterday still carried firearms. Nearly all had either rifles of modern type, revolvers or hand grenades. Enormous piles of rifles and other arms were stacked at the frontier.

MINORCA ISLAND PERILED WITHOUT BARCELONA HELP

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 7.—With the fall of Barcelona the situation on the island of Minorca, which has been held by a republican [loyalist] garrison since the outbreak of the Spanish civil war, has become desperate, according to messages here. The island was supplied with food by boat from Barcelona every three weeks. Now its population of 50,000 people is facing starvation and is fearing an attack from the island of Mallorca, controled by the rebels. Minorca is strongly fortified and well armed but without food. The mayor of Port Mahon and other government delegates there insist they cannot hope to withstand an attack.

'Dream Empire' of 18 Million Moslems

French enthusiasts were reported yesterday to be advocating the welding of Tunisia, Algeria, and Morocco into a single North African state under French guidance and protection as an answer to Italy's threat against French territories. Such an empire, they reasoned, would be so strong that Italy would have to give up all dreams of conquest. The diagonally shaded area on the map locates the proposed empire. Distances from French and Italian centers to the African coast are shown.

MOSLEM EMPIRE OF 18 MILLIONS IS FRENCH DREAM

Would Unite Africans Against Italy.

The French have another quality—or policy—which has greatly facilitated their colonial expansion in the Moslem world—respect for Moslem religious susceptibilities and the framework of native social and family life.

So much so that some of the more progressive young Tunisian intellectuals with whom I talked reproached the French with propping up a decayed and out of date social system in order to facilitate their own rule.

Many Complaints of Abuses.

There are many complaints of abuses in the administration of the local caids [governors] and sheiks [mayors]. No doubt it was much worse before the French occupation, but this argument does not silence the carpers. They allege that the French simply bribe the native aristocracy to indorse the occupation by letting them bleed their fellow citizens. Like most statements of this sort, there is probably a good deal of truth and a good deal of exaggeration in it.

One charge that certainly is true is that the French regularly buy off any rising Tunisian leader who seems likely to acquire a popular following and cause trouble for them. All the leaders cannot be bought.

The most respected one, Habiba Burguiba, and the elite of the Tunisian intelligentsia are now in jail because of the Destourian riots last April. They probably would have been released by now if fresh demonstrations for their release had not occurred during Premier Edouard Daladier's recent visit here.

Destourians Are Disunited.

The Destour—literally constitution—menace has passed for the time being. Some of the former Destaurians want mild home rule, others full autonomy. Some want to continue the monarchist form of the state but with less French interference, others are violent republicans.

The French are well pleased with this state of affairs. They think that if they can keep the opposition disunited they have nothing to worry about. But it is not only the opposition which is disunited.

The pro-French natives—there are some—are likewise divided. Some think the present system is satisfactory. They believe that the Tunisians are incapable of governing themselves and that instead of thinking about it should pursue purely cultural and religious aims, leaving administration in the hands of the French.

Others dream of becoming French citizens, thus completely eliminating the nationalist element from colonial politics.

The result of all this is that Tunisian politics—to a lesser extent Algerian and Moroccan politics, too—is a whirling chaos. This chaos makes it easier to police North Africa, but it leaves the burden of administration almost wholly to the French which may not be the unmixed blessing that it seems. That, however, is what the French want for the moment.

HEAR FRENCH BANKER OFFERS ITALY PART OF ADDIS ABABA RAILWAY

ROME, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Paul Baudouin, president of the Bank of Indo-China, was believed in diplomatic circles today to be sounding out Italians privately on the possibility of transferring to Italy at least partial control of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad.

The French controled railroad has been described here as suffering since Italy several months ago began diverting her trafic with Ethiopia away from Djibouti, French port on the gulf of Aden.

[Some Paris observers believed Baudouin's trip to Rome might be a French overture to Italy for a peaceful settlement of problems arising from the Spanish civil war.]

POT OF COFFEE KILLS BABY.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Ronald Allan Ehrlich, 10 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ehrlich of Bloomington, died here today from burns. He was scalded Saturday when he pulled a pot of boiling coffee off a stove.

INSISTS ITALIANS HELP FRANCO WIN 'POLITICAL WAR'

Duce's Mouthpiece Cites 4 Points for Full Victory.

ROME, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Italy's determination to aid Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel leader, until he has won a "political" as well as military victory in Spain was reaffirmed today by Virginio Gayda, Roman editor. He is considered to be Premier Mussolini's spokesman.

Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, however, was reported to have told the earl of Perth, the British ambassador, that Gayda did not represent the government attitude when he wrote previously that Italian troops would stay in Spain until Franco won a full political victory.

Four Points Specified.

Gayda today did not repeat his mention of Italian troops but nevertheless insisted on a continuance of help and specified four points which he said were prerequisites for a complete Franco victory.

Count Ciano similarly disclaimed governmental responsibility for an Italian press campaign and public demonstrations against France in a talk with Lord Perth on Dec. 5, five days after agitation for French territory began.

In an editorial in Il Giornale d'Italia Gayda listed these conditions for a rebel victory in Spain: demobilization of Spanish government forces which had found refuge in France; resignation and dispersal of the government; unconditional surrender by the loyalist army with no armistice negotiations; return of the Bank of Spain's gold stock which the government had deposited abroad.

War Aid Pledge Minimized.

The Fascist press generally minimized the importance of the promise of British help for France in the event of war, made yesterday by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, and said it could in no way be held equal to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's promise of war aid to Italy.

FRENCH SENATE TOLD U. S. IS 'CO-OPERATING' IN A 3 POWER DEAL

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The French senate voted confidence in the government's foreign policy tonight after Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet indicated his policy is based in large part on coöperation with the United States. The vote was 290 to 16.

"Never have relations among France, England, and the United States been better than at present," Bonnet said. "Our three democracies are aware of the immensity of their material and moral force. They know their place in the world, their economic power, and they know that no nation could dream of imposing its hegemony on them."

He said there was no question of this coöperation being directed against any nation and again declared France never would cede an inch of territory to Italy.

LAWYER ADMITS FORGING WILL TO OBTAIN $19,000

Attorney Goodsel F. Henke of Grant Park, in Kankakee county, confessed at the state's attorney's office yesterday that he forged the will of Casimer C. Krzysko in an attempt to obtain his $19,000 estate. Three other men, including two ex-convicts, who admitted signing the fraudulent will as witnesses, are awaiting trial in the Criminal court on charges of conspiracy.

Kenke, who is 50 years old, was arrested Monday by Sergt. Thomas Riley in a room at 4151 South Halsted street. He formerly lived in Chicago. Henke told Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan he forged the will several days after Krzyko's death last June 22 in Chicago Heights. He said he needed the money for his wife and four children.

The alleged plot was uncovered last December after complaints had been made to Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator.

AMLIE ATTACKS ON CAPITALISM TOLD SENATORS

Not Worth Saving, He Says in Article.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A senate interstate commerce subcommittee was told today that Thomas R. Amlie, Wisconsin lame duck Progressive whom President Roosevelt nominated for the interstate commerce commission, predicted in 1933 that the capitalistic system in the United States would be overthrown by other than constitutional means.

Hans Amlie.

Amlie made his prophecy in an article called "The End of Capitalism," published in the October, 1933, issue of the magazine Common Sense. He said the overthrow of the capitalistic system was inevitable and that this was a good thing because "capitalism is not worth saving."

Much Evidence of Radicalism.

The subcommittee received voluminous evidence of Amlie's extreme radicalism as expressed in his speeches, articles and legislative proposals during his six years of service in the house of representatives.

One witness said Amlie was the principal speaker at a communist meeting on South Ashland avenue, Chicago, in 1934 and was introduced as "Comrade Amlie." There also was testimony that his brother, Hans Amlie, served in the so-called Abraham Lincoln brigade of the Spanish Loyalist army, which was recruited in this country by communists.

Amlie has denied that he is a communist and some of his proposals have been criticised by communist spokesmen. The Madison, Wis., Capital Times, organ of the La Follette Progressive party, denounced his industrial expansion bill in the house of representatives as a dictatorship scheme that would set up a fascist-like corporative state.

Appraised as Collectivist.

Senate opponents of Amlie are undecided whether his views are more communistic than Fascist or vice versa. But they are convinced on the basis of the record so far established that he opposes the profit system and private enterprise and advocates a collectivist system in which the state would be absolute.

As a result of the disclosures already made at the Amlie hearing, many informed members of the senate are predicting that the nomination will not be confirmed. The interstate commerce subcommittee of five members, of which Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.] is chairman, is expected to report the nomination adversely by a vote of 3 to 2.

The big battle, however, will come on the senate floor, where southern Democrats, whom Amlie has denounced as tories, will join Republicans in opposing Mr. Roosevelt's choice of an avowed foe of the capitalist system to help regulate the railroad industry.

Keller Defends Him.

The only witness who appeared in Amlie's behalf today was Representative Kent E. Keller [D., Ill.], whose attack last week on the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was found to be almost identical in phraseology with an article in a communist magazine. Keller said Amlie was "one of the greatest thinkers" he had ever met.

Luther M. Walter, Chicago transportation lawyer and co-trustee of the Great Western railroad, read at length from two editions of Amlie's book, "The Forgotten Man's Handbook," to show that the I. C. C. appointee is opposed to private enterprise, and advocates a "liberal program" that "must strike at the roots of the profit system."

Mr. Walter and a subsequent witness, R. C. Fulbright, representing the Southwestern and the National Trafic league—shippers' organizations—both argued that Amlie was wholly unfit, because of his lack of experience and training and because of his theories of government, for the important and highly technical work of the I. C. C.

W. E. Donley of Menominee, Wis., a former Democratic member of the state assembly, told about Amlie's communist associations. He presented a 1933 issue of Soviet Russia Today, organ of the friends of the soviet union, to show that Amlie was a member of the national committee of that communist organization.

A BANDIT PROVES HE'S NO GLUTTON ABOUT ROBBING

The robber didn't say "Gimme dat dough!" On the contrary, he spoke politely, in cultured tones. He said "Please hand me the money in the cash register" and made a significant motion toward his pocket, as if he had a gun.

His first visit late yesterday was at the candy store at 68 West Randolph street, where the clerk is Mrs. Rebecca Lyons, 2455 North Clark street. He got between $10 and $20.

He crossed the street and five minutes later walked into the candy shop at 159 West Randolph. He repeated his courteous command, and got another $12 or $15 from Mrs. Eva Jacobs, 2116 West 119th place.

"That is all I need this evening," the robber said. "Thank you." The candy cavalier bowed and departed.

GEN. KEEHN URGES 11 MORE ILLINOIS GUARD ARMORIES

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, yesterday submitted a report to the governor and the general assembly reviewing the state armory building program and recommending further expansion. The report suggests the construction of eleven additional armories in the following cities: Sterling or Red Rock Falls, Sullivan, Paris, Bloomington, Oak Park, Joliet, Galva, Macomb, Moline, East St. Louis, and Alton. It proposes also the acquisition of additional land at Camp Grant so that training facilities can be increased.

CONGRESS COOL TO NEW DEMAND FOR WPA FUNDS

President Renews Effort to Get 150 Million.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Congressional leaders today gave a cool reception to a special message from President Roosevelt demanding another 150 million dollars for the Work Progress administration in addition to the 725 millions appropriated last week.

The President's loss of authority over congress was illustrated when one of the administration's stalwarts, Representative Edward T. Taylor [D., Colo.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, turned down Mr. Roosevelt's demand for immediate consideration of the additional appropriation.

Taylor said there were six other appropriation bills which his committee would consider before thinking about more money for the WPA. Because each appropriation bill takes a week or more to report and consider in the house, Taylor's announcement was interpreted as a distinct rebuff.

Draws Issue on WPA.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], whose committee handles all relief appropriations, declared that the President's message would only facilitate consideration of his bill to abolish the WPA, slash work relief appropriations in half, and permit the states to spend funds allotted to them.

Members of the senate appropriations committee refrained from public comment because it is the duty of the house, under the constitution, to initiate and approve appropriation bills before they can be considered by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt told congress that he would have vetoed the 725 million appropriation measure if it had not been for the provision that not more than 5 per cent of WPA employés should be discharged during the winter months of February and March.

Calls Appropriation Inadequate.

He recalled that he had asked for 875 millions. He insisted that 725 millions was inadequate. He asserted that "human decency" would not permit even a reduction of 5 per cent in the enrollment before April 1 and that the present figure of three million persons would be maintained during the two months.

The employment of three million will require an expenditure of 886 millions before April 1, he declared. With the remaining 359 millions, there were only two alternatives possible, he argued. One was to discharge a million persons on April 1 and provide an average employment of two million during April, May, and June. The other was to reduce the WPA employment week by week until about 1,500,000 were left on the rolls at the end of June.

"I ask that the congress commence immediate consideration of these simple and alarming facts," the President's message read. He asserted that he wanted an answer by the first week of March. He declared that an emergency existed and that was the reason for sending up a message only three days after he had signed the 725 million appropriation bill.

Criticized by Woodrum.

Woodrum strongly criticized the message.

"The situation obviously has not changed within a week," he said. "When we sent the bill to the White House it was intended that the 725 millions would carry the relief load for the remainder of the fiscal year."

Woodrum condemned the plan, suggested in the President's message, to cut one million persons off the rolls on April 1. He intimated that this was a threat intended to scare congress into restoring the 150 millions.

Leaders of both parties were in agreement that the President has not the slightest chance of getting his extra 150 millions for WPA unless "a true emergency" should arise.

ANN SHERIDAN.

Ripon, Wis., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Tiny Croft [his first name is Milburn and he's a guard on the freshman football team] didn't get a date for the Ripon college prom with Actress Ann Sheridan, but he did get her photograph, so he's happy.

Tiny, who lives in Chicago, was one of the five college "glamor boys" who invited screen actresses to the prom. Miss Sheridan sent regrets and the picture—the only actress to make a personal reply.

FIND FAKE CHECK EQUIPMENT IN SUSPECT'S HOME

Detectives from Englewood station yesterday visited the home of William Manning, Michigan City's commuting check passer, and found three check writing machines and 500 blank checks of four Chicago concerns. They were hidden in a secret compartment in a clothes closet.

Manning is charged with defrauding Chicago merchants of more than $10,000 through bogus checks cashed since 1933. Lieut. Joseph O'Donnell of the Englewood police said 50 complaints had been signed against Manning last night. He was seized Saturday in a south side store.

Manning's wife, Marie, said he was seldom home for long and she knew nothing of his check writing activities.

$800,000 Bonds for Sidley and Farrand as Executors

Racine, Wis., Feb. 7.—(AP)—County Judge J. Allan Simpson today fixed at $800,000 each the bonds William Horlick Sidley and Col. Roy Farrand must post as executors of the estate of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress. Judge Simpson presided at a hearing of Sidley's objections to his mother's will until they were withdrawn as part of an out of court agreement. The estate is estimated at $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

ARMY SERGEANT REPORTED HELD IN SPY INQUIRY

Arrest Linked to Canal Zone Photo Case.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—An American army air corps sergeant was reported held incommunicado tonight by the department of justice in a new espionage investigation.

Government officials refused to divulge any information about the inquiry, but it was reported the suspect was held in connection with the Canal Zone spy case in which two young Germans recently were sent to prison.

The two convicted and two others, also Germans, were arrested last Oct. 16 at Fort Randolph, which defends the Atlantic entrance to the Panama canal. They were permitted to enter the reservation after assuring a sentry they had no camera and later were found making pictures of fortifications.

Take Pictures of Guns.

The pictures they took showed positions of anti-aircraft batteries at Fort Randolph and the big disappearing long range guns at Caleta Point, the northernmost point guarding the Atlantic approach to the canal.

On Jan. 22 Hans Heinrich Schackow, 26 years old, and Ernst Robert Edward Kuhrig, 29, were sentenced in Cristobal, Canal Zone, to serve two years at hard labor.

A later trial was arranged for Gisbert Wilhelm Gross, 26, and Ingeborg Waltrunt Gutman, 19, secretary to the chief of the German Hamburg-American steamship line at Cristobal.

Promise of Aid Told.

During the trial of Kuhrig it was announced that the government expected to bring to the trial of Gross and Miss Gutman an unnamed former soldier who, it was testified, had promised aid to the Germans. The government said the soldier had been traced and would be taken from the United States to Cristobal for the trial.

The espionage activities prompted authorities to tighten their guard on the Panama canal, which is the United States' life line for shifting its navy from the Pacific to the Atlantic in time of emergency. The natural vulnerability of the canal has caused it to be termed the Achilles heel of this country's defense.

ROOSEVELT DEFENSE PLANS UP TO HOUSE; DEBATE TOMORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A 376-million-dollar bill embodying President Roosevelt's defense message suggestions for building up the army against possible attack from dictators, will be considered by congress this week.

The bill was reported unanimously to the house by its military affairs committee today. Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], said it will be called up in the house Thursday.

May said he would seek a rule to limit debate to six hours. This would make possible plans of administration leaders to rush the bill through the house to the senate this week.

The bill follows in general the President's request for 477 million dollars for strengthening the army, particularly in the air. The 110 million dollars asked by the President for the purchase of critical materials, such as reserve guns and ammunition and tool reserves for the making of munitions in the event of war, is not included.

KELLY INSTRUCTS WORKERS TO RUN CLEAN CAMPAIGN

Wants Contest Based on His Record.

Chicago has made fifty years' progress in the six years of his administration, Mayor Kelly declared last night. He urged 5,000 members of the regular Democratic organization that is supporting his candidacy for the mayoral nomination to make the campaign on the record of his administration without malicious attacks on other candidates.

The mayor made his principal address of the evening at an organization massmeeting in a ballroom at 128 North Pulaski road. The 30th, 31st, and 33d through 39th wards were represented. Earlier he addressed a massmeeting in the 3d ward.

Fight for City's Record.

"I'm asking you all to fight for the record of Chicago," the mayor said. "You've got to keep driving right on through the primary to protect that record. But do your driving and vote getting in a dignified way—don't go around tearing down the other candidates."

"When you are in power you call yourself an organization. Those on the outside try to give the organization the label of the machine. At the same time those on the outside are trying to build up a machine that will put them into power."

The mayor said he is proud of the records compiled by the police and fire departments, the division of public works, and other departments of the city government.

"I'm not running alone for the job of mayor of Chicago," he said. "All of you are running with me. Our opponents haven't been able to attack any of the members of my cabinet—they have been forced to make unwaranted personal attacks on me."

Calls Charges "Poppycock."

The mayor called poppycock the assertions of his opponents that taxes have been increased under his régime. He pointed out that Chicago operates under a pegged levy of $37,000,000 a year and that state law prohibits the levying of taxes to raise any sum beyond this amount.

He also attacked as untrue charges that there is an alliance of crime and politics in Chicago. He said crime has been reduced since he took office.

The Democratic organization is interested in the welfare of the people as a whole and the people will bear out his assertion that the organization has a heart, Kelly assured his listeners.

The mayor said that he was glad to have as his running mates Ludwig Schreiber and Thomas Gordon, candidates for city clerk and city treasurer.

BORIN ORDERED TO PAY $1,750 TO TWO ATTORNEYS

Judge Martin Gridley, in a directed verdict, yesterday ordered Nathan Borin, head of an art products company, to pay $1,750 in fees to Attorneys John Northup and Henry L. Kane. The two lawyers represented Borin in legal matters in Illinois, California, and Mexico, and had sued for $3,850 which they said he owed them.

In 1935 Borin sued the late Ephraim M. Asher, Hollywood producer, for $500,000, charging alienation of the affections of his wife, Claire, with whom he became reconciled last July after several years of litigation. Northup and Kane said Borin received $11,020 for dropping the suit and that they were to receive 35 per cent of the settlement. Borin, they charged, refused to pay.

CLAYTON SMITH DECLARES HE'S FOR COURTNEY

City Needs Him, Asserts County Board Head.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, yesterday indorsed State's Attorney Courtney for mayor in the Democratic primary Feb. 28. In an open letter Smith, who is Democratic committeeman from the 33d ward, said:

"It is my deliberate and honest conclusion that the welfare of the city of Chicago will be greatly enhanced by the election of that fearless, devoted, and outstanding public servant. Thomas J. Courtney."

In political headquarters the action of the county board head stirred no surprise, as Smith was one of the seven ward committeemen who held aloof from the December meeting of the Democratic city organization which voted to support Mayor Kelly.

Six of Fifty for Courtney.

At Courtney quarters it was said that the count now shows six committeemen out of the fifty lined up for the state's attorney. They are: Horace G. Lindheimer, 5th, ex-county treasurer and candidate on the Courtney ticket for city clerk; Peter J. Brady, 18th, city clerk; John J. Touhy, 27th, sanitary trustee; Martin J. O'Brien, 29th, public administrator; Joseph H. Donahue, 47th, and Smith.

The seventh committeeman who held aloof from the December meeting was Michael J. Flynn, 13th, county clerk. A meeting of the 13th ward organization is announced for tonight, and Flynn may announce his personal attitude today or at the meeting.

Lindheimer, in a radio talk last night, said that because he would not take orders he was denied a place on the ticket last year although commended for his record as county treasurer by the Democratic organization. He spoke of the opposition of the organization to County Judge Jarecki and to Gov. Horner in 1936.

Know Where He Stands.

"You people who believe Gov. Horner has made a good governor know where Judge Jarecki stands, with Tom Courtney," Lindheimer said. "You know where Martin J. O'Brien, chief of the Horner campaign forces stands. You know where Horace Lindheimer stands. Above all you know where Tom Courtney stands: With the people and against the machine. We will go forward with Courtney as mayor. Under Kelly the best Chicago can hope for is to stand still."

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, former Democratic national committeewoman, put out a statement for Courtney yesterday.

"The fog over Chicago is the fog of a political machine," she said. "I'm for Tom Courtney for mayor because he has kept his word with the people. He said he would attack the alliance between crime and politics, and he kept his word."

Political Notes

Joseph L. Gill, secretary of the Democratic city committee, announced that eight of the ten Democrats on the county board had joined in an indorsement of Mayor Kelly. They are Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, Daniel Ryan, John E. Traeger, Peter Fosco, Miss Mary McEnerney, Edward Sneed, Fred Fischman and Frank Bobrytzke.

Polish-American backers of State's Attorney Courtney met in the Hotel Sherman and elected Julius F. Smietanka, president; John K. Wieczorek, vice president; Joseph Liszka, executive secretary; Stanley J. Zaucha, recording secretary; Frank J. Lassa, treasurer, and Michael Godek, sergeant at arms.

Ald. Z. H. Kadow [33d] pledged his support of Mayor Kelly. He said the statement was necessary because Clayton F. Smith, Democratic committeeman of the ward, had determined to declare for Courtney.

The Excavating, Grading, Asphalt and Scavenger Chauffeurs Helpers union, No. 731, with 3,000 members, went on record for Courtney through its executive board.

Headquarters of the All-Chicago committee in the Conway building announced that Mrs. Donald I. Graham and other leaders of the Association of Cook County Republican Women had indorsed Mayor Kelly.

The Journeyman Barbers' International Union of America, No. 287, adopted a resolution lauding the accomplishments of State's Attorney Courtney and urging his election as mayor.

Dwight H. Green, Clement A. Nance and John W. Chapman, candidates on the slate of the regular Republican organization, joined in a statement yesterday saying that all solicitations of campaign funds in their names are fraudulent and should be reported to the police.

GREEN INDORSED BY CARL SCHURZ GERMAN GROUP

G. O. P. Candidate Praised at Round Table.

Dwight H. Green's headquarters yesterday announced receipt of several new indorsements of the Republican candidate for mayor. One of these was from the Carl Schurz Round Table, whose members represent 9,950 persons among German groups.

The round table was established in 1934 for the purpose of "carrying the defense of constitutional liberty to the people of the United States." Carl Schurz, whose name it bears, was a German born American who was a major general during the civil war, secretary of the interior, and minister to Spain.

Called Young, Honest, Sincere.

Green attended the round table meeting in the Old Heidelberg café yesterday and promised the members that, if elected, he will fulfill every pledge of his constructive program for Chicago. William F. Behrens, secretary of the group, characterized Green as an "outstanding example of the young, honest, sincere, successful man, typical of the leadership the Republican party is now offering."

Another indorsement came from Sidney B. Stein, who said he has found a majority of Chicago insurance men are dissatisfied with the present city administration and are anxious to turn to Green's type of leadership.

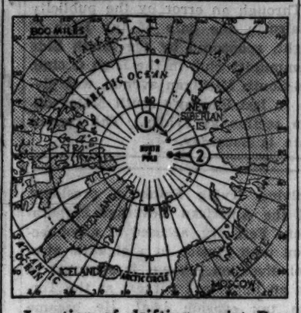
Woman Leader for Green.

Mrs. Ethel L. Thompson, first vice president of the Eighth Ward Republican Women's club, also announced her support of Green.

"There isn't a mother in Chicago," she said, "who doesn't feel that her children would get a better education than they are now getting if the school system were freed from politics."

The biggest overflow reported at any ward meeting in this campaign greeted Green last night at 2554 Orchard street in the 44th ward. It was estimated that 1,000 persons crowded into St. Clement's hall, that 500 more packed a smaller basement room, and that several hundred others were turned away. Committeeman Robert W. Dunn said Republican enthusiasm in the ward has been growing steadily.

Adrift in Arctic



Location of drifting soviet Russian icebreaker is indicated by cross No. 1. Point reached in 1895 by Fridtjof Nansen's ship, Fram, is indicated by cross No. 2.

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The soviet Russian icebreaker Sedov reported by wireless today that it had drifted to a position which was believed to be the farthest north any ship has reached in the twentieth century.

Gradually drifting toward the northernmost point recorded — the 85.57 north latitude reached by the Norwegian explorer Fridtjof Nansen's Fram in 1895—the Sedov gave its position as 85.42 north [about 300 miles from the north pole.]

The Sedov is in its second year of involuntary wandering in arctic ice. The vessel was caught in ice near New Siberia Islands in October, 1937, and since then has drifted.

DE VALERA ACTS TO HELP BRITISH FIGHT BOMBINGS

Asks Laws to Crush Irish Republican Army.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera introduced bills today to maintain the "position and authority" of the government of Ireland against the illegal Irish Republican army, whose campaign of terrorism has caused England to place a special guard over the British king and queen and public buildings.

Details of the bills were not disclosed at once. Informed sources said, however, they would give the government wide powers against extremist elements, particularly the I. R. A., which aims at drastic action to sever all of Ireland from the British crown.

It was reported the new bills might go so far as to resurrect the public safety act and restore a military tribunal.

Against Using Force.

The prime minister, in joining forces with Great Britain to suppress violence, said he would not allow another body—the I. R. A.—to speak for the lawful government. He added that he was against using force to obtain union of the republic of Ireland and Ulster.

[Although Ireland under its new constitution is a sovereign, independent state associated with the British commonwealth only for certain purposes, Ulster is closely linked to Britain. Ireland's constitution presumes to apply to all of the island, though union is still a highly controversial issue.]

Objects to Senator's View.

De Valera objected to a statement by P. T. Kelly, an independent senator, who said that he [Kelly] "regretted the ultimatum sent by the I. R. A. to the British foreign secretary had not been sent by the Irish government."

[At the London trial of twelve men accused of complicity in bombings it was disclosed an ultimatum had been sent to the British foreign secretary, on Jan. 13 giving him four days to withdraw British forces from Ireland. Three days later bomb explosions occurred in various parts of the British Isles, and have continued.]

Guard Court During Trial.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (AP) — Police guarded a Liverpool courtroom against possible Irish Republican army terrorism today as nine men went on trial. The men were charged with implication in recent bombings aimed at forcing the British from Ireland.

Old Bailey, Bow street, and other courts in London also were guarded. Officials, who feared that telephoned threats against the buildings might be carried out, examined every one who entered.

PLANE RACES TOWARD EARTH AT 670 M.P.H. AS PILOT'S OXYGEN FAILS

Lieut. Troy Keith.

Shreveport, La., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Second Lieutenant Troy Keith of the air corps reserve today was credited with an unofficial record of plane diving in which it was estimated he may have traveled faster than any other human. His race earthward at a probable speed of 670 miles an hour was an accident, but he appeared to suffer no ill effects.

Lieut. Keith was flying yesterday at 28,000 feet above Caddo lake when his oxygen tank failed to function and he lost consciousness. Before he recovered his faculties, due to a drop to denser atmosphere, his army pursuit plane had plunged 19,000 feet. He managed to get control of the ship at 9,000 feet and landed safely despite a buckled wing.

The aviator found that his speed indicator had jammed at 500 miles an hour. Aerodynamic experts at Barksdale field made a "scientific guess" that the plane may have attained a speed of 670 miles an hour, or more than eleven miles a minute. Lieut. Kieth's plane was the same type as that which recently powerdived 575 miles an hour from an altitude of 22,000 feet at Buffalo, N. Y.

Another Set of Quintuplets Named After Dionne Girls

Rochester, Ind., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Lion quintuplets born to a pair of jungle beasts belonging to Wild Animal Trainer Clyde Beatty appeared today to be on their way to a roaring maturity. In as much as a lion litter seldom exceeds two, the multiple birth of five, Beatty said, is as unusual as that of the Dionne quintuplets. He named the cubs, all females, Cecile, Yvonne, Marie, Annette, and Emilie.

TRAILER OWNER IS BAFFLED BY EVANSTON LAW

Evanston has an ordinance prohibiting any one from living in an automobile trailer except on a licensed trailer lot. Because of this ordinance, Myles Kitterman, 32 years old, was before Judge James M. Corcoran yesterday.

Kitterman operates a filling station at 439 Dodge avenue in the suburb. He took the wheels off his trailer, parked in the station lot. Occasionally he has slept in the trailer after working late or when bad weather prevented his going home.

The health department cited the ordinance. The court continued the case to March 14 after Kitterman said the ordinance had him baffled. There are no licensed trailer lots in Evanston.

In her divorce bill Mrs. Miller, his first wife, recited testimony taken at the trial which indicated that Miller had married six women without bothering to divorce any of them. He wed under four aliases and in four different states. His wives are in Los Angeles, Cal.; Portland, Ore., and Reno, Nev., as well as Chicago.

Taylor. Lee had not yet taken the oath of office.

APPROVE HOUSE MEASURE TO TAX PUBLIC SALARIES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Legislation to subject all governmental employés—federal, state, and municipal—to federal and state income tax laws was approved today by the house ways and means committee.

The measure, embodying some of President Roosevelt's tax recommendations to congress, also would exempt from retroactive federal taxation incomes of those state employés who are considered taxable under recent Supreme court decisions.

The committee postponed until later in the session consideration of Mr. Roosevelt's request that income from federal, state, and municipal securities also be subjected to federal and state income taxes.

Influenza Is Increasing, Health Board Head Warns

Dr. Robert A. Black, acting president of the city board of health, warned yesterday that influenza is on the increase and advised that family physicians be called whenever severe colds developed. During the first five days of this month, he said, 22 cases of influenza were reported, an average of more than four a day. In February, 1938, the average was two a day.

DAVIS TELLS BIG SUMS PAID HINES AS RACKET FIXER

Inner Workings of Schultz Gang Bared to Jury.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The crime machine operated by the Dutch Schultz gang—in which Tammany Leader James J. Hines is alleged to have been a main cog—was described in detail from the witness stand today by the man who has the most intimate knowledge of its inner workings.

Dixie Davis. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

J. Richard [Dixie] Davis—cocky, dapper, disbarred lawyer, whom the late Dutch Schultz affectionally called his "kid mouthpiece"—told the story in General Sessions court where Hines is on trial on a charge of violating the state lottery laws. The Democratic boss is accused of selling political protection to Schultz and his policy game racketeers.

Tells of 30 Payments.

Hines, as the most powerful single leader in Tammany Hall, "fixed" judges, transferred police at will, and controled William C. Dodge, former district attorney of New York county, according to Davis. Davis said he personally had paid the political boss for this protection on thirty or forty occasions. The payments ranged from $500 to $2,000, Davis testified.

Davis, who is 34 years old, pleaded guilty to the same indictment on which Hines is being tried. He was captured with his showgirl sweetheart, Hope Dare, and George Weinberg, another Schultz gangster, in a hideout at Philadelphia a year ago. Weinberg, who testified against Hines in the first trial, shot and killed himself Jan. 29.

In response to a question from Dewey, Davis said he first met Hines in 1932. Schultz introduced him on a street corner, he said. Then Hines accompanied Davis, Schultz and several other hoodlums on an automobile ride.

Recalls Gift of $2,000.

After this Davis said he went about frequently with Hines, accompanying the political boss to prize fights, shows, cabarets and the race tracks.

In the latter part of October, 1932, Davis testified, he gave Hines $2,000. Weinberg, the gang treasurer, reimbursed the gang lawyer with only half the funds, however, because Schultz had ordered that Hines never should be given more than $1,000 a week.

Davis said that he, Weinberg and Harry Schoenhaus, the gang bookkeeper, took turns paying Hines his weekly stipend until Schultz was killed in October of 1935.

Davis declared Hines did yeoman service for the gang in influencing Magistrates Hulon Capshaw and the late Francis J. Erwin to dismiss policy game cases in the courts.

Madame Verna is Mrs. Mabel S. Boss, 26 years old, of 906 North State street. Madame Miller is Mrs. Phyllis Miller, 24, of 324 North Kedzie avenue. STRANGER ERRS AND RETURNS TO SCENE OF CRIME

No one paid much attention to the well dressed man loitering in the hallway of the apartment building at 6250 Harper avenue. Sergts. Ignatius Sheehan, Grover Mulvaney, and John O'Connor were there investigating a burglary in the apartment of Raymond Raison.

Then Raison noticed the stranger. "There is one of my suits," he called to the policemen. They grabbed the stranger. He gave his name as Richard Allen, 28 years old. He admitted he took five suits and $18 from Raison's apartment and then returned to his room at 6200 Harper avenue. There he had several drinks, donned one of the stolen suits, and decided to return to Raison's apartment.

That was last Saturday night. Yesterday Allen admitted to Capt. Edward Kelly of the Woodlawn police that he had broken into twenty homes.

TORRIO LINKED WITH SWINDLER OF DRUG FIRM

Racketeer Faces Trial for Tax Fraud.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Converging federal investigations today indicated a crossing of the trails followed by John Torrio, racketeering associate of Al Capone in Chicago, and Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Coster, the self-slain head of the McKesson & Robbins Drug company.

Disclosures of the overlapping inquiries came as Torrio was arraigned on income tax charges which involve four other defendants. The five are accused of conspiring to evade $86,643 in taxes on Torrio's income for 1933, 1934, and 1935.

Set Trial for March 7.

Torrio's bail of $50,000 was continued and bail for the others—William Slockbower, John D'Agostino, Louis G. Lacava, and James La Penna—was set at $5,000 each. Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson put the case on the trial calendar for March 7.

Torrio grinned during the proceedings and laughed outright when La Penna shouted: "I never carried a gun in my life." La Penna is a former bootlegger, Slockbower is Torrio's brother-in-law, and Lacava was once a collector for Capone in Chicago.

Beverage Firm Involved.

The link between Torrio and Musica was provided by evidence involving Irving Feinberg, president of the American Beverage corporation. Feinberg, accused of a connection with Musica in a gigantic alcohol diversion scheme, is expected to be an important witness at the Torrio tax evasion trial. He became head of the liquor firm of Prendergast-Davies when Torrio sold it.

Feinberg denied today that his company was involved in any illegal alcohol transactions. He said the company was and still is engaged in legitimate business.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL TO MERGE STATE BUREAUS

Providence, R. I., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The act reorganizing the Rhode Island state government became law this afternoon when it was sigend by Gov. William H. Vanderbilt.

The bill, one of the key measures of Gov. Vanderbilt's economy program, combines the state's governmental setup into twelve departments and several independent agencies and automatically throws out of office all department and division heads held over from the previous Democratic administration.

Gov. Vanderbilt said he expected the reorganization to save the state half a million dollars between now and the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

NEW DEAL LAND GRAB DESTROYS WORK OF YEARS

Orchard Blossoms Bloom Soon for Last Time.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carterville, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—When April comes there will be millions of blossoms on the peach and apple trees of the Rainbow orchard in Williamson county.

But when spring comes a second time that orchard will be a ruin if the federal government has its way. Already the government has seized it, as it has seized 430 other tracts of land, and plans to engulf it, within a year, in the waters of mud bottomed Crab Orchard lake.

What the owners of Rainbow, with its 240 acres and its 8,500 carefully nurtured trees, will receive as compensation for their $63,000 investment no man knows. The government has appraised the property at less than $18,000. It takes the attitude: "Sue and see what you can get." The owners are suing, and a federal court jury must decide on the amount.

Works 12 Years on Orchard.

This orchard began as a pink and white dream twelve years ago. The dreamer was Walter Ghent of Carterville. In his imagination he could see long straight rows of fruit trees stretching over undulating acres that were then bare.

He interested several associates. They formed a corporation. They found the land they wanted. It lay on the south side of route 13, seven miles east of Carbondale. They made a deal for it. They would rent the land for fifteen years. In 1941 they would have the option of buying at $75 an acre.

Mr. Ghent, in his comfortable Carterville home, told of what happened after that.

"We set out 3,500 peach trees," he said, "and 5,000 apple trees. Peach trees begin to bear at four years. Apple trees don't produce until they're ten to fifteen years old, depending on variety. But we went ahead and spent $45,000 in development. We though we'd get it all back when the apple trees matured.

Apples Begin to Bear.

"We've been getting peaches for years. In 1937 we had nearly 7,000 bushels. We got some apples in 1937. We would have had a pretty good crop in 1938 if it hadn't been for a freeze at blossom time. Only a few trees escaped, but one of them produced $12 worth of apples all by itself. There ought to be 10,000 bushels this spring from the early maturing apple trees."

Then Mr. Ghent referred to the project to build Crab Orchard lake. The government stepped in and started to condemn land for this project. WPA workers were put to work to build a dike 3,000 feet long to impound the waters of Crab Orchard creek. Rainbow orchard was in the lake bottom area.

Offered Pay for Land.

"Secretary Wallace's men came around to appraise the property," said the orchardist. "They said $17,800 would be about right. That won't pay for the bare land, and our whole $45,000 and the potential earning capacity is destroyed.

"We didn't take that. I brought in two very reputable orchardists. They went over the orchard separately. They looked at every tree. They varied some on the peach trees. Their estimate of the apple trees was almost the same. The average of their appraisals was $54,000."

Mr. Ghent sighed. His wife, who was sewing by the window as we talked, said: "It's just Hitlerism to take this property. What's the country coming to?"

Can't Forget Years of Effort.

"I thought when the government served the papers on me that I'd have to forget it all, and that I could forget it," Mr. Ghent continued. "But sometimes now I wake up at night and think of all those trees and the work I've put in on them and it just isn't right to take them away. I can't forget.

"My appraisers estimated that when the apple trees are 20 years old, and in full production, we'd get 70,000 to 100,000 bushels of fruit a year. What would they be worth? Well, it's hard to say. There's the state of the market to consider, but normally they'd average, in the city markets, about $1.25 a bushel."

There was nothing left to do, Mr. Ghent said, but try to get back as much of the invested capital as the government could be forced to pay. His orchard would have no future.

"I only wish," he concluded, "that I could get the jury that will decide to come when the peach and apple blooms are out. They'd see something beautiful. But the government lawyers are too smart for that."

NEW LAW TO BAR MOLESTATION OF FLINT WORKERS

Flint, Mich., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—An ordinance protecting factory workers from molestation inside or outside Flint plants was passed today by the city commission in the face of opposition and legal threats from United Auto Workers' union representatives. It will become effective Feb. 17.

More than 500 union agitators packed the commission chambers two hours before the commission session opened, sang union songs, booed commission members, and spoke in opposition to the measure.

The ordinance was passed by a vote of 5 to 3, with Mayor Harry M. Comins, one of the measure's chief supporters, absent. The ordinance makes it a misdemeanor to molest or disturb workers in pursuit of their tasks or in going to or returning from their work, prohibits assemblage of groups without authority of law in streets or other public places, and solicitation of intimidating nature.

STUDY VERMONT STAND AGAINST U. S. LAND GRABS

Seizures Violate State's Rights, Says Governor.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Illinois legislators will have before them the independent attitude of Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont on the question of federal interference with state rights when they consider the Crab Orchard lake project tomorrow.

Resolutions are pending in each house opposing the project and asking Attorney General John E. Cassidy to intervene in the condemnation proceedings by which land for the lake in southern Illinois is being acquired by the government from protesting farmers. The project is being done by WPA labor at an estimated cost of 3½ million dollars.

Defines Issues to Legislature.

Preparing tonight to ask the senate executive committee to approve his resolution tomorrow, Senator R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] studied the transcript of an address to the Vermont legislature delivered by Gov. Aiken last month, in which the governor protested against government land grabs under the pretext of flood control.

"The issue," Gov. Aiken said, "is simply and solely the insistence of the federal government that it can take from us what it chooses, when it chooses, without any regard at all for our wishes or our rights.

"For more than a year I have warned that behind the flood control, behind the power development, is a deliberate attempt to prepare the way for a little group of men to run things their way—good sometimes, bad sometimes—but always their way, forgetting that a check with the home folks and their wishes is not only good practical horse sense but the very essence of democracy.

"Can Run or Fight."

"It now is put squarely to us Vermonters to decide what we want to do. We can submit meekly, surrendering resource after resource until we no longer are self-supporting and free, or we can boldly face the facts as they are now uncovered. We can fight or we can run."

Action on the house resolution, which is identical to the Crisenberry resolution and was introduced by Representatives I. A. Palmer [R., West Frankfort] and M. F. Browner [R., Mound City] was postponed until next week. A delegation opposing the lake will be on hand at that time to state their objections.

CHICAGO TO OBSERVE NATIONAL BOY SCOUT WEEK STARTING TODAY

Exhibits of the work of Scouts, Cubs and Sea Scouts will be arranged in department stores, banks, theaters and parks by the 950 units in the city. Scouts will attend church in uniform next Sunday when special services have been planned.

Scout radio programs will be heard from local stations and over national hookups during the week.

Oak Park Realty Dealer Held on Larceny Charge

BAR ASSOCIATION REBUKES STUMP SPEAKING JUDGES

Urges Them to Stay Out of Campaign.

The Chicago Bar association yesterday issued a carefully worded rebuke for judges who have made speeches in connection with the present mayoralty campaign. The statement follows:

"The board of managers of the Chicago Bar association greatly regrets the making of campaign speeches by a few judges in the present city campaign.

Neutral to All Candidates.

"It goes without saying that the Chicago Bar association is taking no part in the campaign for mayor, and as an association will maintain an attitude of entire neutrality toward all the candidates. But the association is concerned with anything that threatens the impartiality of the judges and tends to lower respect for the courts.

"All reasonable persons must agree with the canon of judicial ethics, that it is improper for judges to make political speeches except in support of their own candidacies for judicial office. A judge is a citizen but there are some acts which a judge is called upon to forego out of regard for his office. Public confidence in the courts is impaired when judges engage in party controversies.

Expresses Strong Disapproval.

"There was in general a gratifying freedom from these practices in the primary and election campaigns in Chicago in 1938. The present manifestations of partisanship by some judges are all the more to be regretted.

"For the sake of a proper respect for the courts, the board of managers must again express its strong disapproval of the making of campaign speeches by judges, and of calls by candidates upon judges to do so. We urge that the practice be stopped, and that for the remainder of the campaign political speeches be left to persons who are not under the disqualification of judges for such activities."

WOMAN ASKS U. S. FOR ACTION AGAINST CAVALIER'S OWNER

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—That "governmental proceedings" be taken against Imperial Airways has been suggested to congress by Theodore R. Iserman, attorney, who said he wrote at the instigation of Mrs. Donald Miller of Lincoln, Neb., a survivor of the wreck of the British flying boat Cavalier.

Mrs. Miller's husband lost his life when the Cavalier sank on Jan. 21 while en route from Port Washington, N. Y., to Bermuda.

"The object of Mrs. Miller in bringing this to the attention of the government," Iserman said, "is to attempt to abolish the double standard of safety for foreign and domestic ships." Cause of the Cavalier crash has not been officially determined.

YOUTH IN UNIFORM

By CALEB

AMERICA should note with newly illumined interest, these days, the familiar shirts, shorts, scarfs and cowboy hats that swing briskly by on open road or crowded avenue. For these are the army of sparkling eyes, squared shoulders and youthful grace, to whose conquests the world will one day owe much more than it now realizes!

This army, the farseeing genius of Lieut. General Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, K. C. B., set in motion as long ago as 1908. Ernest Thompson Seton, Daniel Carter Beard, William D. Boyce, E. M. Robinson, and scores of other public-spirited citizens, were likewise prominent in its development from 1910 on, here in America.

This almost simultaneous establishment on our own shores is typical of the Boy Scout tempo. Scarcely had Baden-Powell publicly inaugurated the movement in the Y. M. C. A. building at Birkenhead, England, on January 24, 1908, before organization of the Boy Scouts of America quickly followed. Its first two-weeks camp was successfully held at Silver Bay, N. Y., August 16 to September 1, 1910; and during the nearly three decades that ensued more than 8,400,000 men and boys have registered. Scouts at the present time number nearly a million boys and young men.

To the reflective adult, this picture of America's youth past the age of twelve—uniformed for constructive careers of welfare instead of the destructive ends of warfare—presents one of the most inspiring of modern trends. What sources and forces for character—what imperishable influences for patriotic service—are embodied in the threefold Boy Scout Oath, for example, defy all calculation. Was ever any nobler commitment made than lies in this pledge of boyhood to the principles of knighthood? . . . Listen. "On my honor I will do my best: 1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law; 2. To help other people at all times; 3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." . . .

In its shaping of his entire career, the decade from ten to twenty is in many respects the most critical of a boy's life. In those years he is impressionable, formative, easily guided toward the good—and just as easily warped toward the worst. Warmly aware of this fact, thousands of parents, educators and employers are Boy Scouts of America's most enthusiastic supporters. But an even surer and finer augury of the movement's splendid future lies in its appeal to every instinct, ideal, energy urge, and latent leadership spirit, of the red-blooded American boy himself.

G. O. P. TO DEMAND INVESTIGATION OF STATE EXPENSES

Hunt for Chances to Slash Budget.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Complete investigation of the income and expenditures of all state departments will be sought tomorrow. A resolution for this purpose will be introduced in the house, Robert J. Branson, floor leader of the Republican majority, announced tonight. The Republicans propose to cut state expenditures drastically.

Robert J. Branson.

"This resolution," said Branson, "is the first step in the Republican legislative program. It follows the economy in government recommendations adopted by the Republican convention at Peoria last August."

Tells Need for Inquiry.

Organized effort must be put forth to deal with the flood of Democratic administration appropriation bills descending upon the house this week, he said. The difficult task of finding out what items can be pared or eliminated in the complex state government can be handled only by means of a thorough investigation, he said.

"Not merely leading state departments, but the various subdivisions and scattered agencies and commissions, require looking into," the G. O. P. floor leader said.

Branson's announcement came after Speaker Hugh W. Cross learned that the Republicans had permitted three appropriation bills to advance today without reduction.

Moving to rally his forces, Speaker Cross said that a meeting of G. O. P. house members will be called next week to consider the urgent need for retrenchment.

$300,000 to Enforce Law.

The first proposal by the Democrats was a bill to appropriate $300,000 to the secretary of state for administration of the drivers' license law. On the plea of Representative Dennis J. Collins [R., De Kalb] that it was to save human lives, the house concurred with the senate and passed the bill.

The scene shifted to the appropriations committee room. Here a bill to appropriate $100,000 for examining motorists under the drivers' license law came up. Representative Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria] made a motion to cut the amount to $50,000.

On the plea of Representative James P. Boyle [D., Chicago] that the amount could be questioned later on the floor of the house, Republicans joined with Democrats to report the bill out by a vote of 36 to 10.

Auditor Asks Increase.

Republican economy seekers then faced a bill to appropriate $2,113,580 to the office of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Four department officials were present to read voluminous reasons for the appropriation.

An increase of $221,000, they said, was necessary because of increased work caused by old age assistance payments, supervision of added employés' credit unions, and other duties.

Apparently dazzled by the figures, the committee approved the request for $2,113,580 by a vote of 38 to 2.

Appropriation bills totaling approximately 92 millions were introduced in the house by Boyle.

Five bills sponsored by the Chicago city manager committee were introduced today. These would make it possible for Illinois cities, including Chicago, to adopt the city manager form of government.

T. MAC DOWNING RUNS FOR STATE SUPREME COURT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—State Senator T. Mac Downing [R., Macomb], today announced his candidacy for justice of the Supreme court from the 4th district.

This district comprises fourteen counties in the central western part of Illinois now represented on the bench by Justice Warren H. Orr of Carthage, a Democrat.

Senator Downing will have at least one opponent for the Republican nomination at the judicial convention, which probably will be held between March 20 and March 30. The election is June 5. City Judge Albert Crampton of Moline has announced his candidacy.

Kill Measure to Revamp Court Districts in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A bill to revamp Illinois Circuit court districts was killed tonight by the senate judiciary committee after hearing protests from attorneys and judges. Approved earlier, however, was the Dixon-Baker bill to transfer Whiteside county from the 14th to the 15th circuit. Attorneys and judges from northern Illinois were almost unanimous in their opposition to the plan to make general changes, including creation of two new districts.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Eugene Watson, 11 years old, was just a little boy in the dog house last night. He came home late and wouldn't tell his parents where he had been. As a matter of discipline he was sent to bed without his supper.

Today he is a hero. His parents learned that he and his chum, Jimmy Maloney, 10 years old, crawled out twenty-five feet over thin ice on the Schuylkill river and rescued a playmate from the water.

The boys built a fire and dried the clothes of the little victim, Bill Butcher, 12. By the time they had him comfortable they were all late for dinner. Eugene decided to remain silent about his life saving activities for fear he would worry his mother.

HOMES BUILDER TO RICH CALLED IN MANTON QUIZ

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A builder of River House, luxurious East river apartments, was summoned today from Los Angeles to testify before the extra federal grand jury called to investigate the business affairs of Martin T. Manton, who stepped down this morning from the United States Circuit court bench. The builder is Joseph E. Gilbert, a member of the syndicate which erected and owned the apartment house.

The Prudence company, bankrupt mortgage guaranty concern, held a $4,000,000 mortgage on the building, according to United States Attorney Gregory F. Noonan, who summoned Gilbert.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey alleged on the eve of Manton's resignation that Manton, while a Circuit court judge, recommended John M. McGrath as trustee in reorganization for the Prudence company. Subsequently, Dewey charged, McGrath gave Manton $12,000, which never was repaid.

Manton and his secretary for 23 years, Marie D. Schmalz, have been subpenaed to appear before the jury.

BILL TO REFORM PAROLE SYSTEM GETS APPROVAL

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The cause of parole reform in Illinois was advanced tonight when the senate judiciary committee approved the Ward bill unanimously. The measure, which has wide support from lawyers and judges, would allow courts to fix minimum and maximum sentences within the limits of the indeterminate sentence act. A convict would have to serve the minimum term before the parole board could order his release.

Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, and Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago] introduced similar measures—one in each chamber at the opening of the current session.

Ward said tonight that he would advance his bill toward final roll call as rapidly as possible. Should it be approved by the senate, Representative Schnackenberg will handle the measure in the house.

TWO JAM BANDITS GET IN JAM WITH LADY AND POLICE

But Another Scoots Off with the Cookies.

When Mrs. Mabel Boratto went marketing yesterday she dropped her key as usual into the basket which hangs beneath the back stairs of her home at 2518 Normandy avenue. The key was gone when she returned.

Remembering that a basement window was unlocked, she crawled in and slid down the coal chute. She got up to find herself looking into the jam covered face of a small boy. He ran, spilling the cookies and toy soldiers that filled his pockets, but Mrs Boratto ran faster and collared him.

Finds Two More Upstairs.

She marched him upstairs, where another small boy, hearing his cries, was letting himself out of a kitchen window. Weighted down with stolen cookies and toy soldiers and a bit logy from almost as much jam inside as out, a third member of the gang also was getting away.

Still clutching prisoner No. 1, Mrs. Boratto captured him. Very small boys, indeed, the two finally wore themselves out trying to break away and Mrs. Boratto found she could hold them both with the same hand. With the other she reached for the telephone.

Offer Bribe to Get Away.

"Let's talk this over," said the smaller boy. "Turn us loose and I'll pay you. There's $5 in it for you if you'll just forget this."

She shook her head. "Ten dollars, then," he offered. He was up to $150, although he hadn't a penny when she telephoned.

Before the police could get there the would-be briber broke away and dived out the open window through which one of the gang had already escaped. He fell eight feet to the sidewalk, but kept going.

The police recognized Mrs. Boratto's remaining prisoner. He was Alfred Stahl, 10 years old, of 2426 North Neva avenue. They said he had been arrested often, once on suspicion of taking an automobile.

Tell How "Gang" Operated.

Alfred said the boy who offered Mrs. Boratto the bribe was James Battista, 9 years old, of 2513 North Nordica avenue. The police arrested him. Both boys said they didn't know the other member of the gang.

The key was found in the door. The boys explained: They rang the front doorbell to find out if any one was at home. If any one answered they planned to ask, "Have you got a black dog?" and then depart. Since there was no answer, they assumed the family was out. They were looking for a way to get in when they came across the key in the basket. In they went.

DOMINICANS OFFER U. S. USE OF WATERS IN NAVAL MANEUVERS

[Copyright, 1939: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 7.—Samana bay, a large indentation on the eastern coast of the Dominican republic, has been made available to the American fleet throughout the period of this winter's maneuvers in the Caribbean.

Heavy arrow locates Samana bay, which American navy will use in maneuvers.

Naval vessels may, without restriction, use the bay either in emergency or as convenience requires, under the terms of the Dominican government's decree. Until the navy's winter defense exercises have been completed the usual formalities requiring notice of the arrival of foreign naval vessels have been waived.

Permission to use the waters of Samana bay was prompted by the desire of the Dominican republic to coöperate with the United States in plans looking toward general defense of the western hemisphere, and it was so stated in the decree.

American military planes, under the decree, may land anywhere within the republic, or in waters within its jurisdiction.

$50,000 VOTED TO UNCOVER GRAFT IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The Minnesota senate today voted $50,000 for an exhaustive investigation of the recent Farmer-Labor régime under which corruption allegedly flourished for years. The house of representatives approved the appropriation by a vote of 111 to 8 last Friday.

An investigating committee of ten men, five from each legislative branch, will be appointed. This body will have authority to conduct open hearings and request reports from officials examining state records which for eight years were in the hands of Farmer-Labor leaders.

Two more employés of the state oil inspection division have been jailed to await grand jury action on charges of fraud in their department. Their arrest brought to six the number involved on charges of forging indorsements to state checks.

TRAVELER GASPS FOR WIND AFTER STROLL IN LA PAZ

Bolivia's Capital 12,200 Feet Above Sea.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 1.—[By Air Mail.]—Two hours of grade climbing by train brings one to La Paz, then its steep streets and 12,200 feet altitude keep the traveler gasping for breath.

Black area locates Bolivia and its capital, La Paz.

As the train climbs, the vegetation of the lowlands recedes and snow-capped mountains become more noticeable. Then the steam engine is replaced by an electric locomotive which pulls the train to the rim of a canyon.

There below lies La Paz, a city of 200,000 population and administrative capital of Bolivia. The city is built in a basin on a large barren plateau. The basin is about 1,500 feet deep, three miles wide, and ten miles long. It somewhat resembles the letter U, opening southward.

Once Outlet for Lake?

Some scientists believe that in past ages this canyon was the outlet by which Lake Titicaca, thirty miles to the northwest, possibly was connected with the Amazon river.

The setting strikes profound appreciation. Vegetation and shrubbery are lacking, but the fascination of the space, light, and air and sheer distance is magnetic.

From the rim of the canyon the city looks like a carpet of tin and tile covering a huge gully. The walls of the canyon appear to be perpendicular, yet engineering skill has constructed a roadbed which takes the train down to the city in thirty minutes of twisting and zig-zagging.

At the depot there is an array of taxicabs and hotel boys, but some of the more energetic bellboys boarded the train on its way down the mountain.

German Refugees Settle.

The boys who catch the train and get their customers are not satisfied with a liberal tip for carrying a bag to a taxi—they want double, and the taxi drivers back them up.

The hotels in La Paz are few and inferior. A new one is being built. The others are crowded because of a recent influx of German refugees. Finding a room in a private home on the outskirts of the city required two hours of inquiry and looking around. The price was $5, American money, for the room and meals.

None of the streets in the city is level. The ones leading across the canyon are much steeper than those running the other way. In walking up grade one immediately finds himself slowing down and laboring for breath.

The city has good street cars and many modern automobiles and trucks. Burro pack trains are numerous, but few horses are in evidence. The army has a troop of cavalry stationed here with fair horses and good lether equipment. The troops are well disciplined, but poorly uniformed.

La Paz appears to be fairly modern, but its architecture is nondescript. The residences range from ultramodernistic to ancient Spanish and old colonial. The stores and shops also have great variations. A big, nice appearing department store stands beside a dingy structure.

ARMY BOMBER NOSES OVER AT CHICAGO AIRPORT

A Martin army bombing plane from Milwaukee nosed over last night in a landing at the Chicago airport. Maj. Merrill D. Mann of the air corps said the damage was slight. Lieut. D. E. Ridings, the pilot, and a passenger escaped uninjured.

Officials said they were told the pilot was taxiing to a stop when he saw the embankment of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks, which bisect the field, blocking his path. He tried to bring the plane to a sudden halt. It nosed over three feet from the embankment.

JURY QUIZ REPLY DELAYS PARKING MURDER TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.
Robert Kent, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.
Julius Wilkins, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge William J. Lindsay.

Selection of a jury in the murder trial of Rubin Jersky was interrupted yesterday by a prospective juror. Jersky, who is 25 years old, is charged with slaying a neighbor, Donald Warden, 1143 South Central Park avenue, last Nov. 3 during a parking dispute.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan asked one of the veniremen, Adolph H. Ruth, 548 Surf street, a wholesale lumber dealer, if he had ever heard of the case. Ruth replied that he thought it was a brutal assault.

Twenty-four other prospective jurors heard this remark. At the request of defense attorneys, Judge William J. Lindsay excused the entire panel and summoned a new one. At the end of the day four jurors had been selected.

Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1

A POLICE HUNCH PINS 5 ROBBERIES ON AN EX-CONVICT

Detectives John Rourke and Ernest Sloey of the state's attorney's staf were certain that Joseph MacKay, an ex-convict, had committed a crime. But what was the crime? That puzzled them.

Arrested last Saturday in Wilmette as a suspected prowler, MacKay refused to talk. There was no evidence against him until the policeman began going over the list of stolen automobiles. They found that one stolen Jan. 29 in Wilmette had been abandoned a block from MacKay's home at 1222 North Clark street. And a burglary had been committed at the same time in the home of the car owner, Elmer Becker, 519 Linden avenue.

Confronted with this evidence, MacKay confessed. In addition, Assistant State's Attorney Myron Lewis announced yesterday, he has admitted three other Wilmette burglaries and one in Evanston.

JURY'S DIAGNOSIS OF DOCTOR'S VISIT UPSET BY COURT

An order for the arrest of Dr. Albert C. Barber, 4403 Sheridan road, a physician, who paid an unsolicited and unprofessional call upon James and Mary Craig on New Year's eve, 1936, was issued yesterday by Judge Rudolph F. Desort.

The judge ordered that the doctor must pay a judgment of $1,000 awarded the Craigs by a jury last Nov. 23, or go to jail. The doctor, after several drinks wandered into the Craigs' apartment, then at 1033 Loyola avenue, and couldn't be persuaded to leave. Craig suffered several fractured ribs before he could be removed.

The jury held there was no malice in what the doctor had done—thus ruling out the possibility that he could be jailed if he did not pay. Upon the application of Attorney Irving Eisenman, counsel for the Craigs, Judge Desort yesterday held that malice was the basis of every assault case. The Craigs had charged the doctor with assault and battery.

WHAT'S A NAME TO AMLIE?

What Mr. Amlie calls himself or what he is called isn't of the slightest importance. This Wisconsin left winger, former member of the national house of representatives who ran away even from the La Follettes, was selected by Mr. Roosevelt for a place on the interstate commerce commission at a time when the opponents of private enterprise are trying to wreck the railroads and make public ownership the only thing possible. In Mr. Amlie Mr. Roosevelt found the man he wanted. One of the objectors before the senate interstate commerce committee said that he couldn't believe the President knew what Amlie's ideas for American industry were. That explanation has too much charity and too little plausibility.

The nomination of this Wisconsin radical followed the line of all the other appointments which have come out of the White House since the election. Mr. Roosevelt is seeding the government with all the radicalism he can find. Mr. Amlie is several miles out in front of Rexford Tugwell in his program for substituting state socialism in place of private enterprise. The evidence of his design to have the government take over the productive machinery of the country is contained in his writings and in the bills he introduced when he was a member of congress. He says that he is a partisan for government ownership and as such he would approach the railroad problem if he were a member of the interstate commerce commission.

If a man's program is for the substitution of government for private control and operation, for the state as an alternative to private capital, it is of no consequence what sectarian labeling or political name is given him. Mr. Roosevelt wanted an advocate of state socialism on the commission and Amlie is the man he named.

REMEMBER THESE.

The loyal citizens of the state of Illinois should note and fix in their memories the name of every Illinois member of congress who voted against the Dies committee.

They were:

Raymond S. McKeough, 7815 Euclid avenue, Second district.

Kent E. Keller, Ava, Twenty-fifth district.

Three of these representatives are from Chicago, and all are Democrats in party affiliation.

All voted to protect from exposure the activities of communist revolutionaries in the United States. All voted against the American republic on behalf of the Red tyranny whose agents are at work to destroy American liberty.

FRANCE FACES ITS FOLLIES.

The fatal deterioration of the French air force is attributed to several factors, all of which appeared with blighting force under the government of Leon Blum, the Socialist prime minister. Blum and his Socialists wanted to take profit out of armament making. That has a familiar echo in the United States. Airplane production was in part nationalized. The government acquired control of the capital stock of a number of the companies. Others were subsidized for military craft research. The socialization of the industry in itself probably would have been fatal, but it received aid to hasten the destruction of this arm of defense.

The communists and their fellow travelers upon whom Blum relied for the life of the Popular Front demanded limitation of product. When national security was being threatened by the speed-up in Germany and Italy the French workers knocked off work. They established a maximum of hours and of production which destroyed the French air force. It not only was hopelessly distanced by Germany and Italy in number of craft but the quality of the French planes became suicidally inferior. Both fighting planes and bombers lacked speed.

Strikes, sabotage, and socialism left France exposed to Hitler and Mussolini, destroyed its protective system of alliances, reduced it to the status of a suppliant, and sent it to Mr. Roosevelt's doorstep, to a country in which another government is trying to produce the same conditions which have enfeebled the desperate petitioner now seeking in America a salvation from its own follies.

Blum conducted a war on private enterprise. The enemies of France found their best allies in Blum's parties. And the end is not yet, either in France or here. Alex Small in The Tribune told the story of French Socialist sabotage of the air industry and its present incompetence. Although the communists were relying on France as ally against Hitler they must also undermine French industry so that if a war came they could seize power and set up the dictatorship of the proletariat. They are inherently and hopelessly comrades of destruction and nothing more.

Although Mr. Roosevelt is trying to rescue France from the wrecking work of Leon Blum he also is trying to reproduce in the United States what Blum did in France. He began it with the cancellation of the air mail contracts and the breakup of the private companies. He is carrying it on through the burocratic medium of the Civil Aviation administration. The action of his labor board is no less significant. The wreckers called a sitdown strike in the Douglas Aircraft plant in California. The production of military planes for our government was temporarily halted. The labor board has ordered the company to reëmploy men charged with violence in the strike.

American aviation in private hands was the most enterprising in the world. Mr. Roosevelt is reaching out for it. He will governmentalize it. Then we'll be the French.

SENATOR KING'S BILL.

A lot of bills affecting the railroads and other transportation agencies will be thrown up for grabs in the current session of congress. Several have already been presented. Most of them, like the Lea bill, will propose a further concentration of power in Washington and an extension of regulatory restrictions to include all those newer forms of transportation which have thus far escaped, to some extent, the blighting influence of governmental regulation and burocratic management.

Senator King of Utah has introduced a bill, S. 1132, which proposes an about face in this march toward socialized government ownership. Copy of the bill has not yet been received for detailed examination, but perusal of a synopsis of it given to the press indicates it contains some features which have been advocated by The Tribune for several years. Instead of augmenting the interstate commerce commission and providing for additional regulatory bureaus Senator King would reduce the number of members of the commission from eleven to five. Rather than grant additional restrictive powers of minimum rate making to cover all other transportation agencies in addition to the rail carriers, his bill would take away from the commission the powers of management given to it by legislative enactment throughout the last fifty years and leave it with only the essential powers of regulation which are now necessary in the light of present day conditions. It restricts the commission's jurisdiction to a determination of whether rates and charges of common carriers are just, reasonable, unjustly discriminatory, or unduly preferential or prejudicial. Such determination is to be made only upon complaint and not upon the commission's own motion.

These provisions of the bill alone, if enacted into law, will give a new birth of freedom to the railroads and their management. Individual initiative and inventive genius will then have some chance of solving the "railroad problem" in the American way.

Senator King is to be congratulated upon the clear thinking and understanding of the underlying causes of our transportation difficulties as evidenced by these essentials of his bill. We hope he will be vigorous in the fight [for fight it will be] to have them incorporated in whatever transportation legislation finally comes out of the hopper at this session of congress.

KEEPING POLITICS OUT.

When politics consists of nothing more than the reading of speeches written by dull ghosts, politics isn't anything. We are accordingly grateful to Prof. Linn and Mr. Courtney for adding zest to a campaign which was getting pretty flat. Prof. Linn the other day proved that all the hard names he had applied just a few months ago to his fellow Democrats of the other or boss-ridden faction were hasty. In reality, it now appears, a faction which has such superb leaders is a priceless asset to any community. If these be bosses, etc., more power to them in their determination to keep politics out, a determination which will brook no gainsaying.

And speaking, as Mr. Linn was, of keeping politics out of things, brings us to Mr. Courtney. Addressing the teachers on Monday evening, Mr. Courtney recalled his pledge of six years ago "to sever politics from the state's attorney's office." Mr. Courtney defied any one to say that politics had entered into his calculations at any time since then. It was perhaps fortunate for Mr. Courtney that Tuesday's newspapers had not yet been carefully read, for they carried the intelligence that two more of Mr. Courtney's assistants who had aligned themselves with the other or boss-ridden faction had been notified they would be fired if they did not resign. Both of these assistant state's attorneys, Mr. Nelson and Mr. Leeds, had been in Mr. Courtney's service for six years and had evidently given satisfaction. Thus far in the mayoralty campaign five assistant prosecutors have been fired by Mr. Courtney in his determination to permit no taint of politics to intrude in the affairs of his office.

The determination of the politicians to keep politics out of politics is altogether admirable. The candidates have already succeeded in adding the sprightly note to a campaign which, as we said before, was in danger of becoming a bit of a bore.

THE ALBANY PARK PROTEST.

The delegation of Albany Park business men and property owners led by Ald. Joseph Ross against the proposed widening of Lawrence avenue from 42 to 51 feet between Central avenue and the Chicago river have experience and foresight to support them. As Ald. Ross asserts, the widening of main highways increases the accident toll inevitably. It is a convenience to through trafic but it is a peril to pedestrians and in a shopping district it has proved to be a blight on retail trade for obvious reasons.

What is needed for the northwest side is an elevated highway from the loop. This would not only accelerate through trafic without increasing casualties as wider surface roads do, but relieve congestion on east and west roads now used necessarily as detours from the lake shore.

Ald. Ross and the Albany Park delegation are not only serving their own local interest but a sound principle of highway development for the city at large.

FAREWELL TO WORDS.

Champion Dictionary Wrestler A. William Erdmann has started on a coast to coast barnstorming tour, during which he will meet all comers if allowed to use his own book and make his own rules. As a token of his appreciation of Chicago's response to his remarkable exhibition, he left behind a fine three syllable palindrome, to be placed among the exhibits of the Chicago Historical society. Here it is: Deified.

The Dictionary Wrestling Match in which Erdmann the Magnificent starred has brought thousands of white hopes out of the libraries, eager to claim a share of the title. They are all skilled in certain points of the game, but lack the broad stroke and all around technique of the champion. Here is a message from one of them:

Regarding the longest word in general, is not disproportionableness, twenty-one letters, the longest ordinary word in the Merriam Webster International? And is not phenoltetrachlorophthalein, twenty-six letters, the longest scientific word?

Is not ambidextrously the longest word which has all the vowels, including y, and whose letters are all different? H. H.

Back to the Pioneers.

For the benefit of historical researchers, how about a little search for the original names of prominent Chicago streets and suburban roads? I'll start with the following:

Broadway was the Lake Shore Plank road.
Clark street was the Green Bay road.
Grand avenue was the Whiskey Point road.
Shermer road was the Old Telegraph road.

MEDITATION: THAIS.

When I have died and crumbled into dust,
And centuries from now some seeking hand
Shall turn to light my long forgotten tomb,
I wonder if the living youth will stand
And think about my life in that still gloom.

I hope that he will linger in the dusk
And dreaming of my radiant moon-kissed hair
Sigh, "Once upon a time she too was young,
Vibrant with joyous laughter, she was fair,
And to her loveliness soft songs were sung.

"I could have kissed those lips that now are mute.
To her I might have sung of drifting rain,
And I will hear and smile though I am gone.

A Myth on Grand Avenue.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if you checked on historical data before sending camera fans out in the wilds of the northwest side of the city. All this relative to the house [2-2-'39] supposed to have been the one time residence of the infamous Charles Guiteau. Cicero avenue is exactly two miles from the point where Grand and Fullerton avenues merge. To be accurate, the house stood on the northwest corner of Grand avenue and Narragansett avenue.

The house has been gone these last five years or so. It was on the edge of a city dumping ground and was wrecked when Fullerton avenue was extended westward.

The Guiteau story is only one of many that filtered out from the gloomy old red brick structure. It was a hotel for many years and was purported to have been a stopping place for many famous personages, from Abe Lincoln to the car barn bandits.

It was said to have been a headquarters for an international gang of anarchists and tales of murder, robbery, and rapine were told of it. It had two basement levels. A man who worked in the demolition of the building says that a dummy room or large sized closet was found, connected with the cellar by a shaft that contained a wall ladder. Frank Madison.

PANIC IN A PENTHOUSE.

The wind shrieks high to the rafters,
Then dies in a sobbing moan;
And I trace a banshee's eerie chant
In the quivering overtone.

But I may not put it behind me;
I must stay though my heart grows chill;
I must lie and shiver at midnight,
And quiver at daybreak still.

And why don't I go and leave it
Since I know it will never cease?
Why, we rented this penthouse apartment
On a two year, iron-clad lease!

Lincoln's Birthday in 1889.

Memorial program in the Chicago Opera house: Hon. John A. Kasson of Iowa, orator; music by the Second Regiment band, a soloist and a quartet.

Dinner in the Grand Pacific hotel: At the speakers' table were Robert Todd Lincoln, Hannibal Hamlin, Lincoln's Vice President, and a son of Stephen A. Douglas.

A Cross-Worder Complains.

I went to the library on the trail of a word I couldn't find in my handy pocket dictionary. I looked in a foot thick unabridged dictionary; but the word wasn't listed. I looked in a two volume unabridged-unabridged dictionary; still no results. Then I looked in an unabridged-unabridged-unabridged dictionary, in twenty-six volumes, and there it was. "Peytrel," it said, "same as Poitrel." After which, of course, I could find it easily enough in my handy pocket dictionary. If I win less than first prize in the Tribune's crossword contest, I'll be out money for time spent in research.

HOW HORMONES AID HEARING.

ONE of the most difficult disorders with which our nose and throat specialists have to contend is that known as atrophic rhinitis. It appears that after long continued irritation of the nasal passages, the mucous membrane will lose its soft, velvety quality, become more fibrous, and more likely to harbor chronic infections. Thus we have the distressing malady termed ozena which is accompanied by crusty, pusilke discharges so foul smelling that the victim is shunned by every one. The breath is filled with fetid odors, and frequent irrigations of the area are required to enable him to live even with himself. The ailment affects females more often than males and may be observed in several members of the same family.

What to do is a dominant query. A little more than a year ago a group of Canadian physicians reported beneficial effects following the administration [by nasal spray] of a female sex hormone—estrin. With 65 per cent of their cases the odors disappeared, crusts failed to form, and the remaining secretion lost its pusilke character. Furthermore, the lining regained its normal pink shade. These authors did not hesitate to point out that their results were more striking—of more value—than with any other known treatment. Strangely enough—in the course of their investigations—seven of the individuals—who were afflicted also with constitutional deafness—showed decided improvement not only in the sense of hearing but such symptoms as ringing in the ears vanished.

Searching for an explanation, X-ray plates were made and it was found that in each instance the pituitary gland was smaller than normal. Apparently it was not working at par in most of the patients. But the question arises, "Why should such a hormone influence deafness?" Radiographic studies of seventy cases of systemic deafness made by Hector Mortimer and others showed the same endocrine lack [pituitary] as in those suffering from ozena. The inference is, therefore, that back of both conditions there lies a common factor which may be helped by estrin or other estrogenic substances.

Since 1936 this plan has been used with 143 patients, of whom 94 were women and 49 men. Both groups resemble one another in physical build and show small pituitary bodies indicating lessened output on the part of this particular structure. In a total of 250 patients studied in one series, the combined defects [rhinitis and deafness] were found in 42. Lowered hearing also occurred in families. Because of this similarity, sprays into the air passages of one cubic centimeter of oil containing 1,000 international units of estrin were instituted and the dosage was maintained daily for at least three months. The increases in sound perception were checked carefully by a calibrated instrument known as an audiometer and were recorded by trained technicians.

Without attempting to claim too much, Mortimer and his colleagues decided that—based upon their statistics—the benefit is more than great enough to warant a trial. It is quite possible that the restoration in the functioning power of the nose may be responsible for the better ear behavior.

The conclusion seems to be obvious that inadequate development of the pituitary during the period of growth may have led in turn to an insufficient production of estrin from the ovaries in women. Although this may have exhibited itself in other ways, the reaction was a substandard performance on the part of the nasal mucosa. Supplying this material was followed by so much relief that the procedure cannot be overlooked.

COLOR CHANGES IN EYES.

L. W. writes: A woman had her face smashed badly in an accident. She had to be operated on. She claims that before the operation her eyes were blue. Now they are brown. A says this is impossible and B is in doubt.

REPLY.

A is correct. On the other hand, eyes have turned black and blue from other causes.

SEE A DENTIST.

C. D. writes: Some time ago I had three teeth extracted. Should they be replaced or will the spaces eventually fill in?

REPLY.

Unless teeth are replaced, the chances are that the remaining structures will spread, but not sufficiently to fill the gap. This is called drifting. Your dentist can advise you as to the proper treatment.

RESULT OF RICKETS.

I. D. writes: Is there any way a deformed chest, due to rickets, could be improved or corrected?

REPLY.

If the deformity has existed for a long time, there is very little that can be done. The use of cod liver oil in infancy will prevent this condition. Breathing exercises are of value only while the child is growing.

"ROUGHAGE."

D. A. writes: What is meant by "roughage" in the diet?

REPLY.

Vegetable fibers are largely indigestible, and many plants contain a substantial quantity. This material is termed "roughage." It adds to the bulk within the intestine and frequently proves irritating to the mucous lining of the digestive tract.

REDUCING.

Mrs. W. writes: Will horseback riding make me stouter? I already weigh 145 pounds.

REPLY.

No. Both you and the horse will reduce. A gain in weight results from lifting the fork to the mouth too frequently. Anchors to the elbows may be helpful in a reducing program.

LUNG TREATMENTS.

O. P. writes: How are the lungs collapsed in the treatment of tuberculosis?

REPLY.

The most common procedure is to introduce air into the pleural space. This prevents the lung from expanding, whereupon it can rest and heal. The operation will need to be repeated at intervals, because the air is absorbed gradually.

YES.

P. H. writes: Can a person suffer from anemia and high blood pressure at the same time?

REPLY.

Yes. Anemia refers to the number of red blood cells present. Blood pressure indicates the force used by the heart in pumping the blood through the body.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

La Grange, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My uncle, my father's brother, a bachelor, died in Chicago in 1937. His parents, brothers and sisters died before he did. He left me in his will $1,500, also my brother, sister and mother $1,500 each. His will was probated by my mother in Chicago about Nov. 16, 1937, at between $23,000 and $25,000. There are others he left sums of money to and one his personal property left after all bills and the money paid to each mentioned in the will. He had stocks and mortgages and a house and lot. The house is in Chicago, and title in his name through waranty deed from his mother and father in 1896.

1. Can my mother claim my father's share of the house and lot?
2. Can we children claim my father's share of the house and lot?
3. How long does it take to settle an estate after the will has been probated?
4. Is there any tax or taxes that we will have to pay and if so, what amount?

A. C.

1. If your father died before your uncle and the will simply named your father as the beneficiary then your mother would not take his share.
2. It seems probable that the will is so worded that it will lapse. If an attorney has been employed and has examined the wording of the will then he is in a better position to advise you than we are.
3. Under Illinois law creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims. Ordinarily the estate should be closed shortly after expiration of such year.
4. The Illinois inheritance tax: On gift to spouse, lineal ancestor or descendant, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, or person to whom deceased stood in acknowledged relation of a parent, after exemption of $20,000, 2 per cent; brother or sister [after exemption of $10,000], 2 per cent.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COURT SUMMONS.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does failure to appear in Municipal court in answer to summons—to answer for default in payment of a series of judgment notes—constitute a contempt of court?

2. If ignoring summons to appear in person is contempt, is a statement in writing to the clerk of the court in lieu of personal appearance sufficient?

3. In event of nonpayment and judgment established, can household and office fixtures be attached? J. F. B.

1. No. Ordinarily a summons is not served in connection with judgment notes, but the judgment is entered by confession and the defendant's first notice would be the service of execution. Our answer would be the same as to service of execution in the sense that the debtor's failure to do anything would not be contempt of court. In either case, his failure to do anything would, however, mean that the judgment would become final and binding against him.
2. See 1.
3. The exemption to the head of a family is $400 worth and to other persons $100 worth. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widower has two grown sons, owns a piece of real estate in Chicago, and intends to get married in the near future. As his sons have helped him keep up this property, he intends to give it to them before he gets married again. What is the best thing to do:

1. Deed the property to the sons before he marries?
2. Make out a will giving the property to the sons before he gets married?
3. Would his second or future wife have any legal claim on this property in case of his death? E. K.

1. Obviously this would be the best protection to the sons, but it would mean that the property would be out of control of the father. He is the one to judge whether he is willing to place the property in their hands in this way.
2. The will would be subject to revocation and it is notorious that after such a remarriage the parent is often persuaded to supersede the will by a will more favorable to the step-parent. In addition, there is a general principle that marriage revokes a prior will.
3. If the deed is kept secret from her, it might be regarded as a fraud on her dower right, hence we advise that she be informed.

Another way of handling the matter so as to avoid the dower right would be by an ante-nuptial agreement. On any transaction of this type where the facts are a temptation to litigation, we advise the employment of an attorney in the original transaction.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Some of the secrets of Britain's new 50 mile per hour streamlined torpedo boats have been revealed after a series of test runs on the Solent, off the Isle of Wight.

Designed and built by Hubert Scott Paine, at a cost of $390,000 each, they are asserted to be the fastest vessels of their type in the world.

The boats are 70 feet long, powered by three 1,000 horsepower Rolls Royce motors, and have a range of approximately 1,000 miles at a cruising speed of 20 knots. At top speed they are said to be capable of more than 50 miles per hour. Their armament consists of four 18 inch or two 21 inch torpedo tubes. Each vessel is equipped with three power operated weatherproof gun turrets, smoke screen apparatus, and depth charges.

An outstanding feature of the new craft, and one which it is predicted will mean a new epoch in ship construction, is the absence of masts or funnels. Radio reception and transmission without external aerials have been arranged on a new system, incorporating original ideas. For visual signals there is a telescopic mast which can be removed after the signal is made.

It is also asserted the target silhouette of the new torpedo boats is the smallest of any of the fighting ships now afloat. Silence of approach and rapid acceleration were other points noted by observers during the Solent demonstrations. The vessel piloted by Scott Paine is said to have reduced speed from 40 knots to 8 knots in three seconds and to have accelerated from 10 knots to 40 knots in eight seconds.

ANY SUGGESTIONS?

Wallace, Mich., Jan. 8.—I wonder if some one who has had experience on a place such as mine can help me solve my problem. I have twenty acres of land which is low marshy muck and clay, willows and small brush, one-quarter mile off the main highway, a rundown house, leaky barn and henhouse with only one-quarter acre near house fit for orchard and garden. I have twelve old apple trees and three kinds of lilacs. I also have six hens, six rabbits, one goat, no cows, horses, machinery, car, radio, nor electricity. My mother is with me and neither of us is able to do heavy work.

I want to earn a living and would be very pleased to receive any helpful suggestions on how to care for bees, sheep, goats, hens, rabbits, or raise berries; anything which would mean only a very small capital to start with. Can it be done? Mother is 85 and I was old enough to vote over twenty years ago.

LOSS OF LIFE IN STORMS.

Cicero, Ill., Feb. 2.—Why can't something be done to prevent the tremendous loss of life and the injury suffered by persons attempting to get to work during our blizzards? The recent one took thirteen lives and injured scores in and about Chicago. Couldn't Mayor Kelly be permitted to close all places of business except those which are necessary to the life of the people—such as fire and police stations, the telephone company, the dairies, etc.? An announcement to that effect could be made over the radio the next time such an emergency occurs. It wouldn't hurt shops, offices, etc., to remain closed one day if it would save the lives of numerous employés. Schools have managed to do so with no loss of efficiency, as well as some of the business houses. Won't some interested authority please consider and possibly improve on this proposal?

FATHER COUGHLIN'S BROADCASTS.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The Chicago Woman's Aid, a civic organization of one thousand women, vitally interested in all of the problems facing the citizens of these great United States, has noted with surprise that The Chicago Tribune has featured the radio broadcasts of Father Coughlin by listing them in "Today's Features" each Sunday.

As citizens we believe in the right of free speech for every one, but since Father Coughlin's talks have the effect of promoting ill feeling between groups of fellow Americans, we suggest that a simple listing in the regular schedule of radio broadcasts would be both sufficient and advisable.

WHAT IS AN ORANGEMAN?

Chicago, Feb. 1.—In today's questions on the editorial page you ask, "What is an Orangeman?" The suggested answer, "A Protestant from Ireland," is misleading.

The Orangeman may be a churchman individually, but as an Orangeman he is a political partisan of England in Ireland. Dr. Douglas Hyde, president [the first president] of Ireland, is a Protestant, and as his office implies is loyal to the Irish nation as are most Protestants in Ireland, as were John Mitchell, Robert Emmett Parnell, and many other notable leaders. Sincerely,

ABSENTEEISM.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Heretofore insurance companies have seemed to retain the confidence of the people more than any other type of investment service. However, I am wondering if they will retain this confidence in view of the widespread ownership of local properties by insurance companies and the inefficient management of these properties by local real estate agencies.

FEWER LIVE STOCK LOSSES.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—We have read with interest the letter in the Voice of the People column of Jan. 19, entitled "Cruelty to Hogs." The writer felt that something should be done to improve live stock shipping conditions.

It may be of interest to readers of The Tribune to know that in 1934 the national live stock loss prevention board was organized for the purpose of reducing live stock losses in transit. The board has made extensive surveys of live stock shipping conditions by rail and truck throughout the country and has found several ways in which shippers may improve methods of sending their animals to market. As a result of the board's work, there has been a marked improvement of handling live stock while in transit.

Much information has been given to producers. That this information has been helpful is shown by the fact that in twenty-five of the larger markets throughout the United States, from which records are available, the number of cattle, hogs, sheep and calves dead on arrival was 8 per cent less in 1937 than in 1936, in proportion to receipts each year. At twenty markets keeping records on truck losses, it was found that there were 9 per cent less dead on arrival and 17 per cent less crippled on arrival in 1937 than in 1936, in proportion to receipts.

In several states 4-H clubs have aided by participating in local, state, and national live stock loss demonstration contests, for which prizes are awarded by the national live stock loss prevention board.

This work is proceeding well and an improvement is noted each year. We feel sure that such instances as the one described in the letter are constantly becoming fewer in number.

H. R. SMITH,
General Manager, National Live Stock Loss Prevention Board.

THE VOICE OF THE INSURED.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—An examination of the annual reports of the great majority of insurance companies discloses substantial holdings of railroad securities. For this reason, it seems to me that nearly every holder and beneficiary of an insurance policy has enough at stake to warant the writing of a letter to his senators at Washington protesting the appointment of a man of Mr. Amlie's qualifications to sit on the interstate commerce commission for the next six years. A LAW-ABIDING YOUNG MAN.

Arlington Heights, Ill., Feb. 1.—While I was reading Gasoline Alley Wednesday I noticed that Skeezix had 1939 license plates on his car. I would like to know how he can afford to buy a license when he can't meet the payments on the radio he gave his girl friend for Christmas.

HOLY LAND PEACE PARLEY STARTS OFF WITH A ROW

Arabs Refuse to Sit Down with Jews.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—An early deadlock in discussions of Palestine's Jewish-Arab strife was foreseen today in London as a conference of Jewish, Arab, and British representatives began with a first class row. The deadlock is expected to result in Great Britain imposing its own plan for a federation of states in an effort to settle the feud which has cost about 3,000 lives in the last thirty-three months.

Grand Mufti of Jerusalem.

Trouble among conference delegates broke out last night when the main Arab delegation announced it would not participate in the negotiations if three members of the Arab National Defense party were present. It was understood the Defense party members are not supporters of the exiled grand mufti of Jerusalem who controls the main group.

Fail to Settle Dispute.

The government worked until 2 a. m., but failed to get the Arabs together. As a result the conference may become a three cornered affair. None of the Arabs will sit down with the Jews and the Arabs will not sit down with each other.

The government still is seeking Arab harmony, but it was announced that it will deal with the two Arab groups if necessary. A meeting of the government and Arabs scheduled for this afternoon was canceled. It was reported that the grand mufti's followers were packing their bags and preparing to go home. The Jews will present their case tomorrow.

This morning Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain made two welcome speeches in St. James's palace. The first was to the Arabs, without the Defense party group. Then, after the Arabs were safely out of sight, he greeted the Jews.

The prime minister urged a compromise based on justice. He said the government would offer no plan until both sides had fully stated their cases.

Thanks Representatives.

The prime minister thanked Arab representatives from Egypt, Iraq, and other eastern states for attending because "this task is difficult, no doubt, but surely not beyond the capacity of our united powers."

Prince Mohammed Abdul-Moneim, head of the Egyptian delegation, responded that he was confident the government would co-operate to find a way to peace.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist movement, said he was approaching the deliberations in a spirit of good faith and coöperation.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York spoke in behalf of American Jews. He reminded Chamberlain of the interest of the United States in the Balfour declaration which pledges the British government to the "establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "—Because His Heart Is Pure"

POPE'S CONDITION UNCHANGED; FEAR STRAIN ON HEART

Pontiff Lays Plans for Celebrations.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI., confined to his bed by influenza, expressed determination today to go through with a strenuous week-end program celebrating the anniversaries of the Lateran Accord of 1929 with Italy and his coronation in 1922.

The pope canceled audiences today and "took all precautions" because of his indisposition, persons having access to his apartments said.

This was done chiefly to conserve his strength for the consistory of all Italian bishops Saturday, at which the pontiff is expected to discuss present relations with the fascist regimé on the tenth anniversary of the Lateran Accord. On Sunday he is scheduled to attend a pontifical mass in St. Peter's celebrating the 17th anniversary of his coronation.

A Vatican news service reported at 9:15 p. m., after the pope's physician had visited him, that the patient's condition was unchanged. Several diplomats called at the Vatican to inquire about the pontiff's health.

Although the influenza aggravated the pope's chronic asthma and made breathing somewhat more difficult than usual, his medical attendants indicated they did not regard his condition as dangerous.

Because of his weak heart, however, the pope's physicians always are apprehensive since some slight strain might be fatal at any time, Vatican circles said. The pope is 81 years old.

This is the second time in less than three months that the pope has been forced to suspend his activities because of illness. A heart attack on Nov. 25 kept him confined for a brief time.

Because his personal physician, Dr. Aminta Milani, is ill with influenza himself, the pope was attended today by Milani's assistant, Dr. Filippo Rocchi.

ASK STATE TO NAB SLOT MACHINES IN 15 LYONS INNS

A letter listing 15 taverns and cafés in the village of Lyons as the sites of open slot machine gambling was received in Springfield yesterday by Attorney General John E. Cassidy. He turned the communication over to state police with a request for immediate action.

The letter was from the civic organization of Lyons and was signed by the secretary, Frank E. Graczyk of 4332 Joliet avenue in the suburb. It said the organization had made determined efforts to rid the village of the machines and had inspired several raids by state's attorney's police.

"It seems after every raid," the letter continued, "that new machines replace the machines that have been raided. Many complaints have been made to our local police department with no response on their part."

STOKE UP FIRES! A COLD WAVE IS RUSHING ON CITY

Stoke up the furnace fires and button up your overcoat! Forecaster H. A. Yesterday the mass of chill air from western Canada and Alaska brought readings of 20 below in Montana and 10 below in South Dakota. Chicago had a maximum of 35 above.

Coast guard crews sought in vain last evening to recover the body of a man who leaped into the Chicago river from the State street bridge in midafternoon. The man was about 55 years old, stout, and poorly dressed. Bridgetenders William Devereux and James E. Ryan tried to reach him by boat, but floating ice cakes kept them from him before he sank. In his coat, left on the bridge, police found a prayer book, a newspaper clipping of the Charles G. Ross kidnaping, and newspaper pictures of Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and Police Commissioner Allman.

HUNT 3 ALLEGED CONSPIRATORS IN DIVORCE FRAUD

Ex-Wife Names 2 Men, Woman in Plot.

The state's attorney's office last evening asked Peoria police to arrest two men and a woman in connection with an alleged divorce fraud in Chicago. Indictments against all three, charging conspiracy and perjury, will be sought before the Cook county grand jury today. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christenson said.

Mrs. Cora Wood.

Those sought are Frank G. Wood, a toolmaker, who also may be indicted for bigamy; Elizabeth Sherlock and Walter Swick, all of Peoria. Wood won a divorce from his wife, Cora, in Superior court here last July.

Ex-Wife Charges Fraud.

The action last evening was a result of an investigation begun on Monday by Judge Oscar Nelson. Judge Nelson began the inquiry after Mrs. Wood appeared before him and told him she and her former husband had been Peoria residents since 1930. She alleged that the divorce proceedings were fraudulent and asked that the decree be set aside.

Examination of the divorce records showed that Miss Sherlock had given her address as 1700 Washington boulevard and that Swick had said he lived at 6048 South Halsted street when they appeared as witnesses for Wood. Both testified to acts of cruelty allegedly performed by Mrs. Wood.

Police yesterday found that the address given by Miss Sherlock was that of a radio factory. No one could be found at the South Halsted street address who remembered Swick, they reported.

Remarriage Is Charged.

Mrs. Wood then testified she had been reliably informed that Miss Sherlock and Swick had come to Chicago with her husband to aid him in getting the fraudulent decree. She also said she had been told that Wood and Miss Sherlock were married immediately before their return to Peoria.

Assistant State's Attorney Christenson said marriage bureau records here show that Wood married Elizabeth Miller in Chicago two days after the decree was granted. Mrs. Wood said she believes Miss Miller and Miss Sherlock are the same person.

Benjamin C. Zernes, who acted as Wood's counsel in obtaining the divorce, said he knew nothing about his client's allegedly false testimony.

JAPAN TO BUILD MORE WARSHIPS AND WARPLANES

Warns U. S. Against Plan to Fortify Guam.

TOKIO, Feb. 8.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Japanese navy minister, today told the diet [parliament] that Japan was preparing a wholly new naval building program, the budget for which he said would be submitted soon.

Admiral Yonai did not state details, but he said the plan was designed to balance construction with that of other nations. The program will embrace construction of new vessels and expansion of the air force. He indicated that the budget would be large.

The admiral's announcement followed closely his declaration to the diet yesterday that fortification of the American island of Guam, 1,500 miles from Japan, would weaken American defense in the Pacific.

Feels Sorry for U. S.

Admiral Yonai said in answer to a question:

"At present there is no reason for tension between Japan and the United States. It is a gross misunderstanding to believe that the United States has aggressive designs upon Japan. However, to erect a fortress at a spot so far from a country is bound to weaken that country's defenses.

"So, if the United States fortifies Guam, all we can say is that we will feel sorry for the United States. Under the circumstances the navy is not attaching much importance to the Guam issue."

The phrase "feel sorry" was said by Japanese to mean this nation would regret if the United States felt it necessary to increase Pacific armament but that no threat was implied.

Two More Officials Slain.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The killing of two officials of the Japanese sponsored reformed government today brought to forty-seven the number of known political assassinations in this area. The assassinations occurred while more than 2 million Chinese and Japanese fought along a far-flung line spread over most of the map of China.

Chow Chi-tang, counselor of the government's finance ministry, was shot while riding through the streets of the International Settlement. His assailant pinned a note on his body saying, "You are a traitor."

Soo Che-dong, a tax collector, also was shot by a lone gunman.

The major war fronts were relatively quiet, but there were scores of hit and run engagements between Chinese guerrillas and Japanese mopping up columns as the war entered its twentieth month.

Too Much Speed

His fast driving was the objectionable thing about her husband, Mrs. Lillian Kusek, 22 years old, said yesterday when she appeared before Judge Oscar F. Nelson asking for temporary maintenance from Joseph Kusek, 28, of 2642 Iowa street. Joseph, she said, lured her into his car seeking a reconciliation and then drove 75 miles an hour trying to force her to return to him.

"Love at high speed?" asked Judge Nelson.

"No, love in reverse," replied Attorney Victor Frohlich, counsel for Mrs. Kusek. "My client's husband wants her to return to him. She's willing to consider this if she never has to ride in a car he's driving again."

Judge Nelson continued the case until next Monday, recommending that Kusek woo his wife with flowers and candy instead of his car.

FOUR INJURED AS FIVE TON TRUCK HITS STREET CAR

Four persons were injured and a dozen others were bruised and shaken last night when a five ton garbage truck crashed head-on into a northbound street car at Ashland avenue and 27th street. The left side of the street car's front platform was ripped away, but neither the motorman nor the truck driver was injured.

John Setla, 1616 West 17th street, was treated at St. Anthony's hospital and two other passengers, Miss Pauline Jaskulski, 36 years old, of 4047 South Albany avenue, and Miss Virginia Murray, 20, of 9014 Lowe avenue, were taken to West Side hospital. William Borgman of Oak Lawn was given first aid at the scene.

Brighton Park police booked the truck driver on a charge of reckless driving. He is Fred Crandall of 1619 Hastings street. The motorman was J. J. McNeil of Oak Lawn.

Miss Agnes O'Bierne, 60 years old, died in the Bethany hospital last night after being struck by an automobile at Van Buren street and Sacramento avenue. She lived at 322 South Richmond street. The car was driven by Russell B. Noble, 4352 North avenue.

Mrs. Loretta Schroll of 6643 South Union avenue escaped uninjured last night in a minor automobile collision at 51st street and Ridgeway avenue. She rode beside her daughter, Evelyn, 21 years old, who was driving. A few minutes later Mrs. Schroll collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack. She was 42 years old.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 105 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these eighty-five were killed in Chicago, where 1,995 were injured in the same period.

TWO ARE ROBBERS' VICTIMS.

Jack April was robbed of $28 by two gunmen last night in his shop at 1131 South Halsted street. A few minutes later the same bandits took $3 from Mark Young in the hallway of his rooming house at 1113 Newberry avenue.

PERIL OF FLOOD ON OHIO PASSES; CREEKS ON TEAR

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Danger from high water in the Ohio river valley was considered over tonight, but flash floods in the mountains of Kentucky caused apprehension.

Sufficient vaccine to treat 250,000 persons was made available to thirty eastern Kentucky mountain counties to fight influenza and pneumonia. The restoration of communications showed that area had been hit by water from creeks that rose quickly and then fell as rapidly.

Freezing temperatures forecast for the Ohio river valley were expected to check the swollen streams in that wide area. The Red Cross estimated 10,000 families in five states were affected by high water.

NAZIS DISCOVER OLD TESTAMENT COMES IN HANDY

Defend Barter Trade by Quoting Solomon.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Doubts as to the biblical knowledge of President Roosevelt and others who denounce German trade methods were expressed today by the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. The newspaper called upon King Solomon as the chief witness for the validity of business by barter.

The paper quoted verses eight to twelve, inclusive, of the fifth chapter of the first book of Kings, a part of the Old Testament which Nazis wanted eliminated from the Bible. The verses tell how King Solomon obtained wood for his temple in exchange for wheat and oil.

The newspaper asked: "When it is wise and godly to exchange wood against wheat and oil under a state treaty, then why is it not equally so to exchange wheat and oil against machinery?"

8—And Hiram sent to Solomon, saying, I have considered the things which thou sentest to me for: and I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir.

9—My servants shall bring them down from Lebanon unto the sea: and I will convey them by sea in floats unto the place that thou shalt appoint me, and will cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt accomplish my desire in giving food for my household.

10—So Hiram gave Solomon cedar trees and fir trees according to all his desire.

11—And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand measures of wheat for food to his household, and twenty measures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year.

12—And the Lord gave Solomon wisdom, as he promised him: and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon; and they two made a league together.

COURT ORDERS GUILD TO CEASE STORE PICKETING

A temporary injunction restraining the Chicago Newspaper Guild from picketing advertisers of the Evening American or the Herald and Examiner or from attempting to interfere in contractual relations between the newspapers and their advertisers was issued yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer. The judge also ordered the pickets at the entrances to the publishing plant of the two newspapers to be limited to two at each door.

"The court is not interested in either side," Judge Niemeyer said, "but there are certain questions of legal rights and the court must take the complaint alleging violations of the newspapers' rights as being true."

After hearing arguments of defense attorneys the judge said: "You have a right to strike and to picket your employer, but that does not give you the right to picket the plant of customers of your employer. If you were allowed to do this the picketing would go on endlessly."

Attorney Edward G. Woods, for the newspapers, said the National Labor Relations board has the dispute under consideration. He said the guild is attempting to coerce State street stores into breaking advertising contracts. The strike began last Dec. 5.

Pianist Slips on Names but Hits the Music

BY EDWARD BARRY.

". . . but in the hurry and confusion the New York manager sent the wrong——"

The audience braced itself to hear Henry E. Voegeli say "pianist," and began to envision Eddy Duchin or Art Tatum playing this fifth recital in the Musical Arts series. Instead he said "program."

This happened at Orchestra hall last night, where Josef Lhevinne, engaged on short notice after Serge Prokofieff canceled his American tour, had not only to play the piano but also to announce his numbers. This novel procedure gave the evening an informal, holiday air. The big Russian pianist groped for names, forgot opus numbers, and played magnificently.

Opening with a Mozart sonata, he warmed himself up technically to the point where the mercilessly difficult Schumann Toccata seemed fairly to be shaken from his sleeves. And its discouraging, lightning-like double notes arranged themselves into beautiful musical patterns. The whole piece had direction, sonority, and brilliance.

After tapping out a Mendelssohn Presto, Mr. Lhevinne got around to his Chopin. The A-flat prelude was warmly colored and glorified by a flexible, lyrical line. The B-flat minor, at the end of a group of four, left the piano smoking with the speed of its passing.

The F-minor ballade was played in a manner which many a purist would regard as too free. It was all rubato. Highly personalized colorings and dynamic effects, combined with this unfettered meter, made of the ballade almost an improvisation.

Mr. Lhevinne performed the A-flat waltz [the smallest and daintiest of the three in this key] with ravishing delicacy of tone and with subtle modifications of pace and force. After a mazurka the pianist applied himself to the C-sharp minor scherzo and succeeded in making the ungrateful piece not only majestically sonorous but dramatic and genuinely exciting as well.

A high point of the Debussy group came right at its beginning, in the intoxicating rhythmic understatement of "La Soirée dans Grenade." The "Valse Oubliée" of Liszt turned out to be another marvel of silvery daintiness. So did the same composer's "Gnomenreigen," where the pianist demonstrated in amazing fashion how a top-of-the-keys manner of playing simply makes a certain type of piece.

British Gag.

The current gag in London, as received in a Londoner's letter, is that Chamberlain is writing his autobiography, too. He will call it Mein Gamp.

• • •

"Gamp," in case you don't know, is British slang for umbrella. The word comes from the character in Dickens' Martin Chuzzlewit, Sarah Gamp, the nurse who carried a large umbrella. The Oxford dictionary gives one definition of gamp as an umbrella, especially one tied up in an untidy fashion.

Janet Spitzer Pollak's latest story concerns the American professor in London who was asked by a young English woman if he knew a friend of hers.

"She lives in Lima, Peru," she added.

The professor explained that he had never been to South America and had had no contact with it, so he wouldn't know her friend.

"Don't tell me there's still feeling between the north and south, long ago as the civil war was," exclaimed the young English woman.

Musical Mnemonics.

Musicians in Chicago are looking forward to the arrival of Dimitri Mitropoulos and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which will play at the Auditorium Feb. 21 for the benefit of the Illinois Masonic association. Mitropoulos, Greek composer and conductor, is in his early forties, but his amazing feats of memory already are legendary. When five prize compositions were played in Rome, with Mitropoulos conducting, he used no score, conducting the five new works from memory. Rachmaninoff played his First Concerto recently with the Minneapolis symphony in a new revised edition that Mitropoulos had not heard until Rachmaninoff arrived for rehersal. He conducted the concert from memory.

Elementary Patriotism.

Donald, age 7, when asked what he does at school every day, replied: "After the tardy bell rings we stand up and say, 'I fledge arriegence,' and then we sing 'My Country 'tis'."

• • •

"I send you the above story because I thought it amusing, but on sober second thought it should not be amusing to hear children mouth solemn words which can have no meaning for them," writes Mrs. Lillian M. Gumbiner.

Would it not be more impressive to their young souls to repeat a sentiment which their brief experience would make more understandable, such as "I salute the flag because I love the country for which it stands—MY country"? Then the "My Country 'tis" would mean more in the singing.

'Under Table' Manners Key to Your Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We will have to set our candid camera performer to work on a certain phase of woman's extraordinary gracelessness. We were reminded of this the other day when a luncheon companion urged us to turn and take a look at one of the women lunching at a table behind me but facing my companion.

We have seen under table sights in our day, but this was the worst ever. The woman had very heavy legs and the thick thighs that pull a dress up when a woman is seated. Her skirt was certainly six inches above her knees when we gazed, her feet twisted around the rung of the chair. You were too embarrassed to look at the face above it, which we suppose, however, was quite unconscious of the under table spectacle.

What our sex must try to understand is that a table doesn't cover a multitude of sins, shins, sights. Some one is always at a vantage point of observation, no matter where the table is located. And while concentration on good food and full enjoyment of it is commended, still if it can be done picturesquely, an enforced audience surely deserves that little consideration.

Old Feminine Frills Return to Clothes at Wash Apparel Show

More than 100 manufacturers from over the country are exhibiting wash apparel on the tenth floor of the Palmer House this week as out of town buyers visit the Chicago spring wholesale market.

Play clothes, beach clothes, cotton dresses with lingerie trims and other feminine frills, housecoats of mid-Victorian lines, with flounces and hoop effects, and even old-fashioned nightgowns with camisole tops are being reviewed by the buyers.

Tailored dresses with bloused bodices and gored or plaited skirts remain the chief item for daytime wear for summer, style experts said. Even in slacks and beach clothes women are demanding neatly tailored apparel.

Frock for Slender Figures

DRESS FOR MISSES.

Only the very young can wear a dress as girlish as this one. It is designed primarily for schoolgirls, co-eds, and young business women.

A bolero is the distinguishing feature of this costume. It should match the skirt to keep the color balance. It is a brief jacket, reaching only to the waistline. Its sleeves are puffed, as are those of the dress itself.

The collar of the frock may be edged with some trimming or be left perfectly plain. The bodice is shirred just above the waistline and directly under the collar. The waistline sector is "corselet" in effect, a slenderizing fashion. The skirt is widely flared, although sleek at the hips.

The entire frock may be made of one fabric, either plain or figured, or the blouse may be of a contrasting shade. Both silks and woolens make up well, and cottons are to be considered if you're planning a southern trip or intend to get your summer wardrobe ready now, before the rush.

Style No. 3277 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Child Needs a Guiding Hand, Not Freedom

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

She sat back, looking a little fagged as she unraveled the sleeve of the sweater she was knitting.

"What seems to be the trouble?" I asked.

"With what—the sweater or me?" she countered.

"Well—both," I replied, laughingly.

"With the sweater—O, I tried to knit in the midst of confusion. I'm not good enough for that, not yet. With me—well, I've just had a week's visit from an old school friend and her two children and ever since she left I've been trying to . . . unravel the effects of her two young Indians on Julie. I wouldn't have thought that one week of even such wild children as hers could be so demoralizing." She sighed. "Why, Julie's doing things it would never have even entered her head to do before."

"What was the trouble? Couldn't their parents do anything with the children at all?" I asked.

"It's worse even that that, I think," my visitor replied. "They didn't even try. They've taken the impossible ideal of perfect freedom and added it to what they think are the principles of progressive education, and the results in the children are nothing short of chaos—not to mention bad manners.

"Madge believes children should have no criticism or correction. They may be praised or admired. They must be allowed to follow their own impulses, and make their own decisions about everything. If you treat them that way, she says, nature will see that they come out all right in the end." Again my friend sighed.

"The end I can't see," she went on, "but the middle, which I did see, is—terrible! Those children are perfectly intolerable pests—brats, Bill called them."

Nature obviously meant us to protect and guide our young until they are old enough to make decisions and fend for themselves.

All young things need the guidance of an older, wiser, more experienced head. They do not know enough to use perfect freedom, even if there were such a thing. They are not experienced enough to make all their own decisions. They must be led through the years [and gradually] to independence, self-control, and freedom.

Luncheon Set Is Crocheted in Fan and Cone Design

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

When the energetic housewife feels the need of something new for her home, as well as for herself, she should sit down and crochet a luncheon set for her table in the fan and cone pattern illustrated today. A rectangular piece of white linen, four by nine inches, with fine, spidery edging, creates one of the loveliest of luncheon mats, and a center mat nine by eighteen inches acts as a centerpiece for a floral display. The chorus of O's and Ah's is more than gratifying for the few hours and little material required to complete the ensemble.

For instructions for crocheting the doily with the fan and cone edging, No. X-74, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Stage

Clare Booth, author of "The Women" and "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," visited last night's performance of the latter play at the Harris theater. It was the first time she had seen the Chicago company of her highly successful comedy.

*Vitamin "D" normally is produced in our bodies by the sun's ultra-violet rays. But during the winter these important rays just don't get to us. Smoke, soot and heavy atmosphere sift them out. English Union to Hear Owner of an Island

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANY ONE with sufficient energy will be able to brush up on any of the following subjects by next Saturday evening: The Chinese-Japanese situation; South American politics; world affairs; the feudal Isle of Sark; danger as a business, and cruising in the Caribbean. In this marathon of lecture-giving it is expected that the talk on the Isle of Sark will be the most unusual.

The speaker will be Mrs. Sybil Hathaway [Dame de Serk], feudal chief, owner, landlord, and queen of the little island, which is located in the English channel. Records of the island date from A. D. 565. Under the seal of Queen Elizabeth the isle was granted to a Frenchman on condition that only forty families live there. In 1732 the island was sold to Mrs. Hathaway's great-grandmother.

On this peaceful haven the natives refer to the king of England as "our feudal lord, the duke of Normandy." Mrs. Hathaway is the only islander who can grind corn or keep pigeons. The community makes its own laws, has its own tiny parliament, and no autos are allowed. One of the forty families enjoying the quiet life are the Max Bairds, former Chicagoans, who moved there in 1912.

Mrs. Hathaway's American sister-in-law, Mrs. Stuart Hathaway of Rye, N. Y., is visiting her aunt, Miss Florence Underwood, in Lake Forest. They will be among the most interested guests at the Arts club on Friday afternoon at a tea the English-Speaking union is giving for Dame de Serk. Because of the illness of Samuel Rinaker, president of the union, James F. Oates Jr. will introduce the speaker.

Mrs. Oates, Mrs. Oliver B. Brackett, and Mrs. Donald Welles will pour tea. Receiving with Mrs. Rinaker and Mrs. Hathaway will be Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, who is entertaining at luncheon next Sunday for another visitor, Mrs. Henry G. Boston of England, the former Olive Farwell; Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, and Mrs. James B. Forgan.

Relations Council to Hear Two Talks.

A talk on "The Lima Conference and After" and one on "Eyewitness in Japan and China" are being offered by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. The Lima talk will be given at luncheon tomorrow at the Palmer House. Edward Tomlinson will be the speaker.

The talk on China and Japan will be given at 12:30 o'clock on Saturday, also at the Palmer House. S. K. Ratcliffe, correspondent for the Spectator, in London, who has just returned from those countries, will lecture. Mr. Ratcliffe for many years was editor of The Calcutta Statesman, one of the leading English language newspapers in the orient.

"Danger Is My Business" is to be the subject of a talk by Capt. John D. Craig, explorer, deep sea diver, and photographer, on Friday night at the Woman's Athletic club. Miss Dorothy Thompson will be heard on "This Changing World" on Friday night at Orchestra hall in a lecture sponsored by Northwestern university. The university and Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Anderson are giving a reception for Miss Thompson at 9:45 o'clock at the University club, following the lecture.

"Cruising the Caribbean" is to be the first of a series of Burton Holmes travelogues. It will be given tonight in Orchestra hall.

Chamber Concert Series Opens Today.

The first of a series of chamber orchestra concerts to be conducted by Hans Lange will be given at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. The concert was postponed from Jan. 30 because of the snowstorm that day.

Newest Hats Are Made of Wood

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Thin, almost transparent strips of wood were used to fashion this unusual bonnet style hat trimmed with ribbon and flowers. This is as light as a feather. The colorings are especially attractive in russet to pale honey beige. Some of these wooden hats are turban in outline; some in conservative design have an eye shadowing brim. A perfect suit hat comes trimmed with gay plaid taffeta.

Navy Blue Gets an Early Start in Style Parade

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Every spring clothes in navy blue steal the spotlight. This season they're tempting the crowds a bit earlier and the showings rate all the notice they are getting. Good, glowing, vibrant navy blues are being displayed. There is nothing dull nor stodgy about a single shade. Suits are the last word in good nautical swank, crisp as a uniform, young, and appealingly alive in every streamline. These are the finds that are going to set sales records.

The suits come with snugly fitted jackets, all kinds of brief boleros, and the alluring bull fighter jackets. Trim little daytime dresses in navy blue come in thin wool and in dull crêpes. Cheerful prints with more blue than any other color are effective finds for any dull winter wardrobe.

Navy blue coats are plentiful and reasonable in price, whether you want a dress parade number, a sports style, or an all purpose coat.

If you like blue but not in overwhelming quantities you can use navy blue costume accents with beige, lime green, cranberry red, old gold, and the lighter shades of gray.

Skittish but provocative sailors come in navy with veils of such amazing colors as eye-blinding fuchsia, sulphur yellow, and a biting green difficult to describe but extremely decorative over a shallow brim of blue straw or fabric. Bags in blue, gloves that match exactly, footgear in suede, patent, and combines; blouses, belts, and petticoats have joined the blue parade.

Fashion photograph . . . wooden hats — the surprise of the season — are as light as a shaving and as lovely in coloring as anything you can find. The one illustrated is a large honey beige beauty, trimmed with ribbon. It looks like a fetching bonnet right out of "Gone with the Wind." Small tailored affairs made of the same interwoven thin wood and trimmed with gay plaid taffeta are ideal tops for the early spring coat or suit.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We have found a sachet powder that represents just about everything charming in the way of a scent. We wish we could sew a fine seam. We'd make dozens and dozens of tiny little pillows, stuff them with the fragrant powder, and strew them all over our person and our possessions.

Since we can't sew a stitch we've tried the old trick of using it as a skin perfume and we do like the results. It's a little wasteful, of course, but that's what comes of not being taught what needle and thread were invented for.

This sachet is one of a whole family—all very fine. Carnation, violet, wild rose, and other straight florals are as nice as they can be. But our pet is called "bouquet S," which sounds mysterious and not nearly romantic enough for the type of fragrance it is.

It's a sweet scent; if you like the exotic note in perfume it isn't your dish at all. But it's rather a subtle sweetness, not at all cloying and not at all soppy or sentimental. The fragrance clings to the fine white powder for an amazingly long time. Sealed in a silk sheath, which is the way sachet powders should be preserved, it will do duty for months on end.

We find more and more women wearing sachets, pinning them into their gowns not only while the gowns are on hangers but while they're actually being worn. A tiny pad doesn't make a bump to spoil the line of the dress, but it does serve to scent the gown and the skin it touches.

These sachet powders aren't nearly as expensive as some on the market. You can well afford to use them sparingly as a body powder after your bath. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Good Morning!

Test pilots and male aviation aces of all varieties are familiar to us. . . . Now come girl air pilots to compete with them for our interest.

Maids who earn precarious livings by entering air races are the heroines of this movie, and the spotlight picks out three such, Trixie Lee, just an adventurous damsel who loves her jobs; Lois Allen, married to a pilot, and one herself so that she can travel about with her "Speed," and Gerry Lester, a rich girl, who is out to show her father and boy friend that she's able to do something on her own.

The lives of these girls become entangled and their stories unfold to the tune of considerable suspense, some tragedy and an occasional laugh.

"Tailspin" gets a little soppy and out of hand at times, but with three such pretty heroines and a raft of such handsome males as were provided for the occasion by 20th Century-Fox, no movie could fail to be at least moderately "box office."

KIND: Latest episode in the Bulldog Drummond series.

ACTING: Snappy. John Howard, playing the lead for the third time, turns out a convincing performance as London's ace sleuth. So do H. B. Warner as the head of Scotland Yard, E. E. Clive as a butler, and George Zucco as—well, never mind. Heather Angel is sweet and unimportant as usual, as the girl Drummond is forever interrupted in marrying. . . .

DIRECTION: Able.

DIALOG: Deucedly British, daouncha know.

SOUNDS, SETS, SCENERY, PHOTOGRAPHY: Satisfactory.

Mannerisms.

John Barrymore lifts his right eyebrow before fastening a wild glare on his foil, and for good histronic measure rumples his hair. . . . Sam Jaffee opens his eyes so wide that you think they're going to pop, and then unlooses a very slow smile. . . . Carole Lombard always turns her left face to the camera, so that you see the faint scar on her cheek, result of an auto crash.

Claude Raines curls the right upper half of his lip, and if you don't think that's a trick, try it. . . . Fred Astaire yanks at the brim of his hat. . . . Ginger Rogers is always pulling at the top of her right stocking. . . . I've often heard of a person's eyes snapping: May Robson is the only one who actually gives you that impression when she flicks her lids. . . . Bette Davis opens her eyes and closes them as deliberately as a woman waving a fan. . . . Leslie Howard fingers his right lapel.

Lionel Barrymore grasps the right side of his vest before drawling a line, and as he delivers it, shoots his glance upward from under shaggy eyebrows. . . . Edna May Oliver snorts an "h-h-ummph" and touches the back of her coiffure. . . . Alice Faye always wets her lips just before they start shooting, a precaution that is a throwback to the days when the neighborhood photographer took the graduation pictures and warned the 10th avenue kids to wet their lips.

Donald Meek clutches both lapels with both hands, and no gesture so completely expresses helplessness. . . . Henry Hull bristles—even the hair on his head seems to be doing a rhumba. . . . Lewis Stone looks down over the top of his glasses, pulls his mouth together, and then smiles a reluctant smile.

Gable has twenty distinct mannerisms, but it's impossible to pin them down in a line. . . . Walt Disney is forever rapping the rubber end of a pencil on a desk or table. . . . Mickey Rooney has a habit of squaring off with his hands on his hips. . . . Hedy Lamar wrinkles her nose. . . . Joan Crawford reaches up and rubs her right eyebrow. . . . Lionel Atwill has a nervous habit of lifting the right side of his nose as though it were tickling him.

Cary Grant expresses astonishment by saying "Wouldn't that defeat you—wouldn't that defeat you?" . . . Patsy Kelly has a habit of expressing vagueness with her right hand, sort of a half gesture. . . . Victor McLaglen pulls at his ear. . . . L. B. Mayer is an eyeglass adjuster. . . . Mervyn Le Roy is a cigar roller.

Eleanor Powell always keeps her mouth open when she dances. . . . Errol Flynn keeps his left hand in his trousers pocket. . . . Fredric March pounds one hand into the palm of the other. . . . Adolphe Menjou is an arm folder. . . . Herbert Marshall always walks with his left arm close to his body, the hand extending forward. . . . Jimmy Stewart, like Chevalier, gets a lot of mileage out of his lower lip. . . . Henry Wilcoxson forever is pulling his lower lip with his right hand.

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bag, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. Next morning Charles and Mary are to be married. Detective Clancy appears after the wedding, just as word comes that old Pete has died. That night Mrs. Lodge commits suicide and Mary refuses to go to her new home with Charles.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

We retrieved the detective's small, hard worn suitcase and I carried it for him to my bedroom.

Mary's door was shut this time—I had expected it would be—and there was no light under it. I suspected, however, that she was not sleeping and I warned Clancy in a low voice that she was in the next room.

He was already opening his grip. From it he took a red and white striped flannelette night shirt.

"Are you going to sleep in that?" I asked, still holding my voice down.

"Sure, what else?"

"Clancy, you give me hope. No man who wears a striped night shirt can be entirely without a heart. Even a detective could deduce that."

"Don't depend on my havin' a heart. I ain't. Not in my official capacity." He was taking off his coat and vest. There was a shoulder holster under his arm. That's where he carried his service revolver. "O, here's the picture of my girl." He took it from the coat which he was hanging over the back of a chair.

I liked her and said so.

"She's great company," the detective said, yawning. "If you wasn't a crook I'd like to have you meet her."

"Thanks for nothing," I grinned at him.

"What for?" I asked.

Clancy climbed into bed before answering. Then he snapped the other bracelet on my wrist. "That's just in case you should decide to fade out on me durin' the night." He reached over with his free hand and turned out the bed lamp.

Handcuffed to another man was probably the most uncomfortable way to sleep that I had ever encountered in a long experience of taking my rest in unusual places and under trying circumstances.

Clancy went to sleep almost immediately. I had a lot of thoughts to turn over in my mind, almost all of them unpleasant ones. As far as my own personal affairs were concerned apparently the jig was up.

Looming more importantly on my horizon, however, was the fact that by returning to Chicago as a prisoner my period of usefulness to Mary would be brought to an abrupt close. Whether I could do anything for her or not if I were free to stay was a question, but at least I could try. And there was that last message of Pete Bowman's. "I can go peacefully now. There's a Bowman in the saddle again." How could I abandon the dying trust he had bequeathed me?

And above all was the fact that I was shamelessly, hopelessly in love with the girl in the next room, the wife of another man. What was she going to think of me when she found out that I was an imposter and a fugitive from the law as well?

Even when I did fall into a restless sleep my dreams were no consolation. Again I had that nightmare of lying over a cliff holding the slipping figure of her whom I loved.

I thought it was my own dream which awakened me. Just before I regained consciousness there had been a sharp cry and a groan.

I sat up excitedly in bed. The handcuff on my wrist prevented me from moving more than that.

There was another groan. Its source was alongside of myself—right there in the bed.

"What's the matter?" I demanded.

"You ought to know." Clancy was breathing hard. "You did it yourself, didn't you?"

"Did what?"

"I've been stabbed. I should have looked under your pillow for a knife."

"I didn't touch you." I was a little impatient. "I was sound asleep when your cry awakened me."

"Yeah? Well who else would want me out of the way?"

Suddenly the room was flooded with light.

Mary was standing at the door. It was evidently she who had turned on the switch. The back of her hand was against her mouth, stifling a scream as she looked toward the bed.

"John, dear—that blood—what has happened? Where are you hurt?"

"It's not me. It's Clancy."

I scarcely looked at her. I was staring in fascination at the red splotch on the pillow and sheet which was widening around the head and body of the Chicago detective. By contrast Clancy's face was ashen gray.

In Clancy's upper left arm was sticking a heavy knife—a vicious looking weapon with a wide blade. It had not penetrated deep—probably a bone had stopped it—and now, as Clancy writhed convulsively, the weight of the knife pulled it out of the wound and it fell to the floor with a clatter. An increased flow of blood spurted out of the cut.

"He'll bleed to death!" said Mary standing still in terrified inactivity at the door.

"Yes, from the kitchen."

"Then do that and make it a bit snappy."

Mary started toward the door.

"Wait a minute," I stopped her, "before you leave toss me that pair of trousers. No, not mine, the ones belonging to my friend."

Mary, slightly puzzled, complied and as soon as she left the room I fished in the trousers pocket, found the detective's keys, and unlocked myself from Clancy. I got up from bed and dropped the handcuffs in the drawer of a bureau.

"Don't worry, Clancy," I reassured the wounded detective. "I'm not going to run away. But I'm going to need both hands if we're going to stop that wound from bleeding." I slipped the pillow out from under his head. That was the first step.

Clancy was pretty weak now, but he was still a detective. He was looking toward the window.

"Was that screen out when we went to bed?" he asked.

"No." I had not noticed it myself.

I yanked an old-fashioned, framed chromo from the wall and pulled off the wire picture cord by which it had been suspended.

"This may not be very fancy but I'll bet it'll work," I declared as I reached Clancy's side.

Clancy looked up at me with a gray grin. "You're a sucker to try to save my life. This is your chance, mug."

"Yes—I've already thought of that. Pipe down and don't yell when I really put the screws on this."

I ripped off the sleeve of Clancy's night gown, all but a little at the very top.

Using that margin of cloth to keep the wire from cutting too deep into his flesh and wadding up the rest of the sleeve under his armpit, where the main artery is, I passed the picture cord around the whole business and twisted the ends together. As soon as it began to tighten up I inserted Clancy's own fountain pen in the loop and gave it a couple of more turns. That put the bit in it.

The flow of blood began to let up. Clancy's eyes closed. It probably hurt like hell.

Merry Widow Gives Romance a Sharp Turn

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Dear, dear, but the one who said a little widow is a dangerous thing said what our correspondent, "Troubled," would agree to be more devastating than a wisecrack.

"Troubled" and her young man had arrived at the stage of wedding plan discussion. They agreed to wait a little until the man's business improved. At the time, the young man was living with his parents not too far from "Troubled's" home, so that seeing each other several times a week and Sundays was no problem.

Because of a business change which looked more promising for an earlier marriage for the pair, the man moved to another town. Enter the little widow. Petite she is reported to be. Not a divorcée, either. Youngish and clever. She boards in the same house in which our hero took rooms. Now, instead of the visits to "Troubled" which he managed at holiday time, at least, even his letters are becoming rarer and rarer. When he does write, he gives a long recital of the reading he is doing and studies he is pursuing; says little about love or about the early marriage talked of. Word seeps through to "Troubled" that the reading and studying he is doing must be done with the widow. He's with her all the time.

"Troubled," of course, wants to know what her next step should be. Should she go to the man and find out the real status of their romance or step out with dignity? No other man ever will interest her, she is sure. She loved this one and has loved him for three years.

Why not descend upon the man and have the question settled? We think that, as an engaged girl, you have that right. Some explanation is due from him, naturally, since he did plan and talk marriage with you. But if you find that your place is usurped by the other woman, what then? We like best the dignified withdrawal without further fuss. But we are not every woman. And we are not in love with the man. We think that will be up to you, and you only, to decide.

At least, if you withdraw with whatever grace you can muster, you save your own face, so to speak. Besides, you cannot always blame individuals who fall into a new love affair. No one is to blame. It just happens and some one is hurt, unless that some one has the good sense to realize that "it is one of those things" which couldn't be helped but which needn't embitter one's life, either.

Persons who are prejudiced against plain fried potatoes hold their opinion because they've had the potatoes carelessly cooked or because they were leftovers, not freshly prepared "spuds." Greasy, soggy, or "unfresh" potatoes aren't very good. But fresh potatoes, cooked brown in butter or bacon fat, are delicious, especially when they're served with a minute steak and asparagus tips.

Here's an easy, short cut dinner which should be on the table less than an hour after the cook's entrance into the kitchen if she has her supplies all at hand.

SHORT CUT DINNER
Minute Steaks Fresh Fried Potatoes
Canned Asparagus Tips with Mock Hollandaise Sauce
Cabbage and Onion Slaw
Cracked Wheat Bread
Grape Jam
Fruit Ambrosia with Bakery or Grocery Shortbread Cookies
Coffee

MINUTE STEAKS

Have Porterhouse or sirloin steaks cut very thin so that they may be broiled or panbroiled in little longer than a minute. Have most of the rest of the dinner ready before starting to cook them so that there may be no delay from oven to dinner plate. Broil until brown on one side, sprinkle with salt and pepper, turn, and brown the other side. Season and add a small piece of butter to each portion.

FRESH FRIED POTATOES

Pare and slice raw potatoes into a skillet in which there are several tablespoons of butter. Season with salt and pepper, cover, and cook slowly until tender. Add a little water, two or three tablespoons, if the potatoes begin to stick. They should cook in about 25 minutes. Bacon fat may be used instead of butter.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup boiling water
Yolks of 2 eggs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Sprinkling paprika

Melt butter and blend in flour. Add boiling water, cook and stir for five minutes, and remove from heat. Beat in egg yolks and other ingredients. Serve hot. If necessary, keep hot in the top of a double boiler in which water is hot but not boiling.

FRUIT AMBROSIA

Fresh or canned fruit may be used. Arrange slices of fruit in sherbet glasses or dessert dishes alternately with shredded coconut. Pour a little of the fruit juice over the mixture and, if necessary, sweeten with confectioners' sugar.

Good fruits to use are sliced oranges, canned peaches [sliced or halves], canned apricots or cooked dried apricots, canned pears, pineapple, canned sweet cherries [pitted], and sections of grapefruit. A combination of fruits may be used. This makes a very simple dessert, but one which leaves a pleasant, comfortable after-feeling.

Of course, you want to serve something novel when you have that group of women friends in next week. You'll find it in Mary Meade's "Catering to Bridge Appetites," "Tips on Tea Parties," and "The New Sandwich Maker." They are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents each; by postpaid mail, 5 cents each.

Austin Niblack Resigns Hunt Place

To the regret of members of the Mill Creek hunt, Austin Niblack, joint master, with S. Prentice Porter, has resigned, leaving Mr. Porter to carry on as M. F. H. Mr. Niblack was the M. F. H. from 1921 to 1936 when Mr. Porter was elected joint master with him.

Charles R. Lindsay III., who was reëlected M. F. H. of the Wayne hunt at its annual meeting Saturday night was not present for the gathering. He had left for New Hampshire that day to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lindsay's father, Frederick Thomas Walsh.

Clark J. Lawrence and Denison B. Hull, joint masters of the Longmeadow Hounds, and other officers of the hunt were reëlected. Ernest S. Ballard, hunt secretary, and Mrs. Ballard are planning a trip to Tryon, N. C., for the hunting late next month.

The Wesley Memorial Hospital Service club will meet at 2 o'clock today on the roof garden of the hospital. Plans will be completed for a Mardi gras that the club is giving on Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Harding square.

Episcopal Meeting Grants Request of Bishop for Assistant

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop George Craig Stewart's request for a suffragan bishop to assist him in the Episcopal diocese of Chicago yesterday was granted by the 102d convention of the diocese. A suffragan bishop is one without right to succession. The election of the new bishop will be held in April or May at a special convention.

In a speech Monday night at a convention dinner Bishop Stewart said any clergyman of the diocese is eligible to election and that he favored some local nominee over an imported candidate.

In his charge before the convention the bishop advocated exchange of pulpits between Episcopal and Presbyterian pastors and increased fraternal relations between the pastoral groups as basis for ultimate union of the two churches.

While approving the broad movement toward eventual union of Presbyterians and Episcopalians, Bishop Stewart was critical of the specific terms of accord drawn recently by a joint unity committee of the two denominations. He declared it was not time to draw up an agreement.

GET THE NEXT PUZZLE IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Whenever a problem of play is put to me, there is one question which I invariably ask: Am I to play the hand as though at rubber bridge, or at duplicate with match-point scoring? This is vital information. At rubber bridge I am not interested in extra tricks and cheerfully concede all chance to make them if I can throw greater safeguards around my contract. At duplicate, in which extra tricks usually produce extra match points, safety is only one of the factors to be observed. Let us consider today's hand. Actually, it was played in a rubber bridge game, hence declarer's play was inconceivably bad. If he had made the same play on the same hand at duplicate bridge, I would not criticize it, at least, not severely.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened with the six of spades and declarer, apparently without giving the matter serious consideration, automatically reached for a low card from dummy. From that time on he was in trouble. East won with the king and promptly shifted to the heart queen. Declarer held up his ace for two rounds and then, having taken it, was faced with the necessity of guessing the diamond queen in order to run nine tricks. He had two spade tricks, one heart, and two clubs in clear sight, but still would need three diamonds. Acting on the "rule" of not finessing when holding nine of a suit, he laid down the diamond king, then led to dummy's ace. The rule let him down in this case, however [how sad that it does this so often], and his ninth trick never materialized. The defenders took three hearts, a spade, and a diamond.

It was nothing short of criminal to lose this contract in a rubber bridge game. Declarer should have seen that if East had the spade king and could win the first trick, a heart shift would be inevitable. This would drive out his single heart stopper before the diamond suit was surely established and would place him at the mercy of a successful diamond finesse or drop. It was not at all important that declarer make two spade tricks instead of one. The vital feature was to guard against a heart shift. It would have been completely safe for declarer to have put up dummy's spade ace at the first trick, then, to insure that East could not take the lead for a spade return through the queen, to take a diamond finesse from dummy up to the ten spot. West, of course, would have won with his queen, but could have made no return that would have affected the contract. A spade return merely would have established declarer's queen.

At match-point duplicate, I must admit that declarer would have a choice of plays at the first trick. The safety element still would require his putting up dummy's spade ace, but the factor of extra tricks might justify the attempt to win the first trick with the spade queen. It is this difference of objective, due to the scoring, that accounts for the difference in playing technique necessary at match-point duplicate and at rubber bridge.

The Housewife

After you've spent hours polishing the silver until it gleams like a mirror wouldn't you like to have it stay that way? Of course, the fiat silver will keep its brightness for a long time, for it's in and out of soapsuds and gets a three-times daily rubbing, but the large pieces—the tea service and the coffee service and the silver bowls and serving dishes tend to tarnish quickly.

You can prevent this if you use a liquid which acts as a transparent protecting coat over newly polished silver. It is made especially for the purpose. Simply apply it with a clean flannel cloth and then rub with another dry cloth. That's all there is to it. This silver protector is a great favorite with thousands of housewives. EDITH WEIGLE.

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Chicago's Blackhawks, who have been rather unfortunate in the last few weeks, came to life in Madison Square Garden tonight to battle the New York Americans to a 2 all tie in a National Hocky league game. Five thousand saw the Chicagoans rally in the first and second periods to tie the score.

Johnny Gottselig.

Goalie Mike Karakas held off repeated New York threats to enable the Hawks to return home in good spirits for their battle in the Chicago Stadium with the Detroit Red Wings Thursday night.

Johnny Gottselig of the Hawks, leading scorer in the National league, maintained his one point margin over Tommy Anderson of the Americans by scoring Chicago's first goal on passes from Joffre Desilets and Joe Cooper. Gottselig now has thirty points to Anderson's twenty-nine. The latter added a point to his total tonight with an assist.

Karakas Caught Unawares.

In the second period Hooley Smith put the Americans in front again with a drive from well out in the rink which hugged the ice all the way and slid into the net between Karakas' toes. The assisting cast in this case was made up of Art Chapman and Joe Jerwa.

Earl Robinson made a personal tour of the rink to tie the score within a minute after Smith had connected. He picked up a loose puck in center ice, stickhandled his way past the blue line, and then, after maneuvering the New York defense out of position, fired it past Goalie Earl Robertson. Robertson was back in the New York goal after missing two games because of illness.

Manager Paul Is Penalized.

Manager Paul Thompson, who served the only major penalty of the game, was in the coop when Wiseman scored the Americans' first goal. Boss Paul had been sent off for tripping.

One of the all round stars of the evening was Rookie Cooper, who was making his first New York appearance in a Blackhawk uniform.

ST. AMBROSE IS 42 TO 25 VICTOR OVER DUBUQUE

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—St. Ambrose college of Davenport won its eighth straight Iowa conference victory tonight over Dubuque university, 42 to 25.

The score at the end of the half was only 17 to 9 for St. Ambrose, but in the final half the Bees' regular lineup began clicking off the points so that score jumped from 24 to 15, 30 to 15, and finally 39 to 18 with four minutes left.

CUBS WILL OPEN AT HOME AGAINST REDS ON APRIL 18

National Laegue Lists 21 Night Games.

[SCHEDULE ON PAGE 21.]

The title holding Cubs, one of the four clubs privileged by the rotation system to open the 1939 pennant campaign on their home acres, have drawn the Cincinnati Reds as inaugural opponents for April 18, and as soon as Gabby Hartnett's hirelings learn of this they probably will start worrying about one Paul Derringer. He invariably trims them, so he undoubtedly will be honored with another fling at his cousins on opening day.

The other first day matches in the parent major will be New York at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at Boston, and St. Louis at Pittsburgh. All these secrets were revealed yesterday when the National league schedule was made public.

The schedule also showed that 21 night games have been booked, seven each in Cincinnati, which pioneered big league baseball under electric lights, Brooklyn, which turned on the lights last season, and Philadelphia, which is a freshman entry in nocturnal competition.

Giants Still Refuse.

The Cubs, who never have exercised their right to turn down after dinner engagements on the ball field, will get into all three of the night spots. The first of these will be at Brooklyn June 1. The next has been scheduled for July 13 at Philadelphia where the Phillies will take advantage of the lights being installed in Connie Mack's American league park. The Cubs' other evening display will be at Cincinnati Aug. 17.

Bill Terry, the manager of the Giants continues to refuse any part of night baseball. Each club with a lighting system can, under the rules, use it in seven games. The refusal of the Giants to participate leaves an extra date in each of the three cities. Cincinnati gets the extra date in Brooklyn and by way of reciprocation Brooklyn will have two nights in Cincinnati. The Cardinals have been allotted the extra date in Philadelphia.

Reds Jump Gun.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Pirates will pump the gun by twenty-four hours on the former's field. They'll play the afternoon of April 17.

In keeping with the schedule adopted several years ago, only one series of three games will be played before the teams move out of the cities drawing the April 18 openers. On April 21 the Giants will make their home debut against Boston, the Phillies will be at their rented home with the Dodgers, and the Cubs will figure in the kick off at St. Louis. Cincinnati's second homecoming with Pittsburgh will be delayed until April 22 because of their April 17 preliminary.

The Cubs will be home for the pair of July 4 games, playing St. Louis, and on Labor day for a twin bill with the Pirates. The Cubs will be at Cincinnati for the Memorial day double-header.

DISCUSS TAMPERING.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Tampering with ball players disturbed the customary calm of the National league's annual meeting for the ratification of the schedule today.

A resolution was adopted instructing President Ford C. Frick to communicate to each club owner a reminder of the league rule against negotiations for or with players not under contract, and discussions with any player under contract to another club.

The National league will be represented at the World Fair in New York this year, it was decided, but the manner of representation still is a question. A committee composed of Horace Stoneham, Larry MacPhail, and Frick was named to outline a plan.

Participation of National league players in the baseball centennial celebration at Cooperstown, N. Y., June 11 and 12 also was approved.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Loyola and De Paul universities, north side neighbors for years and double header chums for much of this basketball season, will forget all of the social amenities tonight when they meet in the Chicago Stadium in the annual civil war engagement conducted by the Catholic Youth Organization.

Loyola's Ramblers have played fourteen games thus far, De Paul's Blue Demons thirteen, but none of those twenty-seven ranks in importance with this evening's battle. A crowd in excess of 13,000 is expected. In their first Stadium game, played in 1937, 10,179 fans were present. Last year the crowd totaled 12,356.

Proceeds Go to Charity.

The two collegiate quintets will come on the floor after the conclusion of the preliminary game between two Catholic High School league teams, Mount Carmel and St. Philip, which will begin at 8 o'clock. Mount Carmel has won the St. George holiday championship the last two years, and St. Philip has lost only two games in thirteen starts this season.

Tickets for the two games, selling at 75 cents, $1, $1.50, and $2, may be obtained at the C. Y. O. Center, 31 East Congress street; Bond's Clothing store, 65 West Madison street, or at Loyola or De Paul universities. Proceeds of the game will be turned over to the C. Y. O.'s fund for underprivileged youth, conducted by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the organization.

Their Games Always Thrillers.

Until 1937, Loyola and De Paul had not met since 1931, when they divided a pair of games. The 1937 resumption proved to be one of the all time thrillers of Chicago basketball. In the final minute of regulation time, Bill O'Brien of the present Rambler team, then a substitute, came into the game to score the field goal which tied the game at 40 to 40.

At the end of the first overtime, the count was 42 to 42. In the second extra period, Murray of Loyola connected for a basket and Wibs Kautz and Marv Colen for free throws before Willie Phillips hit from the foul line for De Paul and the ultimate score of 46 to 43. Last year, Loyola led only 23 to 21 at the half, but pulled away in the final five minutes for a 53 to 40 triumph. Another victory tonight will give Loyola permanent possession of the trophy placed in competition for this series in 1937.

On their record to date, the Ramblers stand out as head and shoulders favorites. They have played fourteen games and won all of them to remain the only undefeated quintet in the central states. De Paul has won eight of its thirteen games, but the rivalry between the two teams may gear the Blue Demons to the type of play that might well hand Loyola its first defeat.

To the psychological advantage that goes with the underdog has been added another incentive. It is the absence of Elmer Gainer, 6 foot 6 inch center, who suffered a dislocated right shoulder in the Demons' battle with Butler last Friday night. Judging by the fire with which they went through their final workout yesterday afternoon in the stadium, Coach Tom Haggerty's lads intend to make up for the loss of Gainer with a victory.

Kautz, Neu Scoring Aces.

Coach Lennie Sachs and his Ramblers took over the stadium court for their finishing drill last night. Sachs, who has only eight men on his squad, will start the five players who have run up Loyola's victory streak this year. Six foot 9 inch Mike Novak will be at center, with O'Brien and George Hogan at forwards, and Kautz and George Wenskus at guards. Kautz and Novak form one of the ablest scoring combinations in the game, the former having averaged 17.15 points for fourteen games.

Chet Tollstam, 6 foot 2 inch second year man, will take Gainer's place at center for De Paul. The Blue Demon forwards will be Bob Neu, who set a De Paul season scoring record of 250 points last year, and Ed Norris, who has proven himself as able at basketball as he is at football. The De Paul guards will be big Ted Skrodzki, and Stan Szukala, a smart defense player who collects his share of baskets.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The south side opened its Golden Gloves eliminations amid cheers and laughter last night in White City. The cheers were for the courage of the youngsters who took terrific punches with only a blink and for the skill of those who dealt the blows. The laughter was part of the good humored informality that went with the show. It greeted the work of some of the novices who spiced the program with unpredictable and spontaneous bits of strategy.

The sectional eliminations will pick up new speed tonight when west and south sides fight simultaneously. The west will take up where it left off last week and will go on tomorrow to pick the team it will send into the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 27, 28 and March 1.

A Bit of Everything.

The south side fighters last night put on the variety show Golden Gloves crowds have come to expect. They mixed the spectacular with the amusing. They pepped up skilful boxing with rough and tumble slugging.

John Bosh, a 135 pound novice from the Lindgren A. C., did an interesting job of beating Clyde Moran, 9351 Marquette avenue, on a technical knockout in the second round. Moran rushed repeatedly in the early stages, but Bosh met every charge with a straight left to the jaw. This left was what decided the bout. Again and again Moran came in to meet a solid fist. Gradually it wore him down.

Two Starts, One Victory.

Frank Spires of the Savoy A. C., was so highly keyed that he came charging out of his corner and took a fighting stance at an accidental clang of the bell while the announcer was still making the introductions. Finding no one but the announcer to slug, Spires returned to his corner. Although he had expended great energy in that first aggressive charge, he retained enough pep to take a decision over Thomas Anderson.

Joe Busillo of the St. James Aces did more work than anyone else in the house last night, winning a decision over Leonard Gooch of the C. Y. O. and coming back after a rest to score a technical knockout over Richard Merrill of the C. Y. O. in the second round.

Against both of his opponents, Busillo used long roundhouse punches and uppercuts that called for a ter-

MANLEY JUNIORS WIN; TAKE OVER SECTIONAL LEAD

Whip Harrison, 34-22, to Break Tie.

Manley's junior basketball team broke the tie for first place in the central section of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday with a 34 to 22 triumph over the previously unbeaten Harrison quintet. These teams had been tied for the lead with five victories and no defeats each.

Manley built up an 11 to 4 margin in the first quarter and though outscored in the second period, had an 18 to 12 lead at the half. The final two quarters found Manley adding to its advantage, scoring eight points in each period against five in each by Harrison.

Wells Seniors Win.

Wells' seniors beat Tuley, 37 to 23, to go into a tie with Marshall for second place in the west division. Wells led, 12 to 9, at the half.

In a Suburban league game, the Waukegan heavyweights defeated Evanston, 35 to 34, in Evanston. It was the fifth victory in nine games for Waukegan, which moved into third place. Waukegan won the frosh-soph game, 23 to 19.

Harvard Seeks No. 13.

Central Y. M. C. A. Day School will attempt to stop the undefeated Harvard quintet today in a Chicago Private School league game on the "Y" floor, 19 South La Salle street. Coach Harry G. Mitchell's Y quintet has won two of four league starts. Harvard, coached by Les Dohr, former Lake Forest college football and basketball star, will be seeking its thirteenth straight victory.

Snead Tosses Off Illness; to Join Pro Rivals

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Sam Snead served notice today of his intention to return immediately to the battles of the greens after shooting a five below par 65 aided by a new putter.

Snead, who rated a top money maker among the golfing pros of 1938, will leave Saturday for the winter circuit once more, joining his rivals at New Orleans.

"I'm getting restless and want to get back in the game," said Sam, "besides I've got to try for some purses. This layoff has knocked a big hole in my earning average. Those income tax inspectors'll get suspicious if my 1939 income is only half of last year."

Sam caught cold while on the rounds with the pros a month ago and lost twenty-four pounds. He came home to rest up.

He looks better and for a week has been anxious to get back. Dr. I. T. Hornsbarger, Hot Springs, Va., physician, and Freddie Martin, White Sulphur pro, persuaded Sam to hold off awhile.

It was a good idea, for he put on more weight, which he needs for those powerhouse drives of his. Sam doesn't talk much about the money he earned last year, but purses amounted to $19,631 and exhibition fees to $1,300. Then there were other emoluments for endorsements.

Seabiscuit's New Mate Last in U. S. Debut

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—B. P. Woodson's Leading Article won the $2,000 Pacific Palisades handicap today as Sorteado, one of Charles S. Howard's three candidates in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, ran last in his American debut at Santa Anita park.

Sorteado, highly publicized $45,000 purchase of Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, was slow getting started, and trailed the field throughout the six furlongs.

The winner paid $7.60, $4.60, and $2.20. Speed to Spare paid $6.20 and $2.40 and A. G. Vanderbilt's Airflame, third, paid $2.20. Honey Cloud was fourth and High Lark fifth.

While Sorteado's appearance was far from a brilliant one, experienced horsemen did not regard it as a blow to Howard's hopes for a double threat in the $100,000 handicap. They pointed out that the 4 year old Sorteado had come along faster in training than expected since reaching this country last fall, and was racing under different conditions than in South America.

Seabiscuit's oft delayed 1939 debut at Santa Anita is scheduled to be made tomorrow in a three horse race at a mile for a $2,000 purse.

A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM

IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy ... Leaves Skin Soft

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

FOOTBALL CLUBS HAVE A LOT OF SWAPPING TO DO

National League Magnates Meet Tomorrow.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Trading of players, a practical and progressive major league activity in which professional football has remained decidedly minor league, possibly may furnish the chief items of interest when National Football league magnates convene for their annual executive meeting in the Congress hotel tomorrow.

Every coach in the league can find precisely what he needs on the rosters and assignment lists of other teams. The assignment lists, which commonly are called draft lists over the magnates' protests, are especially conducive to bartering. Coaches are more willing to trade a college star who has yet to establish that he can meet professional requirements than they are men of proven ability.

They All Want Sid.

One of the most sought after draftees will be Sid Luckman, the Columbia passer who, after four years of college preparation, is contemplating a career as a truck driver. The Chicago Bears hold the rights to Luckman's services. The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers were very much put out by the deal which gave the Bears exclusive call on the popular New Yorker.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, insists if Luckman plays he will play for the Bears in Chicago. Halas was adamant on the matter when last interviewed, but up to that time New York had not offered any standout player in exchange. He is very apt to forget all his resolutions if Coach Steve Owen suggests Ed Widseth, for instance. Halas, in the process of rebuilding, needs tackles badly, among other things. Brooklyn probably could have Luckman without much bickering if Coach Potsy Clark offered Bruiser Kinnard in exchange.

He Has to Be Good.

Anything short of a man of Widseth's or Kinnard's ability will not move Halas, however, for he places very little stock in the report that Luckman will forgo professional football to enter the trucking business.

Every coach wants John Drake, the former Purdue full back who has starred with Cleveland for two seasons. This group includes Dutch Clark, the new coach at Cleveland. Drake is considered one of the outstanding players in the league by coaches and owners alike and numerous attempts have been made to get him away from the Rams. But all offers, including one of a reported $10,000 by Detroit, have been refused.

Nevers Will Be Popular.

Ernie Nevers, who will represent the Chicago Cardinals as coach at an executive meeting for the first time in seven years, also will be a popular fellow. Owner Art Rooney of Pittsburgh, and his coach, Johnny Blood, will lead the parade to Nevers' corner in quest of one or more of the three University of Pittsburgh stars the Cardinals drew in the draft. Rooney would like to have Marshall Goldberg, but could be persuaded to settle for Harold Stebbins or Bill Daddio, the end. There also will be some offers for Gaynell Tinsley, the veteran end. There always are.

Jacobs Vetoes April Showing of Louis Here

Joe Louis will not appear in Chicago Stadium in April before his contemplated heavyweight title defense against Tony Galento next summer, it was reported last night. In fact it was said that Mike Jacobs, who holds an option on Louis' services, will not offer any shows here this season, contrary to previous reports.

Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, sparred three rounds yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium, two with Cocky O'Brien and one with Walter Balasa for his eight round headliner with Eddie Lander in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Leo Rodak, who knocked out Young Billy Miller in Pittsburgh Monday, will resume workouts today for his ten round match with Al Reid in New York, Feb. 13. . . . Ken Overlin, who decisively defeated Al Quaill for the fourth time Monday, will leave tomorrow for Houston, Tex., where he boxes Al Bernard at ten rounds next Tuesday.

Sammy Angott may meet Billy Marquardt in the Coliseum Feb. 16. . . . Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization wealterweight, is matched with Owen Woods on the card headed by an exhibition involving Henry Armstrong in Racine, Wis., tonight. . . . Jimmy Mason, who knocked out Norman Gauer in Milwaukee recently, is down for a six rounder against Verle Davis, Kankakee lightweight, in White City Friday. Davis kept his record clear of defeats by stopping Young Armando Santiago in Marigold Gardens Monday. In other matches on the White City program Mike Adler clashes with Perk Daniels and Marion Mosley with Joe Lubin. Tony Musto and Clarence Brown are opponents in the eight round windup.

Chin Lee, Chinese heavyweight wrestler, meets Misteree Mann in the wrestling topliner tonight in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. . . . Al Williams faces Farmer Mack, Fred Grubmier encounters Bob Jesson, Rudy Kay meets Joe Szabo, and Roy Rickenbacher tackles Ray Clements. . . . Jack Claybourn and Jack Conley will be principals in the main event of the mat show in the Rand Boys' club, 7508 Saginaw avenue, tonight. Babe Kasboski wrestles Jack Hagen in the secondary feature. Preliminary struggles include one between Kic Chapman and Stanley Novak. F. M.

rific expenditure of energy. If one of them had landed squarely it probably would have sent the recipient out into the seats. Busillo floored Merrill several times before the bout was stopped.

Some Pick Champs.

The northwest side will enter the battle next week and the north side will begin its eliminations Feb. 20. Chicago's section titleholders will join the winners from forty-seven out of town centers in the Tournament of Champions.

Several of the out of town centers already have picked their teams. Finals will be held tonight in Cincinnati and semi-finals in Cedar Rapids, Dayton, Springfield, and Wisconsin Rapids. In each of these centers a newspaper coöperates with THE TRIBUNE in the sponsorship of Golden Gloves tournaments.

Each of the forty-seven centers, which are located in sixteen states, draws boxers from a large surrounding area. In many cases preliminary tournaments are held in several other cities. As a result the winners represent the best amateur boxing talent to be found in approximately twenty-five states.

IOWA SWIMMING STAR ENROLLS AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—University of Michigan swimming prospects were brightened today by the arrival of Francis Heydt, University of Iowa back stroke star who announced he was enrolling. Heydt was ranked as the second best back stroke man in collegiate swimming last year as a sophomore at Iowa.

Heydt's transfer recalls the transfer of Ed Kirar, Michigan's 1938 swimming captain, after a year at Wisconsin, and of Baker Bryant after a year at Ohio State.

They Whistle, Then Fight in Golden Gloves

One of the first novice lightweights to advance to tonight's session in the south sectional Golden Gloves competition in White City last night was Phil Mosley, 18 year old porter in a 12th street department store. Mosley qualified when John Bosh of the Lindgren A. C. was rejected by physicians after having scored a two round technical knockout over Clyde Moran, 9351 Marquette avenue, in his first bout. Mosley's first victim was Ernest Pancer, unattached.

Bill Hawkins, flyweight from Hyde Park High school, whistled merrily while waiting for his turn to compete last night. He was disappointed when he drew a bye and was told to return tonight.

Paul Frazier, 1936 Golden Gloves finalist who won his intercity fight against New York, helped prepare a dozen Savoy A. C. boxers for matches last night. Frazier is one of several open division middleweights who report at White City tomorrow.

Johnny Guidara, redheaded lightweight who last week caught the fancy of the crowd which saw him advance to tonight's west side eliminations in the Madison Athletic club, served as a second for three chums at White City last night. He is a brother of Sammy Guidara, former C. Y. O. flyweight champion and Golden Gloves runnerup, who died a year ago last November. Johnny, who resides at 517 West 25th place, has his own fruit and vegetable route. He was 19 years old last Christmas day.

Henry Fuscaldo, C. Y. O. flyweight title holder who was eliminated in the 1933 Tournament of Champions, handled four representatives of the Bill Rand Boys' club. Fuscaldo is the club's trainer. F. M.

Gallery declared he had obtained Jacobs' approval for the match. Jacobs has first call on the champion's ring services. Monday, April 24, was announced as the tentative date, but Gallery said it must be held earlier.

Roper, rated the Pacific coast's most dangerous heavyweight although over 35, started a comeback more than a year ago and his most recent victims include Patsy Perroni, Jorge Brescia, and Eddie Simms, with a one round knockout over Bob Nestell in his last appearance.

Roper, who claims West Virginia as his home state, is billed to meet Junior Munsell of Oklahoma Friday at Hollywood stadium.

NEW UTILITIES POWER PLAN IS FILED BY ATLAS

Columbia Gas Also Asks to Simplify Setup.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission announced today that the Atlas corporation has filed a new plan for reorganization of the Utilities Power and Light corporation.

The commission also announced that the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation, a $725,000,000 utility holding concern, has filed a plan for simplifying its structure under the federal holding company act. The law requires that utility holding companies simplify themselves financially and geographically.

Atlas corporation, an investment company, owns securities in Utilities Power and Light. The latter is in reorganization under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act. The new plan, the commission said, contemplates that assets of Utilities Power and Light will be vested in a new company.

Provide for Valuing Assets.

The plan provides that the assets of the old company transferred to the new company shall be carried "at such figure as shall be fixed or approved by the Securities and Exchange commission and the court."

Lacking such decision the assets shall be entered on the books at a value of $48,000,000. This figure, the commission said, shall be "less any cash distributions to security holders other than that of $9,000,000 which is being used to acquire old debentures."

The plan also provides that directors of the new company may set up a reserve of $3,000,000 "for revaluation of assets." Claims ranking ahead of the now outstanding debentures "are to be paid in full in cash and are not to be affected by the plan."

Columbia Gas Plan Details.

The plan filed with the commission by Columbia Gas and Electric corporation proposes the following changes in the company's system:

Atlantic Seaboard corporation, the only subsidiary of Columbia which is a holding company, will sell the stocks and bonds which it owns of Amere Gas Utilities company, Virginia Gas Distribution corporation, and Virginia Gas Transmission corporation, to Columbia Gas and Electric corporation.

These three companies will thus become 100 per cent owned, direct subsidiaries of Columbia Gas and Electric, and Atlantic Seaboard corporation will cease to be a holding company.

The following subsidiary companies of Columbia Gas and Electric will cease to control any other companies: United Fuel Gas company, The Manufacturers Light and Heat company, Fayette County Gas company, and the Cincinnati, Newport and Covington Railway company.

Eastern Pipe Line company will sell its physical assets to Home Gas company and Eastern Pipe Line company will be dissolved.

Hybrid Corn Values.

February 7, 1939.

THE rapid spread of hybrid corn adds many new growers to the list of hybrid raisers each year, bringing a flood of questions about the feeding value of this "miracle crop" compared to that of open pollinated varieties.

The majority of farmers apparently has accepted the hybrid without questioning whether it will withstand the test in their feed lots. Some questioned the value of hybrid corn in putting pounds on cattle, hogs, and sheep, but were willing temporarily at least to accept results until scientific findings could be made.

High Yields Attractive.

Unusually high yields—much higher than the old established varieties of corn—was sufficient reason for farmers to start growing hybrids. Proof that hybrids are being generally accepted is found in the fact that 15 million acres of corn land were planted to hybrids last year. It is estimated that at least 50 per cent of the corn acreage of the corn belt will be planted with hybrid seed this year.

Last year more than half the corn land totaling nearly 8½ million acres in Illinois was planted with hybrid seed. Some place the estimate at 5 million acres. In some counties of the state 80 to 90 per cent of the corn raised in 1938 was of the hybrid strains.

There is little scientific information available on the feeding value of hybrid corn. In some states no experiments have been made to determine the relative feeding value of hybrids and open pollinated corn.

Practical farmers in Wisconsin say that hybrid corn has fully the same feeding value as the open pollinated varieties. A. H. Wright, hybrid corn specialist at Madison, Wis., says that he is receiving inquiries regarding the feeding value of hybrid corn compared with open pollinated corn.

He reports that no experiments have been conducted at Madison on this question. Information coming in from Wisconsin farmers who have raised hybrid corn for several years indicated that it is the equal of open pollinated corn, both for grain and for silage.

Comparisons Started.

W. L. Loeffel, animal husbandry expert at Lincoln, Neb., says that at present the evidence from feeding practices does not indicate a deficiency in hybrid corn as compared with open pollinated corn. The agricultural station in that state is just starting a few comparisons, but no data is yet available from these trials.

R. T. Prescott of the same city says there seem to be all sorts of opinions among farmers about the use of hybrid corn. "Some are enthusiastic in praise and others are doubtful, or actually convinced that its use is impractical," he added.

No great amount of experimental work has been done in Illinois on the feeding value of hybrids. Nutrition experts at the Urbana station have not made any tests bearing on the relative feeding value of hybrids and open pollinated corn.

ADMITS SILVER POLICY HELPS OTHER NATIONS

Morgenthau Says It Is Trade Factor.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today admitted before a senate committee that the administration's silver policy benefited foreign countries by supplying them with exchange to buy American exports.

Morgenthau's testimony before the committee proved thin, as the special silver committee is overwhelmingly in favor of the administration's subsidy to domestic silver producers. The committee steered clear of questions concerning Morgenthau's attitude on the subsidy and he did not voluntarily express his well known opposition to the subsidy.

Under the present policy the treasury is paying 64.64 cents an ounce for newly mined domestic silver which would be worth about 43 cents on the open market. The treasury also pays 43 cents an ounce for foreign metal.

Pittman Conducts Questioning.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the silver committee and head of the silver bloc in congress, conducted the questioning of Morgenthau. He devoted the hearing mostly to a series of questions which Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.] released recently as queries Townsend had received concerning his bill for repeal of the silver purchase act of 1934. Townsend had included his answers in the release.

Townsend is now a member of the silver committee and the leading opponent of the silver program in the senate. He was absent from the meeting today, so Pittman declared the "Townsend questions" represented the chief objections to the silver act.

This actually resulted in a whitewashing of the objections, as the questions were really not Townsend's, and his answers, containing the real objections, were not mentioned. The Townsend questions and answers appeared in a press release of Jan. 23.

Says Japan Benefits.

One of these questions concerned the countries besides China and Mexico that benefited from the silver policy. Morgenthau replied that these included Canada, Peru, Chile, the Philippines, Japan "and a number of other countries."

The secretary also replied in the affirmative when asked whether the policy benefited countries importing from us by giving them an exchange for our imports.

Morgenthau also was asked whether the government ceased the purchase of Mexican silver after seizure of American goods and properties by Mexico last year.

"In answer to that," said Morgenthau, "the United States treasury had a month to month agreement with the treasury of the Mexican government to purchase 5,000,000 ounces of silver each month. We permitted it to lapse in March, 1938."

Questioned By Senator King.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah], another silverite, asked the secretary whether the treasury was not still purchasing Mexican silver, possibly indirectly through London. Morgenthau insisted that he did not know, because "since March, 1938, I've had no direct contact with the Mexican government."

His statement was in direct contradiction to a recent treasury bulletin showing that between March, 1938, and Jan. 1, 1939, this country imported $23,300,000 worth of silver from Mexico, bringing the total Mexican silver imports for 1938 to $41,715,000.

BLOCK PROPOSAL TO QUIZ HULL ON MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The house shelved today a resolution calling on Secretary Hull to answer twelve questions involving the seizure of American properties in Mexico and American-Mexican relations.

Acting Chairman Bloom [D., N. Y.], told members that Hull had sent the foreign affairs committee such information as was in the public interest and that it was on file.

Representative Fish [R., N. Y.], inquired whether the report could be seen by representatives or by the press. Speaker Bankhead told him that was a matter for the committee to decide. Committee officials said it would be kept secret.

The shelved resolution asked whether the state department had agreed to the expropriation of any American owned property in Mexico after the recent United States-Mexican agreement to adjudicate land claims was signed, and whether any such property was expropriated.

Insiders Sell Stock in Own Firms Heavily

Corporation "insiders" during December unloaded blocks of stock in their own companies ranging from hundreds to many thousands of shares, the Securities and Exchange commission revealed yesterday. The "insiders"—officers, directors, and stockholders—have been on the selling side of the market since October, 1937. In December, as usual, purchases were small compared with sales.

Henry D. Faxon sells all McKesson & Robbins stock.

The SEC reports twice a month on stock transactions of the "insiders." The report made public yesterday was its first on sales and purchases in December. A subsequent one for that month will be issued in two weeks.

Sell McKesson-Robbins Stock.

A feature of the current report was several sizable sales of stock in McKesson & Robbins, Inc., the big wholesale drug company which during December was the center of probably the most daring swindle of modern times. It was revealed that William F. Geary, reported to be an officer, sold his entire common stock holdings of 2,300 shares on Dec. 27. On the same date he bought 300 preferred shares, increasing his interest in this class to 1,847 shares.

Thomas J. Turnbull, also described as an officer, disposed of 1,100 common shares, his entire common holdings, during the month. He bought 148 preferred shares, giving him a total of 192. Henry D. Faxon, vice president and secretary, unloaded 1,001 common shares and 718 preferred shares, his entire holdings. Other minor transactions in McKesson & Robbins stocks were listed.

Steel Company Shares Sold.

Yesterday's report disclosed that stocks of several steel companies and allied enterprises were sold or given away during December. Charles S. Payson, a director of the American Rolling Mill company, sold 4,000 shares of that corporation's common stock, reducing his holdings to 81,000 shares. Charles D. Marshall, a director of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, unloaded 6,000 common shares, cutting his holdings to 30,200.

Leopold E. Block, chairman of the Inland Steel company, gave away 1,340 common shares, leaving 22,018. Philip D. Block, president, gave away 220 common shares, leaving 24,901, and Everett D. Graff, a director, disposed of 668 shares, leaving 4,341. Several smaller transactions in Inland Steel stock were reported. All of the above mentioned Inland Steel executives are Chicagoans.

Gift of Keystone Steel Stock.

Twenty-five hundred common shares of the Keystone Steel and Wire company were given away by W. H. Sommer, president. This left him 27,360 shares. William O. Fritze, assistant treasurer and a director of Keystone Steel, gave away 300 shares, leaving 2,000.

A probable explanation for many of the "gifts" of stock disclosed in the December report was that the "insiders" wished to reduce their holdings before income tax time.

Transportation issues also were sold heavily in December. A director of the Milwaukee road, Philip J. Roosevelt, disposed of 3,600 common shares to cut his direct holdings to 2,700. He also sold 600 preferred shares from his direct holdings, leaving 3,000. Indirectly he controls 100 common and 200 preferred shares through a trust.

Du Pont Sells Rail Shares.

Pierre S. du Pont, a director of the Pennsylvania railroad, sold 8,750 capital shares, leaving 1,500. He also owns $41,000 in 3¼ per cent convertible debentures of the road, the report showed.

Fifteen hundred shares of Western Pacific railroad preferred stock were unloaded by Willis D. Wood, described as a director. This left Wood 500 preferred and 100 common shares.

Greyhound corporation stock again was heavily sold. O. S. Caesar, Chicago, vice president and director, sold 1,300 common shares, leaving 21,500 held directly. He also has 17,780 common shares in a holding company. Arthur M. Hill, vice president and director, sold 1,000 shares, leaving 49,000. R. E. Maxwell, secretary and assistant treasurer, sold 2,000 shares, leaving 8,000.

Three big Chicago stores figured in important transactions in December, the report showed. Stanley Field, a director of Marshall Field & Co., disposed of 2,650 common shares held directly, leaving 18,287. A total of 6,028 common shares he had held in two trusts also were sold. This dis-

SEC Is Denied Old Records of Bancitaly

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—Another clash occurred in the Transamerica corporation proceedings before the Securities and Exchange commission today as the trial examiner held the SEC could not demand certain records covering periods prior to 1930. Counsel for the SEC immediately appealed the ruling to the full commission.

O. John Rogge, SEC counsel, had demanded of Transamerica corporation that it produce books and records of Bancitaly Company of America, a former subsidiary of Transamerica, back to 1927.

Rogge, in an explanation to Trial Examiner Henry Fitts, said these records were necessary to trace payments by Bancitaly to A. P. Giannini, chairman of Transamerica, top holding company for the Giannini branch banking and investing enterprise in California.

Delve Into $65,914 Payment.

SEC counsel was questioning W. L. Andrews, treasurer of Transamerica, concerning an alleged payment of $65,914 to Giannini by Bancitaly in 1936, when the corporation was a subsidiary of Transamerica. The SEC, as part of its charges that Transamerica filed "false and misleading" information, says that a registration statement filed with the SEC at that time showed Giannini's only salary to be $1 a year as chairman of Transamerica.

The SEC also charges that Giannini had a personal drawing account of $1,400,000 with Bancitaly after 1930 and that he withdrew $686,000 of it, although advised by counsel that it was illegal.

Wants to Go Back to 1927.

"I can't start anywhere except at the beginning and that means I must go back as far as 1927," said Rogge hotly when Fitts upheld the contention of Transamerica counsel that it was required by the SEC's order against Transamerica to produce records since 1930.

Fitts ruled that the commission's order, charging Transamerica and subsidiaries with filing false and misleading statements and ordering Transamerica to show cause why its stock should not be delisted, was not broad enough to include transactions prior to 1930.

Rogge then produced a copy of the subpena for records of Transamerica and subsidiaries. He emphasized a section calling for records on compensation to Giannini as far back as 1927. Fitts permitted Rogge to ask Andrews for the records.

Hearing Breaks Up.

William Stanley, Transamerica counsel, objected and the hearing broke up as Rogge immediately carried his appeal to the commission.

Proceedings were resumed later, pending an order from the commission, and counsel for Transamerica admitted that substantially all of the payments by Bancitaly to Giannini were for the latter's personal use, including possibly the payment of income tax.

As was expected, the Bank of America today filed an appeal with the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals on a District court decision denying an injunction for the bank against the SEC.

Roosevelt Asks Free Rein on Coal Bureau Expenses

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent to the house today a recommendation that a statutory provision limiting expenditures of the National Bituminous Coal commission to its aggregate operating revenues be removed.

TVA TO SEEK PROPERTIES OF ALABAMA FIRM

Prepares Parley on $40,000,000 Deal.

The Tennessee Valley authority will begin negotiations next week for northern Alabama properties of the Alabama Power company, the company announced yesterday. Thomas W. Martin, the utility's president, made the announcement at Birmingham, Ala. The properties involved are valued at $40,000,000, he said.

Martin said the chief obstacle to an agreement will be to "establish a line to bound the territory in which TVA and Alabama Power will operate."

Alabama Power is a subsidiary of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, which last Saturday agreed to sell Tennessee properties to the TVA for $78,600,000. This purchase marked the TVA's greatest single step in expanding its utility empire in the south.

Map Traces TVA Growth.

The accompanying map shows the growth of the TVA empire. TVA's first power merchandising effort was in northeast Mississippi—No. 1 on the map. The area marked No. 2 shows the northern Alabama properties which TVA acquired and developed. Area No. 3 is that embraced in the present Commonwealth and Southern agreement which includes the $78,600,000 sale announced Saturday. This sale involved properties of the Tennessee Electric Power company, a Commonwealth and Southern unit.

In areas Nos. 4 and 5 are located Commonwealth and Southern properties in north Alabama and Mississippi. Negotiations for the sale of these properties are scheduled to begin next week.

Area No. 6 includes the Knoxville, Tenn., properties which TVA and the municipality acquired last fall from subsidiaries of Electric Bond and Share company.

Area No. 7 is the Memphis, Tenn., district. The TVA and the municipality are negotiating with Electric Bond and Share company for its subsidiaries operating there.

Eliminates Private Firms.

Completion of the pending deals will eliminate private utility operation from the entire district and place it under government operation.

In Washington, President Roosevelt said at a press conference that the agreement to sell Tennessee Power and Electric company properties to the TVA was an excellent solution of a difficult problem.

In the house, Representative Dirksen [R., Ill.] ridiculed TVA as a "vast inland empire that is freezing strawberries, inventing electric haymakers, planting trees, generating electricity, and spewing concrete over 500,000 acres of land.

BOND GROUP ASKS OUSTER OF COAL COMPANY HEAD

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Counsel for a minority group of Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company bondholders charged at a hearing today that Ralph E. Taggart, company president, was "incompetent" and "should be ousted at once."

Archibald Palmer, New York, made the statement during arguments on his petition for a trustee to handle the company's affairs while it is being reorganized under the bankruptcy laws. The bondholders charge the company officials with "waste and mismanagement."

Palmer said he would ask United States Senator James J. Davis [R., Pa.] to press for a federal investigation of the company.

RAIL CAR MAKER REPORTS SLUMP IN 1938 PROFITS

Other Big Companies Also Earn Less.

The General American Transportation corporation, large Chicago company which manufactures, leases and sells railroad freight cars, yesterday reported sharply lower earnings for 1938. Several other corporations also reported decreased income for last year. The Chicago Flexible Shaft company, however, reported increased profits.

Consolidated net profit of General Transportation amounted to $3,004,899 in the year ended Dec. 31, it was announced in a preliminary report for the year. This was equal to $2.90 a share on the outstanding common stock, and compared with net income of $4,452,656, or $4.44 a share, in the preceding year. The 1938 figures are subject to final audit.

Brake Shoe Profit Lower.

The 1938 net income of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company totaled $1,080,719, or $1.03 a common share, President William B. Given Jr. reported. In 1937 net income was $3,410,798, or $4.01 a share. Given said the year closed with a somewhat better outlook for the railroads, which are his company's most important customers.

The company plans to increase expenditures for plant improvements in 1939 in expectation of better business, Given said.

The Bastian-Blessing company, maker of gas pressure regulating equipment and soda fountain equipment, reported net earnings in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 totaled $307,843, against $456,180 in the preceding fiscal year. This was equivalent to $1.57 a share in 1938, compared with $2.42 a share in 1937.

Standard Brands Profit Dips.

In the year ended Dec. 31 Standard Brands, Inc., and subsidiaries had net income of $8,721,305, which was equal to 62 cents a share on the common stock. In the preceding year net earnings were $9,889,234, or 73 cents a share.

Net profit for 1938 of the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, electrical appliance manufacturer, and subsidiaries totaled $1,683,762, compared with net profit of $1,120,947 for the preceding year.

SHIFT ON C. & O. BOARD REVEALED BY R. R. YOUNG

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Robert R. Young, chairman of the Alleghany corporation, announced tonight that John C. Myers, Ohio industrialist, had resigned from the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad board of directors.

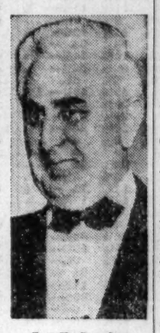
Young rejected, however, a suggestion that the change in the board foreshadowed a renewal of the Young-Guaranty Trust company 1938 battle for control of the $750,000,000 C. & O. system.

He said also that his "fight to open up the Cincinnati Union Terminal company financing to competitive bidding had been won." C. & O. owns a one-seventh interest in the Terminal property. The Terminal company's finance committee announced it will ask the interstate commerce commission for authority to refund $12,000,000 of series D 5 per cent bonds on a competitive bidding basis.

Last week Young charged the committee was ignoring an offer from "independent bankers" who he said made a bid $900,000 below that of a "small Wall street clique."

Closing of Banks Forces FDIC to Dip Into Surplus First Time

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation announced today that closing of banks during the recession forced it to dip into surplus to pay expenses last year. This is the first time this has occurred since the FDIC was organized in 1933.



Leo T. Crowley reports fewer banks insured.

In former years the corporation paid all expenses out of the interest on investments without touching revenue it acquires from assessing insured banks.

In 1938, however, expenses totaled $11,709,846 and interest on investments was $9,440,187. Because the corporation had $38,313,332 additional income from assessments, it was able to add to its surplus, which now totals $131,244,960.

During the year the FDIC paid off the depositors or helped merge seventy-three banks, compared with thirty-one the preceding year. Payments totaling $59,285,000 were made to 197,240 depositors. Only ninety-five depositors in banks that closed were not fully protected by the insurance, which is limited to accounts of $5,000 each or less.

Last year's expenses included $3,012,607 administrative cost and $8,697,238 loss or expense in connection with bank failures or mergers.

Chairman Leo T. Crowley said in the report that close supervision by federal and state authorities held the number of new banks chartered last year to nine, of which three were admitted to the insurance system.

Offsetting the insurance of 48 previously uninsured banks were 49 banks which closed because of insolvency, 22 which were absorbed by other banks to prevent insolvency, 116 which closed because of other types of mergers or voluntary liquidations, and 5 which withdrew from or were suspended from the insurance system.

Chicago Bank to Liquidate; Unprofitable

Liquidation of the West Thirty-first State bank, 555 West Thirty-first street, will be announced within the next few days to the more than 3,000 depositors of the institution, it was learned yesterday. Letters describing the action of stockholders at a meeting on Jan. 18 are being prepared, according to Arthur I. Chap, acting president and cashier. Depositors will be paid in full.

The bank's inability to obtain a profitable return on its investments under present market conditions prompted the stockholders' decision, Chap said. Prospects for improvement in the securities market in the near future appeared unlikely, he added, and this further influenced the decision of the bank's stockholders to begin liquidation.

Bank Established In 1921.

The bank was established in May, 1921. Its total deposits on Dec. 31, 1938, were $707,842. At the close of business the preceding year deposits were $675,985, compared with $550,000 on Dec. 31, 1936. Capitalization is $100,000. There are about 60 stockholders, according to Chap.

"Our situation is unusual at the present time because the majority of our accounts represent savings," Chap explained. "The real profit in banking comes from commercial accounts, and the business community in the neighborhood we serve is not large enough to bring us enough accounts to offset the low return we receive from money invested through our savings accounts."

Bank Is Family Institution.

Management of the bank has been in the Chap family since the institution was opened. Arthur Chap said yesterday he and his brother, Frank, plan to go into a real estate and mortgage business founded by their father when liquidation is completed.

NAZIS DEMAND U. S. EXPLORER PAY SHIP FINE WITH DOLLARS

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—When Commander Sergius M. Riis, American explorer, tried today to save his seized ship, the Andromeda, from public auction tomorrow at Koenigsburg, Germany, he learned that leading German companies will not accept payment of American debts in reichsmarks. They demand American dollars instead.

Commander Riis, whose ship is held in default of a $10,000 fine levied by Nazis, arranged through the Chase National Bank to pay the sum, 41,000 reichsmarks, to reclaim the ship, but received a cabled reply declining the offer.

The state department at Washington has instructed its consul in Berlin to investigate. The ship was seized under mysterious circumstances Oct. 11 and, according to Riis, "is being held for ransom in American money."

CRUDE OIL FLOW MAKES SHARPEST UPTURN IN YEARS

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Crude oil production made the sharpest gain for this season of the year since 1933 in the week ended Feb. 4, the American Petroleum Institute reported today.

The crude flow jumped 193,700 barrels daily to 3,441,950 barrels as a result of Texas boosting its run. Texas wells were allowed to flow the fifth Sunday in January. Texas does not produce on four Saturdays and four Sundays in a month. If the month contains five Sundays or Saturdays the wells produce on the fifth one.

Refinery operations were curtailed, runs-to-stills averaging 3,140,000 barrels daily, against 3,235,000 barrels the preceding week and 3,149,000 last year.

GEN'L MOTORS EARNINGS EQUAL $2.17 A SHARE

Income Rises in Last Quarter of 1938.

Net income of the General Motors corporation—world's largest automotive company—for 1938 was $102,320,000, equal to $2.17 a share on the common stock, the company reported yesterday. The figure is preliminary, subject to final audit.

For 1937 the corporation's net income was $196,436,598, equal to $4.38 a share. In 1936 the net income was $238,482,425, or $5.35 a share.

The company was able to make its favorable showing for the year as a result of the substantial upturn in business that occurred in the latter part of the year. Its earnings for the fourth quarter exceeded earnings for the first three quarters of 1938.

Fourth Quarter Income Climbs.

The indicated net income for the fourth quarter was $63,932,293, equal to $1.43 a share on the common stock. In the like 1937 period net income was $41,478,598, or 92 cents a share.

The sharp decline in general business which started late in 1937 and continued until the fall of 1938 was reflected in the company's earnings in the first three quarters of the year.

In the three months ended March 31 net income was $8,234,017, equal to 14 cents a share; in the period ended June 30 it was $24,786,002, or 52 cents a share and in the three months ended Sept. 30, it was only $5,367,688, or 7 cents a share. The total for the first three quarters of this year was $38,387,707, equal to 73 cents a share.

Subsidiary Results Included.

The company's 1938 net income includes the company's proportion of profits and losses of subsidiary companies whose earnings are not consolidated with those of the parent concern, and are figured after depreciation, federal and foreign income taxes and other deductions.

Declaration of a 75 cent dividend by the directors of General Motors on Monday is taken to indicate their confidence that the business upturn which started late last year will continue this year.

BIG SHIPMENTS OF GOLD REACH U. S. FROM ABROAD

Gold cargoes unofficially estimated at $18,500,000 arrived yesterday in New York to supplement the nation's vast monetary supply. The bulk of the shipments, which were the largest in recent weeks, came from England. These totaled about $10,250,000. The remaining $8,250,000 came from Holland.

The New York Federal Reserve bank announced the engagement of $5,500,000 of gold in Japan and $551,000 in England for shipment to this country.

"Planning Ahead for 1939"

FOR some months, fundamental conditions have been pointing to 1939 as a year of activity. Whatever the more distant future may hold, the current year should develop a period of expansion. Those who act decisively will put themselves in position for business and investment profits.

A hit-or-miss, day-to-day program can bring at best only a temporary and precarious advantage, only a gamble. For a sound success, observance of basic principles is essential.

As for your business:—are you thinking of expanding or contracting?

As to investments—Do you want now to buy stocks, bonds or real estate? What proportion of your total holdings shall each of the different types of securities represent? And—how will you shape your plans for investment in securities so as to have that plan firm, yet flexible?

Get the fundamental and basic facts. Look backward and around. Look well ahead. Then lay your plans.

In proper planning, careful selection must be made. All securities will not advance alike. All industries will not gain momentum on a common front. The underlying facts must govern.

To gather these facts, statistically classified, a complete organization is required with a background of long personal experience and data continuously compiled from widespread sources. Even if you had all such statistics in your office, the mere clerical expense of sorting them and typing them for your perusal might well exceed the moderate cost of a thoroly competent Service.

While Babson's Reports point out from time to time specific business and investment opportunities, there is further value to you in being kept in touch continuously with the underlying trends. Steady success in business or investments calls for continuity of service.

Babson's Reports, rightly utilized, bring you such continuity. They will help you thru 1939 and thereafter, month after month, by continuously presenting the facts. New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Stock market prices slipped fractions to more than a point today in extremely quiet trading. The turnover was 570,040 shares, against 1,040,810 shares Monday.

The list opened lower in continuation of Mondays late selling. After early sales dried up, prices fluctuated narrowly until early afternoon, when losses were extended. Closing prices were around the day's lows.

The setback was ascribed chiefly to the failure of the list to push higher on the basis of favorable news affecting the utility and other industries.

Power and light shares contributed the bulk of activity. Commonwealth and Southern common dipped in the most active trading of the day. The preferred stock slumped 2⅝ points. Active and lower utility stocks included North American company, Consolidated Edison, American Power and Light, and Columbia Gas and Electric.

Pivotal industrial issues were soft throughout. Steels showed declines running to 1⅜ points in Bethlehem. Chrysler was heavy in the motors, dropping 1⅛ points. General Motors gave up ½ point, despite announcement of the 75 cent dividend.

Most aviation issues declined fractionally. Glenn Martin, however, worked against the tide, advancing 1¼ points on good buying.

Rail shares again were content to follow the other sections.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A slump in the secondary and defaulted rail group led the bond market to lower levels today. Losses were sprinkled around in almost every division.

Utility loans, which pushed ahead for a time to new highs in some instances, slipped in later trading. A few gains showed at the close, but losses were predominant.

United States treasury direct and guaranteed issues reflected lack of demand, and losses ran as much as 6-32 of a point. The foreign list was mixed.

Among the carrier liens to lose ground were Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s at 12⅛, Illinois Central 4¾s at 50½, and St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s at 11½.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were slightly lower yesterday in sluggish trading. Only 20,000 shares changed hands. Of the ninety-six issues traded nineteen advanced, forty-eight declined, and the rest were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were mostly lower in dull trading yesterday, dealers reported. Bids closed $2 lower to $1 higher. Shares of the Harris Trust and Savings bank declined $2 and those of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company slipped 50 cents. First National bank stock gained $1.

ONE MAN TO RULE U. S. RADIO UNDER ROOSEVELT PLAN

McNinch Slated as Czar, Naming Own Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Communications commission, will be the czar of radio if President Roosevelt's scheme to revamp the legal framework and administrative machinery of the commission wins approval in congress, it was learned today.

Frank R. McNinch.

Under the plan, if approved, membership of the commission will be reduced from seven to three. McNinch will remain as chairman and name his two colleagues, thus actually dominating the commission which to all outward purposes will appear as a three man body.

McNinch has been seeking complete control over the commission ever since he was made its chairman on Aug. 17, 1937. The suggestion that congress should define a policy for the body and at the same time perfect its machinery, which the President urged in letters to chairmen of the senate and house interstate commerce committees, was reported to have come from McNinch.

Power Through Purges.

Since he took over the office the wiry North Carolinian has been increasing his power through a series of purges by which he has removed key officials and replaced them with men of his own selection.

Congressional reorganization will give him an opportunity for a wholesale purge to effect his control over the body at one swoop, rather than through the slower process now at his command.

McNinch was transferred to the FCC from the federal power commission, where he was a holdover from the Hoover administration. An ardent prohibitionist, he deserted the Democratic party and Alfred E. Smith in 1928 and was rewarded with a post on the power board.

The plans for reorganizing the communications commission are being developed from questionnaires which have been sent to radio stations, station owners, and station stockholders. The fifth in the series of questionnaires went out recently.

Demand Swor Answers.

The questionnaires, which range from ten to fifteen pages of closely typewritten questions, call for answer under oath to numerous questions bearing on every phase of operation of radio stations and their relationship to owners, to stockholders, to radio chains, and to each other.

The questions are aimed particularly at probing relations between direct and indirect ownership of any two stations and the relations of all stations and their officers to other interests, such as communications companies, newspapers, and amusement enterprises.

Officials said they do not expect to choose what the commission considers the best form of management from the answers to the questionnaires and impose it on all stations. They said they merely are seeking to determine whether a monopoly exists in the industry, and information upon which to base the revamping of the commission.

North Avenue Beach Bids Received by Park Trustees

Bids for the construction of the North avenue beach and beachhouse were received yesterday by Chicago park trustees. The Harvey A. Hanson Construction company, 1851 Elston avenue, was the lowest of thirteen bidders for the beachhouse contract with an estmate of $93,358. The house is to be completed by September and will resemble the superstructure of an ocean liner. It is to be 440 feet long. The Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, 104 South Michigan avenue, was low bidder for 5,500 cubic yards of sand fill for the beach in front of the house with an estimate of $295,350.

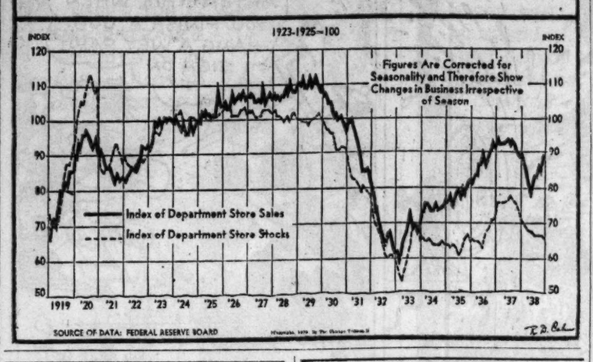
Excessive Inventories Are Not a Department Store Problem



MERCHANT CHIEF EXPECTS UPTURN IN RETAIL TRADE

Interstate Meeting Attendance 16,000.

A substantial pick-up in the nation's retail business during the remainder of this year was predicted yesterday by Louis A. Jacques, president of the Interstate Merchants' council. Jacques, a Rockford, Ill., merchant, spoke at the dedication of a new retail section in the Merchandise Mart.

Louis A. Jacques.

He said that business now has the confidence, good will, and respect of employés and the public. Recent changes in the membership of congress, he added, may be counted on to bring greater government coöperation with business and a better understanding of business problems.

Many Merchants Attend Meeting.

About 16,000 merchants and store officials are in Chicago to attend the Interstate Merchants' council, which is sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce. They come from thirty-seven states and Canada to attend the many merchandise shows, sales clinics, and other evenis being held in connection with the council's meeting.

"All reliable indices in our major industries point toward a bright future," Jacques declared.

Increases in employment and in public's income in all parts of the country will gradually be felt by retailers, he said.

Predicts Strong Revival.

"Regardless of the temporary lull, which we are experiencing in the retail business, the strong upsurge in the closing months of 1938 will reappear and continue its upward course for the next several months, gaining ground by mid-year," Jacques predicted. "The outlook is infinitely more cheerful than that which we faced at this time a year ago."

Officials of the Interstate Merchants' council said that sales of women's dresses, millinery, and variety goods have been running from 10 to 12 per cent ahead of the volume of last year's winter market. Some of the supply houses were reported to have booked business that will keep them busy from eight to ten weeks.

At the gift show at the Palmer House business was reported to be running ahead of last year. About 2,400 persons have registered at this show.

URGES LIFE OF U. S. CREDIT AGENCIES BE EXTENDED TO 1941

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation recommended today that congress extend the functions of the Commodity Credit corporation and Export-Import bank continue the lending powers of the RFC until Feb. 15, 1941.

Jones, making the recommendation to the house banking committee, said the date was suggested by President Roosevelt. The powers will expire next June 30 unless extended.

That date was chosen, he said, because a new presidential term and a new congressional session begin in January, 1941, and there might be a desire then to change or discontinue these functions.

In reply to a question by Representative Thomas F. Ford [D., Cal.], Jones said he did not think it would be feasible to establish an industrial loan corporation to insure loans to business men just as the Federal Housing authority insures loans on private homes.

Jones told the committee later it looked as if there would be no more than a $10,000,000 loss on a $90,000,000 loan to the old Dawes bank [Central Republic Bank and Trust company] in Chicago and that there would be "little loss if any" on RFC loans to railroads.

THERE'S A LAW AGAINST IT.

Investors' Guide: I own stock in a small Illinois manufacturing concern that lost money for five or six years in a row. Somehow it was able to show a good profit last year, however, and I wrote the president that I thought we stockholders were entitled to a dividend for a change. He replied that no dividends are in order, because the company still has a deficit on the books. Why does the deficit make any difference in dividends if the company is making profits?—B. T.

Answer: There is a law in Illinois forbidding a corporation to pay dividends while it still has a deficit on the balance sheet. If companies followed a practice of paying dividends when there was no surplus from which to pay, they would soon be financially in a bad way. If the deficit is later wiped out by earnings, you may have a better case for dividends.

A. T. & T.'S SURPLUS.

Investors' Guide: I notice from American Telephone's report of 1938 earnings that the company did not make enough profit to cover dividends, but that the dividends were paid anyway, partly from surplus. How much surplus was used, and about how large is the remaining surplus?—A. R.

Answer: American Telephone's net income was $16,144,000 less than the amount of dividends paid on the common stock in 1938. Earnings equaled $8.14 a share against the $9 a share paid in dividends. Surplus of the parent company was reduced by the dividend payments to about $155,000,000. Four years ago—Dec. 31, 1934, surplus totaled $226,000,000.

RFC PROPS TO RAILROADS.

Investors' Guide: They say that so many railroads have borrowed from the government. How has this been carried out, and which roads have borrowed the most?—R. M.

Answer: Loans to the railroads have been made through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, government lending agency. The railroads owed the RFC more than $420,000,000 on Nov. 30, 1938.

The five leading railroad debtors and the amounts owed to the RFC were:

Baltimore & Ohio	$83,000,000
Southern Railway	42,600,000
Chicago & N. W.	42,250,000
Illinois Central	35,150,000
Colorado & Southern	27,850,000

NO KINSHIP.

Investors' Guide: Is there any tie-up between Commonwealth Edison and the Commonwealth Gas corporation? —B. T.

Answer: No. They are not related.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

A BARGAIN IN MILES

A shrewd used car buyer does not think in terms of shiny paint and flashy chrome, but the miles he expects to get out of the transportation he buys.

Our new process puts mileage as well as fine appearance into COMMUNITY RENEWED used cars. COMMUNITY RENEWED cars cost no more than ordinary used cars.

You can only prove that statement to yourself by visiting one of our stores and inspecting both our cars and prices.
